Marriage Killers - John Page
2012-05

"Dr. John Page has created a heavily facetious handbook of seven foolproof ways to destroy a relationship, complete with case studies drawn from his own experiences. His relationship-killing "strategies" include not listening to one's significant other, keeping finances completely separate, watching porn and denigrating a spouse's family and friends. Once readers waded through the sarcasm, Page offers solid, commonsense relationship advice: make time for each other; trust each other; support, nurture and respect your significant other; and let the things that are important to him or her be important to you. He makes the interesting and thoughtful point that readers

Everyday millions of couples go from dating, engagement to marriage and what is supposed to be wedded bliss, a time for lovers ends up being a nightmare for the mother of the groom. From the moment the daughter-in-law is introduced to her future mother-in-law, mom has assessed everything about her from the mints she pops in her mouth, the size shoes she wears, the outdated or whorish clothing she wears, to the things that cause her to break out in hives. Having a mother-in-law who is sweet and loving one minute and makes you feel like a true daughter, only to find out, mom has been saying things behind your back to your husband is confusing for many daughter-in-law's who end up missing mama's deceptive, manipulative, controlling, seductive, entrapping and betraying ways. Good old mom is not going to let her son out of her sight or allow another woman who happens to be his wife control him. A mother-in-law that is a six lays down the law early on, which many daughters-in-law tend to ignore. Relationship Sabotage -

William J. Matta 2006-07-30

Hidden forces—memories of past poor or hurtful relationships—drive repressed feelings and emotions that are often outside our awareness.

Though we want to love and be loved, to nurture and be nurtured, those forces can wreak havoc and cause relationship sabotage, destroying couples and even whole families. The scenario is so common, explains therapist Matta, that often people get divorced without even fully understanding why, or what it was that came between them.

In many cases, what it was were the lingering but unconscious memories of lessons learned as far back as childhood. These lessons may have no true bearing or justification in the current relationship, yet they can strongly affect it, fueling marital games, extra-marital affairs, addictions, poor parenting practices and a host of other harmful actions. Matta argues that we can learn to recognize these imprints and move past them to build or keep rewarding relationships. His book makes us aware, and gives us the tools to break the
