Girlwood - Claire Dean 2008-05-19

Polly Greene has always been considered strange, a girl who can see a person's true colors, a thirteen-year-old more comfortable foraging in the woods with her eccentric grandmother than hanging out with friends. But all that is about to change when Polly's older sister, Bree, vanishes into the woods. The only one who believes Bree can survive, Polly begins to leave food in the woods for her sister and finds a hidden grove she names Girlwood, where she believes Bree is burning a fire each night. Along with an odd but endearing group of friends, Polly clings to the hope that she can see her sister through the harsh, snowy winter. And, in the process, she discovers the cruelty, bounty, and magic of the woods. Will Polly save her sister? And even if she does, will Girlwood survive?

Good Boy - Claire Dean 2020-08-12

The only thing that really matters in the world is to not be alone in it. Saved from the shelter by "Good Boy," a lonely widower with a terrible secret and a silent, sterile life, Toby, a Great Dane/Labrador/Jerk mix begins a love affair with king-sized beds, food from a can, and every creature on his street except for one cruel man, and a haughty ginger cat. With blazing speed and a knack for quick escapes, Toby upends Good Boy's quiet life and leaps into the laps and hearts of his neighbors, from a heartbroken widow and the ghost who can't leave her to the teenager who is more dog-like than girl. With a dog's ability to perceive what a human can't, Toby befriends the living and the dead, and everyone in between. A hundred plus pounds of muscle, joy, and open rebellion, Toby brings mud, chaos and unconditional love to a world of loneliness and loss. Claire Dean, who also writes as Christy Yorke and Christy Cohen, is the author of 11 published novels, including Girlwood, Spirit Caller, and The Wishing Garden. She lives in Boise, Idaho with her husband, Robert, and Jenny, a Great Dane/Labrador/Jerk mix. The pseudonym Claire Dean is taken from the names of the author's two children, and only used when she writes the books of her heart. Good Boy is one of those rare novels. While most of the author's books have a dog running around in them somewhere, Jenny wants to make it clear that she is the first star.

Comma - Jennifer Still 2017

Poetry. "It was a long silence that brought me to the erasure poem. Not mine, but my brother's, during his many months in a coma. I came across a notebook of his--a pocket-sized, handwritten field guide of prairie grasses. I read it for companionship, signs of consciousness, attention. I read it for the rhythms of his still and distant hand...I was reading a taxonomy of grief: silique drifted into soliloquy." Between 2008 and 2014, while her brother was in a lengthy coma, award-winning poet Jennifer Still engaged in a private collaboration with the art and wonder that was his handwritten field guide of prairie grasses. The result: the stunning works of poetry and imagery encapsulated in COMMA. Still was moved by an overarching impulse of grief to create these poems. In the brittle lexicon of botany, and in the hum of the machines keeping her brother alive, she developed a hands-on method of composition that plays with the possibilities of what can be 'read' on a page. COMMA enacts a state of transformation and flux, all in an effort to portray the embodiment of grief and regeneration that can be achieved in the physical breakdown and reassembly of lyric poetic forms. "COMMA is a living, breathing, field guide to the unconscious--Still's poems flicker and leap from the page. This collection is an immersive, tactile wonder, a compassionate, steadfast companion: a truly remarkable exploration by a truly remarkable artist." --Christine Fellows "COMMA offers an unaccountably delicate experience. Yet these deft images and words are like slivers piercing situations and sensibility with guileless insight. The grace with which Jennifer Still's poems express experience is magical. Read the poetry as you might search for a special midnight star, by attending to the edges of vision (and words) where brightness shines best." --Jeanne Randolph

The Malahat Review - 2011

Girlwood - Jennifer Still 2011

A linguistically inventive exaltation, a wild ride down into the privacies, the here-and-goneness of girlhood.

Eva-Mary - Linda McCarriston 1994

Finalist, 1991 National Book Award for Poetry Winner, Terrence Des Pres Prize for Poetry "I lean into my own loving/touch, for which no wound/is too ugly, ' Linda McCarriston says at the end of 'Healing the Mare,' one of the many poems of extraordinary poignancy and power in Eva-Mary. These unflinching poems of violence and violation and loss earn her the right to such a claim. It's a survivor's claim and these are the poems of a survivor, as scrupulous in their language and art as they are in their quest to register honestly the familial unspoken, a life inside a life." --Stephen Dunn

The Amazing World With Wood Chips - Frank Evans 2016-01-14

There's a place we all will go far beyond the world we know. Close our eyes we fall asleep deep in dreams things might creep. But mostly dreams of life we know there's a time when dreams will go. Tall or wide, short or small, amazing things come to us all. Good or bad, happy or sad, place on paper dreams you have. For all those little wonderful things now you have something to bring. Bring to others, bring to light, all your dreams you have at night. Give us all something to read. Amaze us all with your amazing dreams.

Fire and Ink - Frances Payne Adler 2009

Fire and Ink is a powerful and impassioned anthology of stories, poems, interviews, and essays that confront some of the most pressing social issues of our day. Designed to inspire and inform, this collection embodies the concepts of Òbreaking silence, Òbearing witness, Òresistance, and resilience. Beyond students and teachers, the book will appeal to all readers with a commitment to social justice. Fire and Ink brings together, for the first time in one volume, politically engaged writing by poets, fiction writers, and essayists. Including many of our finest writers—Martín Espada, Adrienne Rich, June Jordan, Patricia Smith, Gloria Anzaldúa, Sharon Olds, Arundhati Roy, Sonia Sanchez, Carolyn Forché, Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni, Alice Walker, Linda Hogan, Gary Soto, Kim Blaese, Minnie Bruce Pratt, Li-Young Lee, and Jimmy Santiago Baca, among others—this is an indispensable collection. This groundbreaking anthology marks the emergence of social action writing as a distinct field within creative writing and literature. Featuring never-before-published pieces, as well as reprinted material, Fire and Ink is divided into ten sections focused on significant social issues, including identity, sexuality and gender, the environment, social justice, work, war, and peace. The pieces can often be gripping, such as “Frame,” in which Adrienne Rich confronts government and police brutality, or Chris Abani’s “Ode to Joy,” which documents great courage in the face of mortal danger. Fire and Ink serves as a wonderful reader for a wide range of courses, from composition and rhetoric classes to courses in ethnic studies, gender studies, American studies, and even political science, by facing a past that was often accompanied by injustice and suffering. But beyond that, this collection teaches us that we all have the power to create a more equitable and just future. É

Spirit Caller - Claire Dean 2014-01-10

No one ever said a guardian angel had to be human...After Jacob is attacked by a grizzly bear, everyone expects him to have nightmares. But it isn't until seven years later, when his family moves to a tiny mountain town in Idaho, that the bear—along with other spirits both animal and human—begin to haunt him. Now, 13-year-old Jacob is not only trying to fit in at a new, tough school, he's suddenly infused with the raw power of the grizzly who tormented him, and aware of every creature, down to the smallest ant, breathing inside his house. Hawks appear to guide him, bats lend him their invisibility, a man's ghost emerges from the haunted woods that Jacob has feared ever since the bear attack. But mostly it's the grizzly, stalking both Jacob's dreams and the town, and finally impelling him, along with his unlikely new friends, to discover their own spirit guides and begin a journey . . . into the woods where everything started. On the hunt to kill, or save, a bear. With Spirit Caller, author Claire Dean returns to the rich, natural world created in her critically acclaimed novel, Girlwood, offering another magical story of the wonders that can happen when a teenager steps out the front door. Praise for Claire Dean's novels: "This is exactly the kind of book I would have loved as a teenager. It emphasizes the healing power of animals and nature which has helped so many young people cope with their problems all over the world. It will help young readers to understand that it is okay to be different. And that every individual can play a role in making this a better world." --Dr. Jane Goodall, DBE "[I]ntriguing first novel...Dean's celebration of the earthy, living magic that exists 'everywhere'...will lure YAs." --Booklist 02/15/08 Booklist, ALA "Polly's unflinching belief in beauty and the power...to change...destinies marries well with the optimistic tone of the novel." Bulletin of the Center for Children's Books "A fine story of magic and fantasy evolves in a fine read for young adults who want uplifting adventure." Midwest Book Review

Girlwood - Jennifer Still 2011

A linguistically inventive exaltation, a wild ride down into the privacies, the here-and-goneness of girlhood. In Girlwood, Jennifer Still's second collection, her poems come of age: they take the dare; they cross out of sapling and into maturity's thicket. But the poems don't leave the girl behind, they bring her along: as sylph, as raconteur, as witness, as pure, unstoppable bravado. These songs of liberation and confinement arise from the rich and mysterious connection between mother and daughter. Here, the mother figure is as vulnerable as the daughter, caged by domestic duty, by the fear that snakes through sexuality, the longing and the repulsion that accompany mortal desire. The daughter is at once compassionate and defiant. This is the paradox at the heart of this collection. Mother, divine me, Jennifer Still writes, and later, Mother, spare me. Between these two phrases, which are both plea and command, we experience all the tangled pathways between mother and daughter, the cries of devotion and the congested laments.
