Trust, Love & Loyalty C L Fletcher 2023-01-19 Part 1 For some, trust, love, and loyalty is a matter of perspective. To others, it's a way of life... After a lifelong friendship, Lailani and Simba are finally getting married. They've faced many obstacles together, but right when Lailani thinks everything is calm, they're faced with more problems. A blast from the past threatens to ruin the life they built together and thought they'd always have. Lailani and Simba promised to hold on and never let each other go, but will their loyalty be tested yet again? Exactly how far will they go to protect their peace and their union? Melanie and Quincy have gone through the storm and rain together, including facing the death of their first child. They were once a couple who had everything and thought they'd be together forever, but trust issues got in the way. Circumstances in life brought them together again, but not as a couple. They seem to have a love-hate thing going on, but is it to only cover the true feelings they still have for each other? Unfortunately, more trust issues arise and it can affect everything, including their ability to participate in Simba and Lailani's wedding together. Lauren has done well getting her life back on track after overcoming a drug addiction and doing a bid in prison. However, one of her weaknesses has always been making hasty decisions involving relationships. She finds herself struggling with her feelings for Darian and not allowing them to put her back at square one. She's a woman in love, but she also has too much to lose if things go wrong. She's faced with a decision between letting love win or giving in to other people's demands on how she should live her life. Charisma is a single mother who wants three important things: trust, love, and loyalty. While that's not too much for her to ask, she seems to break the code of all three. She's fortunate to have Vamp step up and help her raise a child that's not his, but she still has feelings for him. In an effort to break up his relationship with Keyani, she hooks up with his enemy, thinking that'll make him come back to her. She has a lot more growing up to do and her friends Lailani, Melanie, and Lauren aren't afraid to let her know that. Will she take heed before she finds herself involved in a dangerous situation? These four friends have formed an amazing sisterhood, but their drama is thick and their issues with trust, love, and loyalty can impact something they all care about; Simba and Lailani's wedding. Part 2 Loyalty is everything. Betrayal is the ultimate sin... Simba has to put his life and freedom on the line as he goes on one final mission to find out who crashed his wedding and wants to take him out. He's determined to get to the bottom of things once and for all so he can live at peace with his new wife, Lailani, and their children. Secrets begin to unravel that will not only have him on edge but question the loyalty of everyone around him. Who can he trust? Quincy is just as determined as Simba to find out who was responsible for wreaking havoc in their lives. Like Simba, he's also begun to look at everyone sideways and doesn't have confidence in anyone's loyalty. Melanie and his cousin, Brandon, warn him about getting involved. Against his better judgment, he does anyway. Before he knows it, things backfire and he's in a fight for his life. Will he be able to protect himself and his family from an unknown enemy? Vamp and Darian get on board with helping Simba and Quincy, but at the expense of betraying the trust of their loved ones. Keyani becomes suspicious of Vamp as he comes up with lie after lie to cover his involvement. Will she stick around or will she leave? Darian also faces issues with Lauren, but he has even bigger problems of his own. These four friends get caught up in proving their loyalty, but will it be the death of them?

Abiding by these rules, businesses follow in the successful footsteps of brands like Patagonia, T-Mobile, adidas, GoDaddy, and others.

The 48 Laws of Power Robert Greene 2000-09-01 Amoral, cunning, ruthless, and instructive, this multi-million-copy New York Times bestseller is the definitive manual for anyone interested in gaining, observing, or defending against ultimate control - from the author of The Laws of Human Nature. In the book that People magazine proclaimed "beguiling" and "fascinating," Robert Greene and Joost Elffers have distilled three thousand years of the history of power into 48 essential laws by drawing from the philosophies of Machiavelli, Sun Tzu, and Carl Von Clausewitz and also from the lives of figures ranging from Henry Kissinger to P.T. Barnum. Some laws teach the need for prudence ("Law 1: Never Outshine the Master"), others teach the value of confidence ("Law 28: Enter Action with Boldness"), and many recommend absolute self-preservation ("Law 15: Crush Your Enemy Totally"). Every law, though, has one thing in common: an interest in total domination. In a bold and arresting two-color package, The 48 Laws of Power is ideal whether your aim is conquest, self-defense, or simply to understand the rules of the game.

Thinking in Promises Mark Burgess 2015-06-23 Imagine a set of simple principles that could help you to understand how parts combine to become a whole, and how each part sees the whole from its own perspective. If such principles were any good, it shouldn't matter whether we're talking about humans on a team, birds in a flock, computers in a datacenter, or cogs in a Swiss watch. A theory of cooperation ought to be pretty universal, so we should be able to apply it both to technology and to the workplace. Such principles are the subject of Promise Theory, and the focus of this insightful book. The goal of Promise Theory is to reveal the behavior of a whole from the sum of its parts, taking the viewpoint of the parts rather than the whole. In other words, it is a bottom-up, constructionist view of the world. Start Thinking in Promises and find out why this discipline works for documenting system behaviors from the bottom-up.

Sabotage Johanna Sparrow 2014-12-14 I don't know how many times I have witnessed many of my friends and family members involved in happy, loving and committed relationships, sad and alone the next day. What could have happened? Who was to blame for the relationship not working out? What's even more confusing is being introduced to someone new days later. I know you are thinking it's none of my business why this is happening. Now don't get me wrong, I understand sometimes things don't work out for whatever reason, you just have to move on. For many of my family and friends this was happening on a regular basis. I wasn't sure why this was happening to the people I loved around me, but I was going to find out. What I learned I tell you shocked the pants off of me, my friends and loved ones had "commitment phobia." To make it worse many of them did not believe in going to counseling and sharing their feelings with someone they did not know. I wanted to help them deal with their fears of rejection, commitment, trust issues and many other issues that caused them to pull away from love. Once more I wanted them to see that love was not death, but their way of thinking is what killed their relationships. My intentions are to teach you how to deal with your commitment phobe so you can win at love.
