The Osiris Complex Colin A. Ross 1994-01-01 Adult patients exhibit core symptoms: voices in the head and ongoing blank spells or periods of missing time. The voices are the different parts of the personality talking to one another and to the main, presenting part of the person who comes for treatment. Periods of missing time occur when aspects of the personality take turns being in control of the body and memory barriers are erected between them. Patients also experience symptoms such as depression, anxiety, eating disorders, substance abuse, sleep disorders, sexual dysfunction, psychosomatic symptoms, and symptoms that mimic schizophrenia. MPD patients have experienced the most extreme childhood trauma of any diagnostic group and therefore exhibit the psychobiology and psychopathology of trauma to an extreme degree. The good news is that once diagnosed, the MPD patient can be brought back to health. This book is important for all mental health professionals, and also for the general reader interested in psychiatric phenomena.

The Complete Poems Anne Sexton 2016-04-05 The collected works of Anne Sexton showcase the astonishing career of one of the twentieth century's most influential poets. For Anne Sexton, writing served as both a means of expressing the inner turmoil she experienced for most of her life and as a therapeutic force through which she exorcised her demons. Some of the richest poetic descriptions of depression, anxiety, and desperate hope can be found within Sexton's work. The Complete Poems, which includes the eight collections published during her life, two posthumously published books, and other poems collected after her death, brings together her remarkable body of work with all of its range of emotion. With her first collection, the haunting To Bedlam and Part Way Back, Sexton stunned critics with her frank treatment of subjects like masturbation, incest, and abortion, blazing a trail for representations of the body, particularly the female body, in poetry. She documented four years of mental illness in her moving Pulitzer Prize-winning collection Live or Die, and reimagined classic fairy tales as macabre and sardonic poems in Transformations. The Awful Rowing Toward God, the last book finished in her lifetime, is an earnest and affecting meditation on the existence of God. As a whole, The Complete Poems reveals a brilliant yet tormented poet who bared her deepest urges, fears, and desires in order to create extraordinarily striking and enduring art.

Recorded Poetry and Poetic Reception from Edna Millay to the Circle of Robert Lowell D. Furr 2010-07-19 Through an analysis of a wide range of commercial and amateur recordings, this book describes how and why poetry was recorded in the U.S., from the 1930's through the mid-century performances of poets such as Dylan Thomas and Anne Sexton.

The Discipline of Hope Herbert R. Kohl 1998 "It has been thirty years since Herbert Kohl taught the sixth-grade Harlem class he wrote about in his classic 36 Children. He has been teaching ever since, in kindergarten through graduate school, as he has pursued his lifelong work with children, adolescents, college-age students, and education professionals. In The Discipline of Hope, Kohl examines teaching as a vocation and as a skill, and examines his own love affair with it. He provides insight into how learning takes place in the widest range of circumstances, both in and out of a formal school setting. He demonstrates how schools and other centers of learning can be transformed so that they become places that nurture children while instilling discipline and how they can help students meet high academic standards, develop a sense of respect for themselves and others, and grow into successful adults." "Central to this book and at the core of the act of teaching as Kohl describes it is what he calls "the discipline of hope"the stubborn refusal to accept limits on what students can learn or what teachers can do by helping them discover the power of their minds. At a time when so many are complacent or skeptical about the possibilities of education, this book, with the experiences it describes, of teacher and taught, is an affirmation that provides guideposts, insight, and wisdom."--BOOK JACKET. The Art of Confession Christopher Grobe 2017-11-07 "The Art of Confession tells the history of this cultural shift and of the movement it created in American art: confessionalism. Like realism or romanticism, confessionalism began in one art form, but soon pervaded them all: poetry and comedy in the 1950s and '60s, performance art in the '70s, theater in the '80s, television in the '90s, and online video and social media in the 2000s. Everywhere confessionalism went, it stood against autobiography, the art of the closed book. Instead of just publishing, these artists performed--with, around, and against the text of their lives." --

Encyclopedia of American Poetry: The Twentieth Century Eric L. Haralson 2014-01-21 The Encyclopedia of American Poetry: The Twentieth Century contains over 400 entries that treat a broad range of individual poets and poems, along with many articles devoted to topics, schools, or periods of American verse in the century. Entries fall into three main categories: poet entries, which provide biographical and cultural contexts for the author's career; entries on individual works, which offer closer explication of the most resonant poems in the 20th-century canon; and topical entries, which offer analyses of a given period of literary production, school, thematically constructed category, or other verse tradition that historically has been in dialogue with the poetry of the United States.

Mommy and Other Poems Joan Hand 2021-07-09 In this impressive new collection, Joan Carole Hand offers her reader a deeply realized and convincing inventory of family and relationship, rooted in the rich soil of the poet's own life and aspirations. The speaker in these poems directly addresses specific individuals in Hand's life - principally but not exclusively family members - a subject she approaches with candor and directness of gaze, by turns curious, tender, indomitable. As readers, we are invited to dive deep into her unflinching observations, with the fierce confidence of the author herself, as would one asked to swim along with this well-conditioned swimmer, capable of 'penetrating the highest of high tides, swimming against every current, and testing the invisibility of the fishes.' The urge to stay with her, stroke by stroke, is a strong one; the portraits emerge, iconic as the boulder she spies at the edge of the shore in one of her poems, surfacing and resurfacing with the tide - an 'anchor and a strength' in a turbulent shoreline. There is a truth in these poems - at once unapproachable, mesmerizing, inescapable - to which we are all ultimately subject. And there is a reverence in these poems, tempered with both a longing to find passage across the distance between writer and subject and an acknowledgment of the forces keeping that from being possible. Ultimately, we are rewarded with an enduring sense of the inexpressible covalences of the heart, the eloquent push-pull of separation and connection, and the overwhelming fullness of our having experienced what is truly intimate in intimate relations. -George Wallace, former writer-in-residence at the Walt Whitman Birthplace, poet laureate of Suffolk County, NY. John Berryman once told me that when he sent one of his last pre-publication manuscripts to Richard Wilbur, Wilbur replied kindly but said that John's poems could use more 'voltage.' Reading J.C. Hand's poetry, I keep thinking that she has the requisite voltage, the electrical gists and piths that keep my eye and mind moving with her voice down the page in jolts of strobe light. Consider a poem, in East of July (2004), each of whose five sections begins 'You raped me in Dubrovnik.' I've it read many times and have felt

I've needed a surge-protector. Over the decades, after believing she has not belonged to herself, she has sometimes been defiled, but she has been determined not to be diminished into one of those 'lady writers / active in the garden club / used to rhyming posies / with rosies / penning light verse / into spiral notebooks.' With a kind of ferocious need, she has moved psychically from the home she felt to be her husband's only to a house (or houses) that in fact and in poetry are now hers and to restore her to herself in time (the quotidian) and Time (spiritual eternity or at least depths within present being). In this new and riveting collection, Mommy, the places of her life and family are restored for her and her reader within 'a reverent kind of distance' ('A Summer Offering'). By way of both her interfused themes and the intensity of her saying, J.C. Hand is a sometimes shocking, often consoling, but always memorable poet. Emily Dickinson and Anne Sexton welcome her into their sisterhood. -William Heyen, Ph.D., professor of English/poet-in-residence emeritus at The College at Brockport. What strikes me is the way (J.C. Hand) has made the words just flow so smoothly. It really is masterful. ... I can just picture (her) dancing and (her) imaginary leaps into the heights, even the sky. -Rabbi Adam D. Fisher, poet

Ancient Greek Myth in Modern Greek Poetry Peter Mackridge 2023-03-31 Originally published in 1996, this volume contains essays by scholars, critics and translators and includes themes such as the myth in the Cretan Renaissance and the use of ancient myth by 19th and 20th Century poets. Some essays deal with individual mythical figures such as Odysseus, Orpheus, Prometheus and Aphrodite, while others deal with the problematic issue of the use of myth by Greek women poets. The discussion is completed by comparing attitudes to the ancient Greeks as embodied in English and modern Greek poetry.

Door Leah Noble Davidson 2016-08-25 "Leah Noble Davidson goes beyond the academic and into the heart-meat, constantly proving why she is one of the most exciting voices in poetry today." -- Derrick C. Brown, Author of Uh-Oh and Strange Light, Texas Book of the Year "'Push a door that needs a 'pull' sign' reads the entirety of Leah Noble Davidson's poem 'A Door Is a Vehicle for Communication' and the poems in DOOR exist in a similarly enigmatic, illuminating manner. Cultural figures as disparate as Edna St. Vincent Millay and Jim Morrison, Dorothea Lasky and Aldous Huxley, Anne Sexton and William Blake make appearances, and each's existence is a jumping off point for Davidson's insouciant imaginative capabilities. DOOR is thusly a book of impeccable poems written by a living breathing human person of impeccable talent." --Jeff Alessandrelli, Author of This Last Time Will Be the First "Leah is a genius and careful storyteller. I loved this book--it ripped me apart. In a good way." --Robyn Bateman, Author of Oh and creator of Failing Haus "This book is Lacan on crack." --Ingrid Diran, Critical Theory Professor, PNCA

This Business of Words Amanda Golden 2018-11-02 One of America's most influential women writers, Anne Sexton has long been overshadowed by fellow confessional poets Sylvia Plath and Robert Lowell and is seldom featured in literary criticism. This volume reassesses Sexton and her poetry for the first time in two decades and offers directions for future Sexton scholarship. Mapping Sexton's influence on twenty-first-century cultural contexts, these essays emphasize her continuing vitality. Fight the Power Eric Leif Davin 2008-11-12 Eric Leif DaVietnamesen was raised as a Southern Baptist and Mormon convert, although he was always a non-believer. However, like everyone else in his blue collar surroundings, he believed in America, the military, anti-Communism, and, although too young to vote, Senator Barry Goldwater when he ran for president in 1964. Then, in the Sixties, he went to college and became swept up in the movements of the times. He came to realize that everything he'd believed about "his war," the Vietnameseetnam War, was wrong. He came to believe that we were more than just on the "wrong side." We were the wrong side. Eventually he was drafted. However, he refused induction into the military, preferring to face five years in prison, the maximum sentence, rather than fight in an immoral war. This memoir describes his journey through the Sixties, from a working class gung-ho Goldwater Republican supporter of the Vietnameseetnam War to a radicalized anti-war actiVietnamesest who was eventually drafted to fight in that war -- but refused to go.

The Vintage Book of Contemporary American Poetry J. D. McClatchy 2003-04 From Robert Lowell, Sylvia Plath, and John Berryman to Allen Ginsburg, John Ashbery, and Frank O'Hara, here are the iconic poets of the past half-century, men and women who have used and reshaped the American language in all its vigorous, daring, tender, and intimate depth and breadth.

Anne Sexton Diane Middlebrook 1992-10-27 Anne Sexton began writing poetry at the age of twenty-nine to keep from killing herself. She held on to language for dear life and somehow -- in spite of alcoholism and the mental illness that ultimately led her to suicide -- managed to create a body of work that won a Pulitzer Prize and that still sings to thousands of readers. This exemplary biography, which was nominated for the National Book Award, provoked controversy for its revelations of infidelity and incest and its use of tapes from Sexton's psychiatric sessions. It reconciles the many Anne Sextons: the 1950s housewife; the abused child who became an abusive mother; the seductress; the suicide who carried "kill-me pills" in her handbag the way other women carry lipstick; and the poet who transmuted confession into lasting art.

The Cambridge Companion to Twentieth-Century British and Irish Women's Poetry Jane Dowson 2011-03-17 This Companion provides new ways of reading a wide range of influential women's poetry. Leading international scholars offer insights on a century of writers, drawing out the special function of poetry and the poets' use of language, whether it is concerned with the relationship between verbal and visual art, experimental poetics, war, landscape, history, cultural identity or 'confessional' lyrics. Collectively, the chapters cover well established and less familiar poets, from Edith Sitwell and Mina Loy, through Stevie Smith, Sylvia Plath and Elizabeth Jennings to Anne Stevenson, Eavan Boland and Jo Shapcott. They also include poets at the forefront of poetry trends, such as Liz Lochhead, Jackie Kay, Patience Agbabi, Caroline Bergvall, Medbh McGuckian and Carol Ann Duffy. With a chronology and guide to further reading, this book is aimed at students and poetry enthusiasts wanting to deepen their knowledge of some of the finest modern poets.

With Robert Lowell and His Circle Kathleen Spivack 2012 In 1959 Kathleen Spivack won a fellowship to study at Boston University with Robert Lowell. Her fellow students were Sylvia Plath and Anne Sexton, among others. Thus began a relationship with the famous poet and his circle that would last to the end of his life in 1977 and beyond. Spivack presents a lovingly rendered story of her time among some of the most esteemed artists of a generation. Part memoir, part loose collection of anecdotes, artistic considerations, and soulful yet clear-eyed reminiscences of a lost time and place, hers is an intimate portrait of the often suffering Lowell, the great and near great artists he attracted, his teaching methods, his private world, and the significant legacy he left to his students. Through the story of a youthful artist finding her poetic voice among literary giants, Spivack thoughtfully considers how poets work. She looks at friendships, addiction, despair, perseverance and survival, and how social changes altered lives and circumstances. This is a beautifully written portrait of friends who loved and lived words, and made great beauty together. A touching and deeply revealing look into the lives and thoughts of some of the most influential artists of the twentieth century, With Robert Lowell and His Circle will appeal to writers, students, and thoughtful literary readers, as well as to scholars.

Love & Vodka Christina Strigas 2016-12-02 Love & Vodka is Christina Strigas' third poetry book. This book is written for all the hearts that shatter, that are transparent, that crack, rebuild and see truth. This is for the souls that connect through words. The poems in this book will make you breathless from their honesty. This poetry collection is full of poems that will make you contemplate the magic of connections disconnections, rejection, love, drinking, pain, marriage, loneliness, honor and the perils of living so many lifetimes in one. Delve into poetry head first and read passages over again to connect. This book has a modern feel with an ancient way of writing. Inspired by Anne Sexton, Sylvia Plath and modern poets such as Mary Oliver and Billy Collins to name a few, Christina Strigas uses stream of consciousness to devour themes and words and spurt them forth into a poem. A contemporary poetry book that will not disappoint you and that will restore your faith into the power of poetry again.

Transformations Anne Sexton 2001 These poem-stories are a strange retelling of seventeen Grimms fairy tales, including "Snow White," "Rumpelstiltskin," "Rapunzel," "The Twelve Dancing Princesses," "The Frog Prince," and "Red Riding Hood." Astonishingly, they are as wholly personal as Anne Sexton's most intimate poems. "Her metaphoric strength has never been greater -- really funny, among other things, a dark, dark laughter" (C.K. Williams).
