Alien Sex Gerard Loughlin 2008-04-15 Gerard Loughlin is one of the leading theologians working at the interface between religion and contemporary culture. In this exceptional work, he uses cinema and the films it shows to think about the church and the visions of desire it displays. Discusses various films, including the Alien quartet, Christopher Nolan's Memento, Stanley Kubrick's 2001: A Space Odyssey and A Clockwork Orange, Nicolas Roeg's The Man Who Fell to Earth and Derek Jarman's The Garden. Draws on a wide range of authors, both ancient and modern, religious and secular, from Plato to Levinas, from Karl Barth and Hans Urs von Balthasar to André Bazin and Leo Bersani. Uses cinema to think about the church as an ecclesiocinema, and films to think about sexual desire as erotic dispossession, as a way into the life of God. Written from a radically orthodox Christian perspective, at once both Catholic and critical.

The Sex Is Out of This World Sherry Ginn 2012-11-01 "Science fiction" can be translated into "real unreality." More than a genre like fantasy, which creates entirely new realms of possibility, science fiction constructs its possibilities from what is real, from what is, indeed, possible, or conceivably so. This collection, then, looks to understand and explore the "unreal reality," to note ways in which our culture's continually changing and evolving mores of sex and sexuality are reflected in, dissected by, and deconstructed through the genre of science fiction. This book is a collection of new essays, with the general objective of filling a gap in the literature about sex and science fiction (although some work has gone before, none of it is recent). The essays herein explore the myriad ways in which authors--regardless of format (print, film, television, etc.)--envision very different beings expressing this most fundamental of human behaviors.

Sex and Sexuality in a Feminist World Katherine A. Hermes 2009-01-14 Sex and sexuality are topics that have defined feminism since its inception. What has changed is that there is now a generation of feminists and scholars who are comfortable not only to write in their own disciplines but who incorporate feminist ideas in their research. This book assembles a variety of essays, most of which were written especially for this collection, that negotiate sex and sexuality in historical contexts as well as in contemporary times. There is a common ground of history and (popular) culture among the articles. While different theories of feminism operate in these essays, feminist lenses have allowed the reevaluation of familiar topics from early religious practices to medieval literature to current films and advertising. The authors represented in this collection range from established feminist and gender scholars to those who employ feminist theoretical frameworks in their respective disciplines.

Screwed by the Aliens: True Sexual Encounters with Ets Timothy Beckley 2018-09-08 THE SEXTERRESTRIALS ARE HERE - AND THEY WANT TO MATE WITH YOU! THEY SAW THAT THEIR DAUGHTERS WERE FAIR AND TOOK THEM AS WIVES - Genesis 6:1-2, 4 The Bible says it in a "civilized way." But the truth is that since the beginning of time otherworldly entities - no matter how you wish to identify them - have been pillaging and plundering our planet, raping our women, probing our bodies in an ungentlemanly manner, and ostensibly creating a "master race" of alien hybrids by removing the fetuses from artificially inseminated females who have been abducted by UFO occupants around the globe. The aliens then raise the "children" as their own. The molestations go on, and, despite the credible nature of a large percentage of such encounters, these sensationalistic events are perhaps the most closely guarded secret of the UFOlogical community, for fear that such disclosure will lead to ridicule on the part of skeptics, the scientific community, the media, and a large portion of the general public, who have not been privileged to scrutinize the available data - much of which is presented in the pages of this book for the first time. THIS IS NOT "FAKE NEWS!" But One Hundred Percent Documented . . . These are the anal probes, the kidnapping and removal of men, women and couples from the planet for evil, inhuman purposes that often involve molestation and torture. Some of those abducted have literally been branded and physically scarred for life. "Tattoos" have been placed on their skin, and horrific scratch and claw marks can be found on their chests and stomachs, arms, legs and breasts. Some of these markings can only be seen under florescent lighting; others can be viewed with the naked eye because they are so obvious. What sometimes starts out as a "simple bedroom invasion," with aliens coming through the walls or ceiling, frequently transforms into a fully consciously-recalled nightmare, often becoming an ongoing series of events onboard a spacecraft outside the Earth's atmosphere or in underground human/alien bases, such as the main one to be found in Dulce, New Mexico.- the mystery of the alien anal probes is also revealed! Here are historical as well as some of the most recent cases of copulation with Reptilians, the handsome Nordic "Space Brothers," the Greys, insectoids, and a host of other intergalactic stalkers - the real invaders from "Mars" - as taken from the files of some of the top researchers of our time. To paraphrase Cindy Lauper's 80s smash pop single, there are a few space aliens who it seems are coming here because they "just want to have fun!"

Sex, Class and Culture Lillian Robinson 2023-08-11 First published in 1986, Sex, Class and Culture is a collection of Marxist feminist essays that develops an original critical theory and applies it to literature, the visual arts, and mass media. Lillian Robinson was the first American critic to suggest the essential connections among sex, class, and race as forces that shape works of art and the critical response to them. In applying her theory to particular texts, she considers topics from the Renaissance epic to the Regency romance, from Jane Austen to contemporary feminist poets, and from factory workers' memoirs to TV images of career women and housewives. The essays are insightful because Robinson clearly knows this wide assortment of texts, cares about their significance, and writes about them with wit. They are irreverent, because she asserts the feminist critic's permanent responsibility to ask "So What?" and they are controversial because she constantly addresses that question to our most powerful and respectable institutions - social and literary. This book will be of interest to students of literature, history, gender studies and sexuality studies.

Searching for the String: Selected Writings of John A. Keel John Keel 2014-04-20 New Saucerian Press proudly presents "Searching For the String," a collection of magazine articles by John A. Keel, the man many consider to have been not only the premiere investigator of all things unusual and "Fortean," but who was also our own, twentieth-century "Mark Twain." Many of the articles in this anthology and its companion volumes, "Flying Saucer to the Center of Your Mind" and "The Outer Limits of the Twilight Zone," were revolutionary, and explored ideas popularized in Keel's classic books. Written in Keel's engaging trademark style, they are sure to delight fans with their fresh, unparalleled insights into the nature of reality. In these pages, John Keel displays the keen observational skills and investigative tenacity that long made him the enfant terrible of ufology. In this no-holds-barred analysis - much of it written decades ago - Keel shreds most of the sacred-cow beliefs still held by many in ufological and "cryptozoological" circles today, and presents theories so radical that they are only now becoming accepted: the "4-D" or "interdimensional" thesis; the "breakaway civilization" theory; the possible role of "ancient aliens" in human history; the synthetic and/or hallucinatory nature of many "alien abduction" and "Men in Black" encounters; the role of spy agencies in paranormal research; and the alarming connection between UFOs, animal mutilations, and attacks on unsuspecting humans. "Searching For the String" showcases not only Keel's wit and charm, but also his incisive and impassioned intellectual capabilities. This 2014 edition features an expanded "Letters" section, several photographs, and introductions by the editor, Andy Colvin, and saucer pioneer Gray Barker. "Shoots straight, from multiple dimensions..." -Rear Admiral Claymore Finch "Scientific and sexy, yet pointedly humane ..." -Thornton M. Aliens George Edgar Slusser 1987 How and when does there come to be an "anthropology of the alien?" This set of essays, written for the eighth J. Lloyd Eaton Conference on Fantasy and Science Fiction, is concerned with the significance of that question. "[Anthropology] is the science that must designate the alien if it is to redefine a place for itself in the universe," according to the Introduction. The idea of the alien is not new. In the Renaissance, Montaigne's purpose in describing an alien encounter was excorporation--mankind was the "savage" because the artificial devices of nature controlled him. Shakespeare's version of the alien encounter was incorporation; his character of Caliban is brought to the artificial, political world of man and incorporated into the body politic "The essays in this volume . . . show, in their general orientation, that the tribe of Shakespeare still, in literary studies at least, outnumbers that of Montaigne." These essays show the interrelation of the excorporating possibilities to the internal soundings of the alien encounter within the human mind and form. This book is divided into three parts: "Searchings: The Quest for the Alien" includes "The Aliens in Our Mind," by Larry Niven; "Effing the Ineffable," by Gregory Benford; "Border Patrols," by Michael Beehler; "Alien Aliens," by Pascal Ducommun; and "Metamorphoses of the Dragon," by George E. Slusser. "Sightings: The Aliens among Us" includes "Discriminating among Friends," by John Huntington; "Sex, Superman, Sociobiology," by Joseph D. Miller; "Cowboys and Telepaths," by Eric S. Rabkin; "Robots," by Noel Perrin; "Aliens in the Supermarket," by George R. Guffey; and "Aliens 'R' U.S.," by Zoe Sofia. "Soundings: Man as the Alien" includes "H. G. Wells' Familiar Aliens," by John R. Reed; "Inspiration and Possession," by Clayton Koelb; "Cybernauts in Cyberspace," by David Porush; "The Human Alien," by Leighton Brett Cooke; "From Astarte to Barbie," by Frank McConnell; and "An Indication of Monsters;" by Colin Greenland.

procreate with and against all odds humanity was their salvation. The hard part done, all that was left was convincing the people of earth to breed and be bred by them - a task they would soon find out was much easier done than said.

Sex and the Paranormal Paul Deane 2003-04-17 You thought sex was a 'had to be there', physical experience? And that it takes, well, living beings to make the walls shake? Think again! This book peers for the first time into the dark corners of those places where a basic human physical desire and natural activity meets with an equally fervent and longstanding fascination with the unknown, mysterious and supernatural. From sex and witchcraft to demon lovers, all forms of human sexual encounter with the supernatural - real, fabled or imagined - are presented and thoroughly turned over in this thought-provoking and revelatory book. Sensational, it most certainly is. The book's central focus is on the thousands of reports of human sexual encounters with supernatural beings that have occurred over the years (irresistible chapter titles include 'Satanism in the suburbs' and 'Aliens stole my virginity!'). The encounters are startlingly common, with people claiming to have had sex with ghosts, aliens, demons, poltergeists, old hags and angels. Then there are the strange examples of penissnatching epidemics, outbreaks of suburban sexual mass hysteria and the belief in secret supernatural orgies. The wealth of stories is amazing and the experiences and phenomena they purport to describe are almost beyond belief. The author has the truly unique talent of entertaining and providing a serious account of the strange phenomena. This is a book everyone will want to read (even if they pretend they don't...).

Alien Encounters VIKAS KHATRI 2020-04-01 UFOs or Unidentified Flying Objects have long been a matter of great curiosity and interest for human beings on the Earth, particularly from June 24, 1947 when American pilot Kenneth Arnold reported sighting nine circular objects flying across his airplane's path in the sky over the State of Washington. Sex Sounds Danielle Shlomit Sofer 2022-07-05 An investigation of sexual themes in electronic music since the 1950s, with detailed case studies of “electrosexual music” by a wide range of creators. In Sex Sounds, Danielle Shlomit Sofer investigates the repeated focus on sexual themes in electronic music since the 1950s. Debunking electronic music’s origin myth—that it emerged in France and Germany, invented by Pierre Schaeffer and Karlheinz Stockhausen, respectively—Sofer defines electronic music more inclusively to mean any music with an electronic component, drawing connections between academic institutions, radio studios, experimental music practice, hip-hop production, and histories of independent and commercial popular music. Through a broad array of detailed case studies—examining music that ranges from Schaeffer’s musique concrète to a video workshop by Annie Sprinkle—Sofer offers a groundbreaking look at the social and cultural impact sex has had on audible creative practices. Sofer argues that “electrosexual music” has two central characteristics: the feminized voice and the “climax mechanism.” Sofer traces the historical fascination with electrified sex sounds, showing that works representing women’s presumed sexual experience operate according to masculinist heterosexual tropes, and presenting examples that typify the electroacoustic sexual canon. Noting electronic music history’s exclusion of works created by women, people of color, women of color, and, in particular Black artists, Sofer then analyzes musical examples that depart from and disrupt the electroacoustic norms, showing how even those that resist the norms sometimes reinforce them. These examples are drawn from categories of music that developed in parallel with conventional electroacoustic music, separated—segregated—from it. Sofer demonstrates that electrosexual music is far more representative than the typically presented electroacoustic canon.

Alternate Earth R P J Crichton 2020-09-12 Set in the not too distant future, space travel continues to be a dangerous activity but it has become routine and mostly safe. The discovery of a new planet in our solar system excites the scientific community. The protagonists in the story are two astronauts who embark on a reconnaissance mission to the planet. Their spacecraft develops a fault mid-flight, but they are able to land their craft. They are marooned on an alien world, injured, and with no way of getting help. The story is told from the perspective of one of the astronauts, and it tells of their adventures with the aliens on the planet. The strange insect-like creatures welcome the visitors. While on the planet they are introduced to many technological and social experiences. Their encounters with the aliens take them into a world of sensual delights, bizarre sexual experiences, and terror. Their experience on the planet leaves them changed in ways that affect them when they return to Earth. As a result of their condition they are forced to live in seclusion. Their forced isolation sees them taking up residence on a remote property with a large acreage. The property is in an idyllic setting, but the old house has secrets. The house has been the location for erotic parties. They discover a hidden cellar full of strange contraptions and sex machines which becomes the source of new adventures. They returned to Earth with alien technology and their misuse of it has shocking results. Their lives are disturbed when trespassers arrive on the property. The intruders are thugs who are up to no good. Their encounter with them leads to a terrifying conclusion.

Fright Night on Channel 9 James Arena 2011-12-22 From 1973 to 1987, Fright Night was a fixture of the late Saturday evening schedule on independent New York television station WOR-TV. This thorough if affectionate tribute to Fright Night's glory days includes a complete listing of all films shown on the series, as well as discussion of WOR-TV's other horror movie programs from the 1970s and 1980s. Close Encounters? R.J Lambourne 1990-01-01 Currently, science fiction in all its forms is enjoying enormous popular interest. There can be no doubt that science fiction books and films have great influence on the public view of science and scientists. Close Encounters? examines the historical development of science fiction as a genre in books and films, tracing its roots, examining its most common ideas, exploring its relationship to "real" science, and attempting to assess its cultural impact. Discussion focuses on major themes such as time travel, politics, religion, ecology, and disasters. The authors consider the science in science fiction, the images of scientists that science fiction conveys, and some of the political, religious, and social motifs prominent in science fiction. They also discuss pseudo-science and its growing influence on the public perception of science. This fascinating, thought-provoking study should be read by all those interested in how the nature of science and its role in our society is portrayed in science fiction.

Instead of going to visit her family in sunny California, she will be spending the holidays alone in the cold north. But when she encounters an unconscious, golden alien on the way home from work—amidst a massive snowstorm to top it all off—it looks like the holidays might not end up as boring as she'd thought after all! A dragon paralyzed by cold... Captain Erro of Traag never thought to go down in a battle. Even less did he think to find his mate on the surface of the planet he crashes on! Trapped in the planet's frozen wasteland, Erro can hardly function in the cold climate. He's a dragon, for heaven's sake! He needs some heat! And yet, despite the icy weather seeping into his bones, every time the strangely beautiful alien female smiles at him, his inner flame burns stronger than ever. She is his mate, there is no question about that. Now, if only he could understand what the hell she was saying...
