The Latin Heart of English Marc Loewenthal 2008-04-01 Vocabulary is a fundamental part of language learning. This book practises English vocabulary by selecting some of the most important roots in Latin as the focus for studying their derivations together by comparing their meanings and practising affixation. Latin roots form the basis of the major part of modern English vocabulary, especially the type of vocabulary that students need to learn in order to progress to more advanced levels. Latin also provides a rich variety of prefixes and suffixes which work together with the roots to produce new vocabulary. This book provides a unique opportunity for students of English to learn important new vocabulary, to examine how words are formed and to generalise across the roots how affixes create and change meaning. The book consists of explanatory notes on the history of Latin words in English, notes on pronunciation and prefixation, explanatory notes on the roots, and a hundred exercises practising over one thousand words.

Secrets of "Men are from Mars, Women are from Venus" PAUL CARNEGIE 2019-11-25 Reading through the book Men Are From Mars, Women Are From Venus which was written by American author and relationship counselor John Gray, after he had earned degrees in meditation and taken a correspondence course in psychology. The book was published on January 1, 1992. It provides a practical and proven way for men and women to improve their communication by acknowledging the differences between their needs, desires, and behaviors. Absolutely, there is no other relationship guide on the market that will give you the same level of evidence-based insight sure to help you strengthen and nurture your relationships for years to come more than this book. In the book Men Are From Mars, Women Are From Venus, the author opines that most prevalent relationship challenges between men and women are as a result of fundamental psychological differences between the sexes, which the author demonstrates by means of its eponymous metaphor: that men and women are from separate planets, that is, men are from Mars while women are from Venus; and that each sex is wont to its own planet's society and customs, but not to those of the other. One example John Gray gave was that men's complaint that if they offer solutions to problems that women bring up in conversation, the women are not necessarily interested in solving those problems, but mainly want to discuss about them. The book avers each sex can be understood in terms of their unique ways they respond to stress and stressful situations. In the book, the author wrote: "When a man can listen to a woman's feelings without getting angry and frustrated, he gives her a wonderful gift. He makes it safe for her to express herself. The more she is able to express herself, the more she feels heard and understood, and the more she is able to give a man the loving trust, acceptance, appreciation, admiration, approval, and encouragement that he needs." This explains that when a man genuinely listens to the emotions of a woman by not being upset, he is showing her she is safe with him and understood as well. And she reciprocates this gesture with love, trust and encouragement a man needs. Likewise, when he stated that, "Men are motivated when they feel needed while women are motivated when they feel cherished." This is just the basic fact of a successful relationship or marriage by the author. In the world of many self-help books we are, there are very few titles that can be compared with the popularity of John Gray's Men Are From Mars, Women Are From Venus. Interestingly, when this title was first published in 1992, it not only helped educate countless men and women from around the globe, but it managed to nestle its way into popular culture and become an instant classic. In spite of the fun, metaphoric and catchy title, this book essentially tackles a very serious relationship issues in many male or female relationships we have today -which can be said to be a lack of effective communication. In lieu of focusing blame on one person or one gender, this book dives into some of the inherent differences between the way males and females communicate. As it is a well known fact that communication is one of the most central factors in finding the right balance, genuine love and loyalty in a long term relationship. Well, based on the concept that men and women are living on different "planets," this book helps to not only identify these differences for the opposing gender, but to offer solutions on how both men and women can meet in the middle to have better, more productive communication strategies. The author deliberately lays big emphasis placed on love - since it is a relationship advice book. One of the biggest takeaways about love from the book actually has nothing to do with talking, it is all about showing. This is one of the biggest keys to keeping the love alive in long-term relationships. This is a very important lesson to note throughout the book, Men Are From Mars, Women Are From Venus, as communication isn't always about talking or telling someone something, it is often about showing them or using non-verbal communication in order to get your message across. According to Men Are From Mars, Women Are From Venus, men will give and give until they are pleased with what they have done. This can be with emotions, money, effort, work, or physical objects. However, women will typically give with the hope that the man will return the gesture. This is where a lot of disconnect can happen. Now, let's take a vivid look at where communication falls short. Where communication falls short Both man and woman may feel as though they are doing everything they can to show their love and that they are giving love the way they want to receive it. But, the opposing party may not recognize this, and may actually think that their partner is not showing love at all. This is one tip that both men and women should keep in the back of their minds as they continue to take John Gray's relationship advice, as many communication disconnects or crumbles, it may actually stem from this one major issue. If both parties can understand that the other partner simply has a different interpretation of what it means to show and give love, they can move forward. To cap it all, everyone has a different love language. How To Improve Communication In A Relationship There are so many little things that men and women can both do in order to improve their communication lines, yet one of the classic disconnects between these two genders often comes when women are not as direct with men while communicating. There is an old story about men and women communicating that perfectly depict how this lack of directness can cause misunderstandings. A man and a woman are driving down the street. The woman points at the ice cream store and says "look! The ice cream store is open." The man says "Yes, it is," and keeps driving. Later that evening, the woman is upset and asks "Why didn't you stop for ice cream when I asked?" The man is confused and says, "I never heard you ask to stop for ice cream." It may be either small or inconsequential example, but it is one that many people in male or female relationships can relate to. What went wrong? Both parties thought they said and heard different things in the same conversation. This is one of the reasons why communication tends to be more effective when women are more direct. According to John Gray, if a woman wants to go do something with a man, she shouldn't just ask him what he wants to do. She should, instead, tell him what she wants to do, and then ask him to join. This is an instance of direct communication that doesn't blur the lines and allows both parties to communicate more clearly. How to make communication work The following scenario was suggested by: - The woman gives the man three options of what she wants to do on a date, a week in advance. - The man gets to decide, but doesn't tell the woman until the date happens. - This allows the woman to anticipate the date all week, while the man gets to feel as though he made a decision, while still receiving clear communication on what types of dates the woman wanted to go on. It may sound like a lot of work, but the key is to start with direct communication on the woman's part. It can open up new doorways to successful interaction that both parties may have never thought were possible. In addition, emotions have great impact as regards how we communicate. They can entice us to say certain things, hold different things in, or even respond in ways we may have never thought we would. Emotions can also alter our body language and the way we give off signals to one another, even when we don't realize we are doing it. Yes, it can be safe to state that women's emotions go up and down and have really high-highs and really low-lows. In general, women's emotions tend to fluctuate more than men's do. Men tend to be a bit steadier with their emotions, which can be both positive and negative. While they may not have as deep of a dive into depression, they may also not experience as high of a high when they are happy. All this now depend on how each sex processes "alone time." As well, men are much more prone to want alone time when they feel scared or uncomfortable. Men need to be left alone where they feel safe. It scientifically helps them to build up their testosterone and think more clearly. If given the time to retreat to his safe space, a man will come out of this "alone time" once he has handled the problem internally and finally. On the other hand, a woman may feel better by talking it out. She may not understand why her male partner wants to spend time alone processing the issue. Allowing women and men to process emotions in a way that is comfortable and natural to them is an essential component to keeping communications lines free and open. You Should Learn To Show Appreciation So much of Men Are From Mars, Women Are From Venus is about the differences between men and women, but there is one big similarity between men and women in relationships—showing understanding is key. Men and women are different. They are different physically, biologically, emotionally, almost in every way. Yet, the reason so many of these relationships can work out in the end is because these differences provide a balance. You just need to find that balance. Get to know your partner more intimately If you sincerely take the time to really get to understand your partner, it can go a long way in helping them feel loved, valued, and appreciated. Men and women are different, and it is important to accept and understand this. You may be speaking different languages, but if you take the time to really talk to your partner and attempt to understand the place they are coming from it can speak volumes. For instance, take the time to do things like ask questions, put yourself in the other person's shoes, or even read relationship advice books, like Men Are From Mars, Women Are From Venus, to show the other person that you want to understand them better because you appreciate who they are and that you want to communicate more clearly and effectively. Mind you, this can help restore energy in your romantic relationship so that you and your partner can continue to keep your relationship as healthy as possible.

Girl, Don't You Jump Rope! Betty Anne Hennings Jackson 2014-08-22 The life experiences revealed in GIRL, DON'T YOU JUMP ROPE! make this memoir by Betty Anne Jackson, truly engrossing. There were no signs that read "colored" or "white", yet everyone knew where the boundaries were in 40's and 50's Chicago. And, being 'colored' meant there was no way to escape the limits that segregation imposed on one's life. The author describes attending a ghetto school, as well as encountering a hostile experience at university level, and then a cross-burning on the lawn of the vacation home she and her husband shared with friends. With humor, she paints a heartfelt portrait of the contrasts between the tree-lined neighborhood of her very early years and the harsh realities of how ghetto living can engulf the human spirit. Betty Anne had no choice other than to grow up in one of the earliest housing projects on the south side of Chicago, but she always struggled to be FROM the project...not OF the project! This is the story of that struggle.

Money Power & Love Demettrea Shantay 2015-05-16 Dream was now eight months pregnant and stress free. No she wasn't over Semaj but she had come to accept the fact that they weren't going to be together. She had even met Semaj's new girlfriend. She didn't like her but whatever. Today was her baby shower. Even though she had told Morgan she didn't want one, she threw her one anyway. She should have known better because Morgan was hardheaded. But she would definitely get Morgan back when it was time for her to have a shower. When she thought about Morgan being pregnant she smiled. She was really happy for Keenan and Morgan. They were the cutest couple. Dream checked to make sure she had everything she needed before walking out of the house. She was ready for this day to be over already. She didn't know if Semaj would be there but she was hoping he would. Lately she was happy just to see his sexy face. She smiled at the nickname she had given him when they first met. She really thought he was the one but she had messed that up. After making sure she had everything she headed out of the door, never paying attention to her surroundings. "Get in the driver's side and don't make any sudden moves." Dream felt the cold steel pressed against her back and she panicked. She remembered that voice but was mad at herself for taking this woman lightly. She never told anyone about her run-in with her because she thought she was a joke and now here Semaj's ex was kidnapping her. She prayed for her and her baby's safety. She did as she was told and got in the car while thinking of a plan. "Now drive and follow my directions. If you try anything stupid your brains will be splattered all over this car, got it?" Karma laughed. Dream couldn't believe this was happening to her. What she didn't know was that Karma had been diagnosed with bipolar disease and multiple personality disorder. Even though Semaj had never dated her a day in her life, in her mind they were a couple and Dream stole him from her, so she had to pay. To be completely honest the only contact she and Semaj ever had was a simple hi and bye. They only fucked once. Karma was what you called an around-the-way girl. She wanted to be with the hood's dope boy and Semaj was that one. He was fine, rich, and the hood's most wanted man. Every female around wanted a chance just to say they had been with him. "Why are you doing this?" Dream asked through gritted teeth. Had she not been pregnant things would have went differently because she was far from afraid but she had to think logically; she had another life to think about. "Because you stole my man," Karma replied. "But I'm not even with Semaj. He has a girlfriend." Karma didn't believe Dream. She felt like she was making a mockery of her because she knew for sure that they were together. "Shut up! You're lying. Why are you lying to me?!" she yelled. "I'm not. We broke up." Karma smirked and Dream shook her head. This bitch is crazy, she thought. She couldn't have been more wrong. "So this isn't his baby?" She pointed the gun at Dream's stomach. Dream knew then she had to fight, even if only her baby survived. She had to find a way to turn this situation around and fast. "Look, I don't know what you want but this isn't the right way to handle things," Dream tried to reason with her. "Shut up! I need to think!" Karma yelled. Dream kept driving but she watched Karma through her peripheral view. After a careful debate Dream decided to make her move. She reached for the gun that was pointed at her stomach but Karma was ready. Now with both women pulling at the gun shit was getting real. The car started to swerve and Dream felt like things were going south. She tried to get hold of the gun and keep control of the car but it wasn't easy. She didn't know why she reached for the gun but she did and was now regretting it. All she could think about was her baby and how she'd never meet her. Before she knew it the car swerved one last time before running into a tree. Everything went black.

But one day she realizes that she's taken things too far, and it's too late to do anything about it. Can she walk away and leave the best thing that's ever happened to her? Randy's wake-up call comes like a bat out of hell, and when he least expects it. The only thing that has kept his focus in such a tumultuous industry is the one thing that he's about to lose for good, and the worst part is, he has to be the one to walk away from it. But when Ireland shows up for the popular Lake Tahoe booze cruise he runs, she finds his handsome older brother at the helm instead. Bran likes things structured and predictable. Headstrong Ireland is nothing Bran wants, and everything he needs. "Wonderful characters and beautiful family." ~ Julia, Reviewer EXCERPT Bran stretched his neck and let out a sigh. "I'm sorry... About the boat incident." "You mean the kiss?" "I meant the hands. The kiss had been coming." The corner of his mouth quirked. "I liked the hands," she said, her blood boiling with annoyance. "It was the words out of your mouth I could have done without." Bran's eyes darkened. "Good to know. Next time, less talking and more touching." Ireland's jaw dropped. "Who says there will be a next time?" "You didn't say there wouldn't." Pregnancy Over 40 Kelley D. Smith 2012-05-10 Pregnancy Over 40: An In-depth Guide for a Safe and Healthy Pregnancy Over 40 There are a lot of reasons why women put off having children. In most cases, they prioritized their careers over their own personal life. Others were just simply not ready for the commitment that motherhood demands. Becoming a mother is one of the most fulfilling jobs that everyone would be lucky enough to go through during their entire lifetime. The problem is that despite the fact that this is seen by some as a gift, there are also others that see it as a tiring job - fulfilling but at some point, it can take a lot out of you. The fact is that getting pregnant in your 40's is no easy task. The probability of conceiving alone is quite low in comparison to women who are in their 20's or early 30's. But this does not mean that a woman in her 40's cannot bear a child. If you are in your 40's and have found out that you are pregnant, there are a lot of things that you should prepare for. Although there are a lot of articles and other written works that say that getting pregnant in your 40's can lead to a lot of problems for both you and your child, there are still a couple of upsides to this situation. We have an entire chapter dedicated to what you can look forward to when you are having a baby during this delicate age.

Maternal Death and Pregnancy-Related Morbidity Among Indigenous Women of Mexico and Central America David A. Schwartz 2018-05-31 This ambitious sourcebook surveys both the traditional basis for and the present state of indigenous women's reproductive health in Mexico and Central America. Noted practitioners, specialists, and researchers take an interdisciplinary approach to analyze the multiple barriers for access and care to indigenous women that had been complicated by longstanding gender inequities, poverty, stigmatization, lack of education, war, obstetrical violence, and differences in language and customs, all of which contribute to unnecessary maternal morbidity and mortality. Emphasis is placed on indigenous cultures and folkways—from traditional midwives and birth attendants to indigenous botanical medication and traditional healing and spiritual practices—and how they may effectively coexist with modern biomedical care. Throughout these chapters, the main theme is clear: the rights of indigenous women to culturally respectful reproductive health care and a successful pregnancy leading to the birth of healthy children. A sampling of the topics: Motherhood and modernization in a Yucatec village Maternal morbidity and mortality in Honduran Miskito communities Solitary birth and maternal mortality among the Rarámuri of Northern Mexico Maternal morbidity and mortality in the rural Trifino region of Guatemala The traditional Ngäbe-Buglé midwives of Panama Characterizations of maternal death among Mayan women in Yucatan, Mexico Unintended pregnancy, unsafe abortion, and unmet need in Guatemala Maternal Death and Pregnancy-Related Morbidity Among Indigenous Women of Mexico and Central America is designed for anthropologists and other social scientists, physicians, nurses and midwives, public health specialists, epidemiologists, global health workers, international aid organizations and NGOs, governmental agencies, administrators, policy-makers, and others involved in the planning and implementation of maternal and reproductive health care of indigenous women in Mexico and Central America, and possibly other geographical areas.

The Latin Heart of English: English Vocabulary Practice Volume 1 Compact Edition Marc Loewenthal 2008-05-12 Vocabulary is a fundamental part of language learning. This book practises English vocabulary by selecting some of the most important roots in Latin as the focus for studying their derivations together by comparing their meanings and practising affixation. Latin roots form the basis of the major part of modern English vocabulary, especially the type of vocabulary that students need to learn in order to progress to more advanced levels. Latin also provides a rich variety of prefixes and suffixes which work together with the roots to produce new vocabulary. This book provides a unique opportunity for students of English to learn important new vocabulary, to examine how words are formed and to generalise across the roots how affixes create and change meaning. The book consists of explanatory notes on the history of Latin words in English, notes on pronunciation and prefixation, explanatory notes on the roots, and a hundred exercises practising over one thousand words.
