Leonard Percival Howell and the Genesis of Rastafari - Clinton A. Hutton 2015

This volume is the product of interest in both Howell and the genesis of the Rastafari movement. The volume was conceived and compiled by Rastafari scholars that hail from a range of disciplines at the University of the West Indies, Mona, Jamaica, thus assuring a cross-disciplinary feel for this important contribution to Rastafari scholarship.

Beloved Hear My Heart - Lawrence William Sankar 2016-03-25

"Beloved Hear My heart" is a collection of thirty-one divinely inspired messages that connects the reader with well established biblical truths and promises. It's intent and content is reverently inspired to serve as a type of rudder to guide each believer safely to the peaceful shores of Gods divine promises. This compilation of varied messages touches almost every facet of our private and public lives, regardless of our station in life. Each inspired piece is filled with biblical truths and vivid examples that seeks to both prepare and preserve us through the many challenges that's confronts us on a daily basis. The underlying theme that runs through each message is one of a passionate call to believers to return to the core biblical values found in the Word of God. It also demands of us, a deeper relationship with the Lord through an uncompromising lifestyle of True Worship and Holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord. The narrative told in each piece, is distinctively wrapped in an overlay of prophetic and poetic parables interwoven with inspirational thoughts and quotes that are divinely designed to guided each believer towards the fulfillment of their calling in Christ. "Beloved Hear My Heart" gives the reader a deep literary discourse in which each believer can grow from glory to glory in Christ Jesus.

Principles of Accounts (Cxc) - Fay Thompson-Hosein 1988-07-29

Principles of Accounts is a major new textbook which provides in-depth coverage of all aspects of the CXC Principles of Accounts and Book Keeping syllabuses at basic and general levels. It is also an invaluable resource book for students preparing for advanced level accounting and for those taking accounting examinations with other examining bodies. Emphasis is placed on a clear, thorough, step-by-step presentation suitable for both classroom use and self study. Worked examples of typical exam-style questions reinforce the text and illustrate the layout of different kinds of accounts. Numerous exercises in each chapter give students plenty of practice on questions based on CXC requirements. Selected answers are given at the back of the book.

Bread for Life Breadfruit - Volentedeo George
2015-06-15

Bread for Life - 'Breadfruit' - A multicultural cuisine. On its own, the title of this book informs the reader that this is no ordinary recipe book. Along with several remarkable features, the contents do not disappoint! *This is one of very few recipe books that is devoted to breadfruit; it also highlights the breadnut or chataigne, a very close relative; *it provides a very good introduction and useful general guidelines for those who know little about these fruits; *many of these tasty recipes were developed by Chef Volentedeo George over several years; *the details provided on how to make and use breadfruit flour in cooking is unique; *it has a typically multicultural Caribbean appeal. Sharing these creative and attractive dishes with the wider public was clearly a labour of love. I commend Chef George for this significant contribution to the efforts to achieve greater food and nutrition security by encouraging greater consumption of these nutritious, but underutilised fruit. Dr. Laura Roberts-Nkrumah, Senior Lecturer, Department of Crop Production, Faculty of Food and Agriculture, The University of the West Indies

Bad Girl Blues - 2015

Brigid Manderson had the blues. She wanted to go to medical school but she couldn't afford it. When her mother, an ex prostitute, invited her to work for her escort business she didn't want to but circumstances forced her hand. Her most recent customer was the wealthy record producer, Thomas Kellier. He wanted her and he was willing to pay for the privilege of having her. Would Brigid succumb to his wealth and charm, or would she choose the harder path of love with Dr. Nick Benedict, a Christian guy who had no idea who she really was?

I and I - Rhonda Cobham 2016

When V.S. Naipaul, Kamau Brathwaite and Derek Walcott published their first literary efforts there was no such thing as a Caribbean literary tradition. By the end of the twentieth century their work had begun to set the standard for literary production across the English-speaking world and they knew it would outlive them. The epitaphs for themselves and others written into their later works are meant to pre-empt their judgement by others, to tutor us in the proper ways of reading their achievements and to insert into the literary tradition, against the odds, a record of their subjectivity. This endless tautological conversation of I with I conceals a drift towards aesthetic stagnation but it has allowed all three authors the licence to experiment with new forms and to face up to issues that in their earlier work they were too insecure or too inexperienced to confront. The elegant close readings Rhonda Cobham-Sander offers here from Naipaul's A Way in the World, Brathwaite's Barabajan Poems and Walcott's Omeros demonstrate how the project of writing one's critical epitaph becomes an overriding thematic concern as well as an important source of stylistic innovation in the work of all three writers. From personal testimony, to analytic insight, to theoretical interventions, her essays explore and celebrate the unique relationship the three writers forged with each other and with their Caribbean readers over the course of their careers. "I and I: Epitaphs for the Self" enhances critical appreciation of the work of Naipaul, Brathwaite and Walcott and, in effect, of anglophone Caribbean literature. To make the central focus of attention the authors' conflicted negotiations, knowing or subconscious, with their sense of self in relation to their Caribbean audience and context, is itself a significant contribution. . . . It should provoke some fresh thinking about the three authors. . . . The scholarship is sound and impressive."--Edward Baugh, Professor Emeritus, Department of English, University of the West Indies, Mona, Jamaica

A Boy Named Neville - Linda Gambrill 2008

Neville doesn't pay much attention to school and is always boasting about his 'great life'. Neville is Beenybud's friend, but she begins to suspect that there are things about his 'great life' which she doesn't know. As things happen to Neville, Bennybud discovers not only the truth about her friend but a truth about friendship.

Her Mistaken Dream - Brenda Barrett
2015-05-19

Caitlin Denvers dreamed about the guy she was going to marry. Her dreams were vivid and had all come true so far, so of course this one would. But then she sees him on a TV program about notorious criminals... Turns out that her dream guy, Todd Taylor, has a dead wife in his past and he was the main suspect in her murder. Did he really do it? Or did Caitlin have a mistaken dream for the first time? Because surely God wouldn't want her to marry a murderer...

The Bed Defiled - Sylvia M Dallas 2015-11-18
Is the bed clean just because you have spread a new sheet on top of the dirty one? Is the house clean if it is not swept, but you have put up new drapes? Many couples live together in relative harmony before getting married, but as soon as they are married, all hell seems to break loose. Why is this so? The author examines this phenomenon based on the Word of God. The simplicity of the answer may surprise you.
