Flashbacks and Echoes - Tina Klement

2021-07

How do you live in a world in which everything is an illusion? How do you move on, when the flashbacks of your past won't stop hunting you? An emotional story about friendship, love, family drama, heartbreak and growing up. Or something like that. Kat's life has been picture-perfect since she can remember. Now it's time for her to write her own story, moving across the country to start college with her best friend. New city, new friends and a mysterious dark-haired boy who turns her world upside down. Kat's more of an introvert, she's never really been in love and rather reads books than goes to parties. She a realist, believing that earth-shattering love exists only in fiction - until she meets Noah. The tall handsome boy, with the darkest eyes and brightest smile she's ever seen. He has demons of his own, but together they can get through it all. Obviously. For a while, she's been suspecting that something is wrong with her brother Kyle and her parents. After finding out her life wasn't as perfect as she believed, everything changes. Her brother, her parents, even her best friend had been lying to her. Sometimes forever isn't as long as we'd hoped and when it ends, it comes crashing down, destroying everything in its path. And it hurts like hell. . . . The first novel from the series Back To You and the first-ever published book by new author Tina Klement.

Woodstock Revisited - Edited by Susan Reynolds

"This is the real deal. These folks were actually there and done did it! Reading this is just like being there, except you have to supply your own mud. Enjoy!" Wavy Gravy Widely regarded as one of the greatest moments in popular music history, the huge counterculture party known as the Woodstock Music & Arts Festival of 1969 materialized amidst highly controversial military conflict abroad and unnerving racial discord at home. Feeling as if they'd "found their tribe," some 450,000 hippies and ordinary youth sat shoulder to shoulder through thundershowers, downpours, late nights, a lack of food or water, and mud as thick as bricks to watch Jimi Hendrix, The Who, Crosby Stills Nash & Young, Joe Cocker, Janis Joplin, Santana, Jefferson Airplane, and many others. Even when they ran out of food and water, peace reigned, minds were opened, drugs were abundant, fantastic music filled the air, and love abounded. Even today, fifty years after the main event, Woodstock 1969 remains legendary throughout the world. This is the only book that captures true accounts from the kids, forty-seven who made it, and a few who didn't. Going well beyond being caught in traffic or mired in mud, these stories capture the life experiences of the hardy souls who survived Woodstock, and reflect what was in America in the late 1960s. If you're one who didn't make it to Woodstock 1969, then this collection of true stories will help you get down in the mud with those who did. 2019 is the 50th anniversary of the Woodstock Festival and it's still fresh in the minds of millions. "Everyone all over the world will be reading about you tomorrow." Announcer at Woodstock "A beautiful black man wearing paisley pants and a leather vest circled us, an apparition who laughed and flirted and was so sexy and so high, kissing each of us as if we were his girlfriend. It wasn't until later that I realized it had been Jimi Hendrix." Despite her rather conservative exterior, Editor Susan Reynolds happily joined the throngs of young people congregating at Woodstock-an event that shaped her life and her generation. She went on to become a professional writer and editor, authoring or editing many non-fiction and fiction books. Learn more on <https://www.fireupyourwritingbrain.com>.

An Eye for Hitchcock - Murray Pomerance 2004

Film scholar Murray Pomerance presents a series of meditations on six films directed by the legendary Alfred Hitchcock, a master of the cinema. Two of the films are extraordinarily famous and have been seen - and misunderstood - countless times: North by Northwest and Vertigo. Two others, Marnie and Torn Curtain, have been mostly disregarded by viewers and critics, or considered to be colossal mistakes, while two others, Spellbound and I Confess have received almost no critical attention at all. Hitchcock's vision and his screen architecture, revealing key elements and showing how Hitchcock was profoundly interested not only in social class, but also in humanity's philosophical predicament, as we traverse a world fraught with shifting appearances, multiple deceptions, vulnerability and peril. Pomerance also reveals the link between Hitchcock's work and a wide range of thinkers and artists in other fields.

Flashbacks to Happiness - Randolph Michaels 2005-09

What do Gregory Abbott, Boy Meets Girl, Lou Christie, Club Nouveau, Gardner Cole, Cutting Crew, Rick Dees, The Escape Club, Expose, Michael Sembello, Billy Vera & the Beaters, Rob Hyman, Tiffany, The Knack, A Taste of Honey and Wild Cherry all have in common? For starters, they are all pop stars that have enjoyed the experience of having their songs reach the Number One position on the American music charts. They are also among the 140 artists who responded to writer Randolph Michael's call to be questioned for this book, Flashbacks to Happiness, which is a survey of hit songs of the 1980's and what it took to make them. Readers who are interested in popular music, and the '80's decade in particular, will find the interviews included within these pages to be fascinating testaments of how the music industry has changed to such a drastic extent in the last 20 years. It also details how artists have managed to keep their careers alive despite today's increasingly unstable marketplace and often-fickle music buying public.

With a Kiss, I Die: An Interracial Forbidden Love Romance - K. Alex Walker 2019-03

A woman who spends her entire life thinking she is cursed, and the man who never expected to fall for her. The minute he exited the cave opening, the light hit his pupils. He felt like a vampire rising after millennia of dormancy. The sun was low, a purplish-orange fireball sitting on the surface of the ocean. Even in the darkening evening light, it took a while for his eyes to get adjusted. But then, they did. Ben...breathe. It wasn't simply because it was the first time he was seeing her in direct light, and her skin glowed like the volcanic rock attached to the blade in her hand. It wasn't the way the sun hit her hair and he could make out all the different hues of blue that adorned each strand. It wasn't even because the light behind her, along with his still adjusting eyesight, made her look carved in marble worthy of display in the Basilica of San Domenico. It was her excitement. It was the very first time he'd ever seen her with such breathlessness. Flushed. Vulnerable. * * * * *

Reviews: "I could not put it down. I loved Roux's straightforwardness and her ability to handle herself. And I loved her pets. Ben, poor sweet Ben, fell hopelessly in love. He seemed halfway in love with her before he'd even laid eyes on her." "I have to say I was freaking AWED by this story." "To other IR writers: take note. This is how it is done. I really hated to see this story end. Truly a beautiful story. I look forward to reading more from Ms. Walker in the future." "Flashback is like a impossible dream unfolding into a beautiful reality of unconditional love." A slow burn BWWM standalone romance that is part of the anticipated Flashback Series.

Beyond the Epic - Gene Phillips 2006-11-24
Two-time Academy Award winner Sir David Lean (1908-1991) was one of the most prominent directors of the twentieth century, responsible for the classics The Bridge on the River Kwai (1957), Lawrence of Arabia (1962), and Doctor Zhivago (1965). British-born Lean asserted himself in Hollywood as a major filmmaker with his epic storytelling and panoramic visions of history, but he started out as a talented film editor and director in Great Britain. As a result, he brought an art-house mentality to blockbuster films. Combining elements of biography and film criticism, Beyond the Epic: The Life and Films of David Lean uses screenplays and production histories to assess Lean's body of work. Author Gene D. Phillips interviews actors who worked with Lean and directors who knew him, and their comments reveal new details about the director's life and career. Phillips also explores Lean's lesser-studied films, such as The Passionate Friends (1949), Hobson's Choice (1954), and Summertime (1955). The result is an in-depth examination of the director in cultural, historical, and cinematic contexts. Lean's approach to filmmaking was far different than that of many of his contemporaries. He chose his films carefully and, as a result, directed only sixteen films in a period of more than forty years. Those films, however, have become some of the landmarks of motion-picture history. Lean is best known for his epics, but Phillips also focuses on Lean's successful adaptations of famous works of literature, including retellings of plays such as Brief Encounter (1945) and novels such as Great Expectations (1946), Oliver Twist (1948), and A Passage to India (1984). From expansive studies of war and strife to some of literature's greatest high comedies and domestic dramas, Lean imbued all of his films with his unique creative vision. Few directors can match Lean's ability to combine narrative sweep and psychological detail, and Phillips goes beyond Lean's epics to reveal this unifying characteristic in the director's body of work. Beyond the Epic is a vital assessment of a great director's artistic process and his place in the film industry.
