Censoring Sex John E. Semonche 2007-07-20 In this gracefully written, accessible and entertaining volume, John Semonche surveys censorship for reasons of sex from the nineteenth century up to the present. He covers the various forms of American media—books and periodicals, pictorial art, motion pictures, music and dance, and radio, television, and the Internet. The tale is varied and interesting, replete with a stock of colorful characters such as Anthony Comstock, Mae West, Theodore Dreiser, Marcel Duchamp, Opie and Anthony, Judy Blume, Jerry Falwell, Alfred Kinsey, Hugh Hefner, and the Guerilla Girls. Covering the history of censorship of sexual ideas and images is one way of telling the story of modern America, and Semonche tells that tale with insight and flair. Despite the varieties of censorship, running from self-censorship to government bans, a common story is told. Censorship, whether undertaken to ward off government regulation, to help preserve the social order, or to protect the weak and vulnerable, proceeds on the assumption that the censor knows best and that limiting the choices of media consumers is justified. At various times all of the following groups were perceived as needing protection from sexually explicit materials: children, women, the lower classes, and foreigners. As social and political conditions changed, however, the simple fact that someone was a woman or a day laborer did not support stereotyping that person as weak or impressionable. What would remain as the only acceptable rationale for censorship of sexual materials was the protection of children and unconsenting adults. For each mode of media, Semonche explains via abundant examples how and why censorship took place in America. Censoring Sex also traces the story of how the cultural territory contested by those advocating and opposing censorship has diminished over the course of the last two centuries. Yet, Semonche argues, the censorship of sexual materials that continues in the United States poses a challenge to the free speech that is part of the foundation upon which the nation is built. Indeed, in an era in which sexual images are pervasive and the need for reliable information about sex and sexuality is growing, he questions the remaining rationales for censorship and the justification for placing obscenity outside the protection of the U. S. Constitution.

Romance in Post-Socialist Chinese Television Huike Wen 2020-07-13 This book is about how the representations of romantic love in television reflect the change and the dilemma of the dominant values in post-socialist Chinese mainstream culture. These values mainly center on the impact of individualism, consumerism, capitalism, and neoliberalism, often referred to as western culture, on the perception of romantic love and self-realization in China. The book focuses on how romantic love, which plays a vital role in China's ideologically highly restricted social environment by empowering people with individual choice, change, and social mobility, must struggle and compromise with the reality, specifically the values and problems emerging in a transitional China. The book also examines how the representation of romantic love celebrates ideals—individual freedom, passion, and gender equality—and promises changes based on individual diligence and talent while simultaneously obstructing the fulfillment of these ideals.

The Older Woman in Recent Fiction Zoe Brennan 2014-12-09 This critical study explores late twentieth century novels by women writers—including Doris Lessing, May Sarton and Barbara Pym—that feature female protagonists over the age of sixty. These novels' discourses on aging contrast with those largely pejorative ones that dominate Western society. They break the silence that normally surrounds the lives of the aged, and this book investigates how older female protagonists are represented in relation to areas such as sexuality, dependence and everyday life. Beginning with an investigation of popular opinions about aging and a survey of hypotheses from disciplines including gerontology, psychology and feminism, the text reviews literary critical attitudes toward fictions of aging; analyzes representations of physically dependent characters, whose anger over their failing bodies is often eased by relationships with their female friends; discusses how paradigms of female sexuality exclude the possibility of older women being sexually desirable; examines characters that live a contented life, finding a more polemical side to them than is noted in more conventional literary critiques; and analyzes the aged sleuth in classical detective fiction.

How to Date a Younger Man Kendall Ryan 2020-07-21 If you accidentally bang your best friend's younger brother, here are a few important tips . . . One: Do not brag to your friend about how well-endowed her brother is. Two: Do not go back for seconds (or thirds). Three: Do not let him see your muffin top or jiggle behind. And definitely don't let him feed you cookies in bed. Cookies are bad. Remember that. Four: Act like a damn grown-up and apologize for riding him like a bull at the rodeo. And do not flirt with him when he laughs at said apology. Five: This one is crucial, so pay attention. Do not, under any circumstances, fall in love with him.

How to Date Younger Men Trina C. 2012-03-04 ABOUT THE BOOK "Older women, are beautiful lovers." So goes the song made famous by country crooner Ronnie McDowell in 1981. And he was right. For years, younger men of a certain type have always enjoyed the company of older women. The mystery, the worldliness, the experience - it's all something young men crave, and something many young women lack. The phenomenon of younger men having relationships with older women is nothing new. Silver screen legend Mae West, who coined the phrase, "Why don't you come up and see me some time?" kept a harem of young men well into her 60s. Catherine the Great, the sexually independent Russian ruler, had a string of younger lovers, and the last one was 40 years her junior. Celebrity couples with an older women in recent years have included Courtney Cox and David Arquette (7-year difference), Vivica Fox and rapper 50 Cent (11-year difference), Cher and Rob Camilletti (18-year difference), and Madonna and Brahim Zaibat (29-year difference). And, of course, there's Demi Moore who is 16 years older than her now-estranged husband, Ashton Kutcher.

EXCERPT FROM THE BOOK To get a man, any man, you have to put yourself out there. To get a younger man requires a little more work because some might overlook you automatically. This isn't because you're not attractive, it's simply because most men are hardwired to look for women their own age or younger. To find him, you must seek him. Join an online dating site, whether it's one designed specifically for cougar-cub romances or one that caters to mainstream romances.

Whichever site you choose, be specific in your age limits. How old is too old? And how young is too young? Use an attractive recent photo, preferably a headshot where you're smiling or otherwise look appealing. Keep it classy, though. You want him to be curious to know more about you, not about how fast he can bed you. Pick up a hobby that interests you, but one which also attracts young men. Do you enjoy skiing? Join a singles club that welcomes all ages for skiers. Any outdoor activity such as hiking, bicycling and boating often have young, male devotees. Don't start heading to NASCAR races if you really don't enjoy it, but don't skip out on something simply because it might not attract younger men. Cooking classes are often filled with young men. You'd be surprised at how many 20-something men are picking up sewing! Don't worry if the object of your desire isn't single. Strike up a conversation with him anyway. He probably has plenty of single friends!... Buy a copy to keep reading! Post Graduate Work Claudine M. Neumann 2009 Mainstream films have been known to attend to romantic relationships from many different angles, offering the notion that even the most disparate relationship can achieve happily ever after. Employing a theory developed by Walter Fisher, the Narrative Paradigm (Fisher, 1984) and utilizing a feminist criticism framework, this study examines the representation of the Older Woman/Younger Man romantic relationship in film today. This study examines two US mainstream films: Prime and How Stella Got Her Groove Back, to show how films of older women, younger men age disparate relationships are typically unaccepted in society based on the rhetorical construction and underlying portrayal of heteronormative patriarchy. Examining the narratives in these films, it is apparent that Western culture continues to utilize hegemonic patriarchal beliefs and values as the acceptable mainstream ideology. An examination of how these films contribute to this notion will be discussed, prior research examined, and future implications explored.

Dataclysm Christian Rudder 2014-09-09 A New York Times Bestseller An audacious, irreverent investigation of human behavior—and a first look at a revolution in the making Our personal data has been used to spy on us, hire and fire us, and sell us stuff we don't need. In Dataclysm, Christian Rudder uses it to show us who we truly are. For centuries, we've relied on polling or small-scale lab experiments to study human behavior. Today, a new approach is possible. As we live more of our lives online, researchers can finally observe us directly, in vast numbers, and without filters. Data scientists have become the new demographers. In this daring and original book, Rudder explains how Facebook "likes" can predict, with surprising accuracy, a person's sexual orientation and even intelligence; how attractive women receive exponentially more interview requests; and why you must have haters to be hot. He charts the rise and fall of America's most reviled word through Google Search and examines the new dynamics of collaborative rage on Twitter. He shows how people express themselves, both privately and publicly. What is the least Asian thing you can say? Do people bathe more in Vermont or New Jersey? What do black women think about Simon & Garfunkel? (Hint: they don't think about Simon & Garfunkel.) Rudder also traces human migration over time, showing how groups of people move from certain small towns to the same big cities across the globe. And he grapples with the challenge of maintaining privacy in a world where these explorations are possible. Visually arresting and full of wit and insight, Dataclysm is a new way of seeing ourselves—a brilliant alchemy, in which math is made human and numbers become the narrative of our time.

Aleatory Xavier Neal 2021-04-22 Aleatory. As in ey-lee-uh-tawr-ee. As in an adjective. As in a synonym for unpredictable. As in the only word to describe making the mistake of falling for someone who is not only ten years younger than you, but your best friend's son...

An Older Woman Loving a Younger Man Bradley Preston 2008-11 What could they possibly have in common? She's old enough to be his mother. I just don't see how it could ever work. Have you ever been confronted with one of these statements because you're with someone younger? You are about to embark on a journey that will change your mind about May/December relationships. So many times in life people make judgments about one another based solely upon the traditions of the sect of society in which they were raised. More times than not their judgments are wrong, simply because they've chosen to base them on incomplete information. Once they have all the pertinent information concerning that subject their perception changes drastically. Changing people's perceptions is precisely why we wrote this book. Our hope is that once people read this book about our lives they will see that love truly does conquer all. Society says it's OK for a much older man to date a much younger woman. Yet when it comes to a much older woman dating a much younger man the double standard is revealed. Love truly transcends all of our societal misinformation. Love does not look at age, appearances, wealth, health, or any of the other ridiculous limitations that humans have put on relationships. Love knows no boundaries. It's not limited by our finite thinking. Love is the pure essence of two souls merging to become one. This is our story of two souls becoming one.

Child of a Rainless Year Jane Lindskold 2005-04-28 Middle-aged Mira Fenn knows she has an uncomfortably exotic past. As a small girl, she lived in a ornate old house in tiny Las Vegas, New Mexico, tended by oddly silent servant women and ruled by her coldly flamboyant mother Colette. When Mira was nine, Colette went on one of her unexplained trips, only this time she never returned. Placed with foster parents, Mira was raised in Ohio, normal save for her passion for color. On gaining adulthood, she learned that she still owned the New Mexico house. She also learned that, as a condition of being allowed to adopt her, Mira's foster parents had agreed to change their name, move to another state, and never ask why. Years later, going through family papers after the deaths of her elderly foster parents, Mira finds documents that pique her curiosity about her vanished mother and the reasons behind her strange childhood and adoption. Travelling back to New Mexico, she finds the house is and isn't as she remembers it. Inside, it's much the same. Outside, it's been painted in innumerable colors. As Mira continues to investigate her mother's life, events take stranger and stranger turns. The silent women reappear. Even as Mira begins to suspect the power to which she may be heir, the house itself appears to be waking up... Shot through with magic and the atmosphere of the Southwest, this singular fantasy novel has all the storytelling vigor of Jane Lindskold's very popular Firekeeper series. At the Publisher's request, this title is being sold without Digital Rights Management Software (DRM) applied.

Cross Generational Relationships and Cinema Joel Gwynne 2020-07-21 Depictions of cross generational relationships have always been present in popular cinema. While such relationships have historically operated within the framework of heteronormativity, and have usually explored cross generational romance in the context of older men/younger women, contemporary depictions have expanded to focus also on taboo configurations of love between older women and younger men and cross generational LGBT coupledness. Contemporary depictions have sought to complicate not only heteronormativity in cross generational relationships, but also to navigate the differences between socially acceptable love and transgressive desire. This collection focuses on the changing values and attitudes of cross generational relationships and addresses the often divisive relationship between the discourses of youth and ageing in popular culture.

The Preacher's Wife Yuwanda Black 2021-05-18 PREVIEW A tropical island. A widow. A widower. Pain buried. Possibilities blooming. *** At 47, Regina Clara Mae Wallace Richardson had recently buried more than her husband; she'd buried a life she never wanted in the first place. *** "He may have been married to you, but he loved me!" the woman hissed. All eyes of the three hundred or so guests at the burial turned on the woman with the overly long veil, who was pointing a finger at the preacher's wife. "What?" Clara Mae said, unable to process the simple statement. "He was going to leave you for me. And then, you, you-- he was miserable with you!" she shouted. "That's what brought on his heart attack. He wanted to leave you. He was going to leave you! But you just wouldn't let go. It's what killed him. He literally died of a broken heart, and it's all your fault!" the woman raged. The collective silence of the crowd huddled around the soon-to-be-lowered-into-the-ground casket sounded like a cannon in Clara Mae's ears. She recognized each and every face; faithful members of her deceased husband's congregation. Every eye was trained on her. "Say something you evil bitch!" the woman screamed in Clara Mae's face, droplets of spittle landing on the black lace that fronted her Jackie-O like, pillbox hat. "No wonder he wanted to leave you. You can't even shed tears over his dead body in a casket right in front of you. You're as cold as he said. And you killed him; just as surely as if you'd put a bullet in him!" Clara Mae didn't remember her hand moving. She didn't remember any part of her moving. All she remembered was a body landing on top of her husband's casket, knocking over two floral arrangements that stood beside it, and the tasteful arrangement of white gardenias that adorned the top of it. They had been Fred's favorites. "You'll pay for this! You'll pay for this! I swear to God, you'll pay for this!" the curvy church secretary sputtered in rage as two attendants from the funeral home helped her up off the casket. By the time they'd hoisted her up, Clara Mae was seated in the back of the black stretch limousine the funeral home provided for the service. She could feel, rather than see, the hundreds of eyes on her as she looked straight ahead. Should they continue with the burial ceremony? Was she going to return? And what about the raging secretary? Who was supposed to do what with her? *** With an unhappy marriage, a ton of deceit and a lifetime of regret behind her, Clara Mae decides to start over. The first thing she sheds is her 'preacher's wife' name of Clara Mae, becoming once again 'Regina.' Then, she moves to the tiny Caribbean island of Tranquille. There, she hopes to find the woman she'd always wanted to be; to live life unencumbered by the expectations of being a preacher's wife. She looks forward to going it alone. Only, life had other plans. Her neighbor on what she thought was going to be her tropical paradise turns out to be a motorcycle-riding transplant from Montana who makes it clear from day one that he intends to have her. It disturbs her in ways she hadn't wanted, needed, or counted on. But she soon discovers that there's more to the too-sexy-for-his-own-good, Holt Grambling. A dozen years younger than her, he's nursing a lifetime of grief, and is in tune with her in ways no man has ever been, despite their age difference. Holt holds up a mirror to Regina's life, and she reflects his back to him. Can they overcome their painful pasts to forge a love that allows both of them to embrace what the mirror of life shows? Or, will their pasts keep them apart?

Rosé with My Fake Fiancé Liz Alden 2023-04-25 In my favorite city in the world, I find myself alone and miserable until a flirty-and much younger-man pretends to be my fiancé. I thought that by forty-two, I'd be happily married, but somehow, I've been the woman men want to date but don't want to marry. And now, even my friends have left me alone in the city of love. Alone—except for Luc, the charming tour guide. He refuses to cancel the trip and reminds me what it's like to feel sexy and desired. He even rekindles my love for Paris by showing me a side of the city few people see. Then we run into my ex . . . with his new fiancé on his arm and a smug look on his face. When Luc holds me close and tells a little lie, their surprise is so satisfying. Maybe a little too satisfying because I wind up in bed with my fake fiancé. The hottest night of my life certainly didn't feel fake. Too bad I'm only here for the weekend. Young, Sexy, Addictive & Forbidden Sheila Gail Holmes 2009-12 In this story the author plots a scenario of love at its best, the height of passion at its peak, pain and heartache at its worst. ItA[a-a[s powerful, bold and provocative, and it addresses real-life issues that can sometimes confront a relationship where age and love come face to face. ItA[a-a[s an honest look at a situation that is definitely lived but often untold because society seems to frown on older women who prefer a much younger companion. True love is not an easy find at any age, but for us middle-aged, seasoned women, keeping it is just as hard as finding it. This story is one where the readers will think they know the characters personally. It gives a bittersweet emotional depth into the struggles of a relationship between a younger man and an older woman and how the power of love doesnA[a-a[t always conquer all.
