The Science of Home Making Emma E. Pirie,2015-06-25 Excerpt from The Science of Home Making A Textbook in Home Economics This book is intended for use in the Home Economics classes of the grammar and lower high school grades both in cities and in rural schools Technical terms have been used sparingly because where the time devoted to Home Economics is limited as it is in most schools of this grade the acquirement of a special vocabulary is not practicable Few experiments depending on a knowledge of chemistry are included as pupils are not yet familiar with this subject Little stress is laid on experimental cooking because in the author s judgment the aim of elementary teaching in food preparation should be the development of the underlying science including the physiological facts of food and digestion and the effect of heat upon food In addition the course should secure for the pupil a fair degree of skill in preparing and serving foods A large number of supplementary recipes are given in the Appendix It is hoped that this feature will not only offer the teacher a wide range of choice in the preparation of her course of work but will also tend to make the book a valuable cook book for the home kitchen after its service as a school text has been rendered If the hygienic principles of the school cooking lesson can thus be brought into closer relationship to their later use in the home a very real advantage will be gained The teaching in Home Economics should center about the home It should strive to give girls a realization of the importance of home making in the development of the individual and of the great part the home plays in the formation of the citizenship of the community and of the nation Great stress is laid on hygiene and sanitation including the study of bacteria and hygienic methods of cleaning About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Reforming Teaching and Teacher Education Eija Kimonen,Raimo Nevalainen,2017-03-21 What are the prerequisites for reforming education and how can these reforms be seen in school development and culture How should teacher education support this reform process What are the principles and practices underlying the functioning of the schools of tomorrow These questions are examined in this unique volume The authors in this book argue that the central function of teacher education and education in general is to respond to the challenges brought on by the twenty first century According to this approach the competencies and skills needed in the future are not merely a new addition to school activities but rather something requiring a comprehensive reform of school culture encompassing teacher education curricula and teaching methods Such a fundamental process of change in the action and thinking models used by schools would be an effort to achieve a complete transformation the result of which would be schools developing into organizations that are both creative and imbued with a strong sense of community A central attribute is that the creation of new knowledge is not just restricted to the classroom but also takes place in out of school environments This would link learning to its natural context eventually leading to an ideal instruction that is actively problem oriented holistic and life centered This reform minded volume is divided into three parts The first part focuses on the reform processes in teacher education the second on the reforms of pedagogics at schools and teacher education institutions and the third on the processes of reculturing schools New prospects for active schools in the United States and Europe as well as in Japan and China are discussed
