In Love and Because of Love Kathy Campbell-Barton

2005-01-06 In Love and Because of Love is an outpouring of poems written within a period of 120 days echoing the poet's fragmented fractured world following the death of her spouse.

Kathy Campbell-Barton uses the written word to express emotions of loss, fear, and frustration ultimately synonymous with love for life. The book embodies an attempt to begin a process of self-healing that leads to radically loving. Reflections of past experiences and relationships are articulated in a way that connects ordinary life with the spiritual. In Love and Because of Love is an affirmation to love and a testament to abiding hope.

Healing A Broken Heart Sarah La Saulle 2010-05-11 The loss of a love is a nearly universal emotional crisis, whether the end is divorce, desertion, or a mutually agreed-upon separation. At first, friends and family are there to offer a shoulder to cry on, but after a few months there's an expectation that we just need to get over the crisis and move on. Thus, unprocessed, painful feelings are buried, leaving us numb. Or we repeat damaging relationship patterns over and over again. The situation doesn't have to be like that. Healing a Broken Heart guides those of us grieving for a lost love through four metaphorical seasons of recovery with provocative questions -- and journal pages on which to respond -- to help move us forward. The four seasons serve as powerful metaphors for the stages of the grieving process. Summer is the season for charting the course of a relationship: remembering hopes and expectations, the warning signs that went unheeded. During autumn, journalers accept the reality of breaking up and acknowledge things about the relationship that didn't serve their needs. Winter brings the pain of grief over the profound loss. Finally, spring -- and, with it, renewal -- invites readers to examine and understand how their family history may have affected their past relationships. Punctuated throughout with poems and moving meditations, the thoughtful, interactive approach of this book offers the time and space we all need to heal when our hearts are broken.

Life, Love and Legacy Cassandra Farmer 2021-01-19 I remember what the backyard on Knot Street where we lived briefly in Shelby, NC looked like when dark; lots of kudzu, empty, and only one streetlight. There was lots of yelling, someone breaking a television, and for a while I thought it was just a dream--the color pink, a simple chiffon dress that gathered at the bust. Although I was very young, some things, like her voice, stuck with me forever. I remember her singing while cooking. This memory replays itself in my mind, in my spirit and in my heart. My third birthday was only five weeks away when my entire world changed. Through my innocent my little world was filled the calm moments of my mom cooking and singing in the kitchen. But, there are also memories of things like the television being thrown and busted, someone being chased and running for her life, horrible fights and crying.

prediction of the lofty heights my life would reach. The likelihood of this outcome wasn't apparent. I achieved good grades, and my report cards showed glowing teacher feedback. My interests included school musical productions, sports, studying, and writing. I spent my lunch breaks in the library playing chess and devouring books by Tolkien and Asimov. I suppose he thought that once sex came into the picture, I would fall into some sort of sex spell, sending the trajectory of my life on a downward spiral. I knew he was just being nasty. He was an abusive man, even when he was sober. Our mother did not live with us, so we had no protection or female role model. I was ten when my older sister informed me, "When we turn sixteen, we can legally leave home and not be sent back." I counted the years. When my sister turned sixteen, she came into my room and said, "I'm leaving." I was confused, but I could see she had packed all her belongings. I cried as I watched her walk down the driveway and take the taxi to freedom. When my Dad arrived home from work, he asked, "Where's your sister?" I told him what had happened. He could tell it was a surprise to me as well. A year later, it was my turn to escape. I wrote a letter to my mother disclosing what was happening under my father's roof. Days later, as I was leaving the school campus, I saw her standing at the big rock with my grandmother. They had come to retrieve my little sister and me. They took us home to gather our belongings. I left that cruel man behind, claimed my freedom, and never looked back. My life quickly became a spiritual path dedicated to the pursuit of self-inquiry, self-awareness, and emotional healing. Ironically (and unrelated to his prediction), there never was a pregnancy, although I do own an extensive collection of shoes!

Self-Love Healing Journal Ivana Richey 2019-04-26 There is something extraordinarily unique about being able to express our emotions, thoughts, and feelings through writing. Taking that emotion, taking that thought, taking that feeling from your mind and body to create something tangible is an incredible act of self-love. It's a way to transform energy, clear any blockages, and blindspots you may not always be aware of. Journaling is about connecting with your inner-self. The core you. The true you. The part of you which hasn't been seen in a long time because of certain hurtful experiences in your life as well as your subconscious programming. be in love with CHRIST first, and allow His love to heal the pains and shame that other people caused me and the ones I caused myself. His Word has been medicine to my life. You will see in this journal how I have become vulnerable with sharing my trials hoping to encourage you through hard times. Even in the horrible things I went through GOD made and continues to make all things work for my good; so others become whole. These situations were not meant to destroy who God destined me to be . But He used them so I can come out as pure gold, to glorify Him and be a living testimony of His love. It is because of Him I wrote this journal knowing that through this process He has never and will never leave me. Choosing to be in love with Christ is the best decision I have every made and that anyone else can do. Take your time with this journal, do not be afraid to sit down with this journal, and the bible; be vulnerable, as you let GOD search, purify, and heal you.
