Healing Wounded Emotions - Martin H. Padovani 1987

In this empathetic and inspiring resource, Padovani describes how one's emotional and spiritual lives interact, as he challenges readers to live fuller, more satisfying lives.

Touching the Heart - William J. Bausch 2007

No one can write about storytelling like Father Bill Bausch. Both his words and his stories are compelling, convincing, and completely absorbing. Here in this landmark work, which he insists is his last, his goal is to help readers see the centrality of stories, to read and hear Scripture as story and not as history, and to learn to enrich and expand their lives by looking at the "story behind the story." He wants to break readers out of the literalism that constricts their spiritual and social lives, so they might gain an appreciation of metaphor and symbol and the "sacramentality" of the world.

Restoring Your Self - Peter M. Kalellis 2002

Kalellis' five-step plan puts readers in touch with the portrait of their restored self, dispelling harmful romanticism. The steps include acknowledging that one is not alone, restoring self-expression, and undertaking honest self-evaluation.

Rethinking Popular Culture and Media - Elizabeth Marshall 2011

A provocative collection of articles that begins with the idea that the "popular" in classrooms and in the everyday lives of teachers and students is fundamentally political. This anthology includes articles by elementary and secondary public school teachers, scholars and activists who examine how and what popular toys, books, films, music and other media "teach." The essays offer strong critiques and practical pedagogical strategies for educators at every level to engage with the popular.

Curando relacionamentos feridos - Martin Padovani 2014-03-13

O livro lida com muitos aspectos de nossas relações com os outros, especialmente com aqueles de quem somos mais próximos e íntimos. Martin Padovani, psicoterapeuta e padre já há muito tempo, oferece conselhos sábios e práticos sobre como se comunicar, ouvir um ao outro, tornar-se mais próximo e perdoar. Ele orienta sobre como lidar com tempos de perda, cura, sofrimento e ansiedade, especialmente quando tais fases afetam nossos relacionamentos. Além disso, também aborda uma área com a qual quase todos encontram problemas: a do amor-próprio. "Curando relacionamentos feridos" lhe oferecerá insights e nutrição espiritual, bem como a ajuda prática, atenciosa e experiente de que você precisa para crescer em seu relacionamento com Deus, com os outros e consigo mesmo.

Fungal Infections of the Central Nervous System - Mehmet Turgut 2019-07-05

This book provides comprehensive information on fungal infections of the central nervous system (CNS). Fungal infections are still a major public health challenge for most of the developing world and even for developed countries due to the rising numbers of immune compromised patients, refugee movements, and international travel. Although fungal infections involving the CNS are not particularly common, when they do occur, the results can be devastating in spite of recent advances and currently available therapies. Further, over the past several years, the incidence of these infections has seen a steep rise among immunodeficient patients. In this context, aggressive surgery remains the mainstay of management, but conservative antifungal drug treatment complemented by aggressive surgical debridement may be necessary. Yet the optimal management approach to fungal infections of the CNS remains controversial, owing to the limited individual experience and the variable clinical course of the conditions. Addressing that problem, this comprehensive book offers the ideal resource for neurosurgeons, neurologists and other specialists working with infectious diseases.

The Metaphorical Brain - Seana Coulson 2016-03-09

Metaphor has been an issue of intense research and debate for decades (see, for example [1]). Researchers in various disciplines, including linguistics, psychology, computer science, education, and philosophy have developed a variety of theories, and much progress has been made [2]. For one, metaphor is no longer considered a rhetorical flourish that is found mainly in literary texts. Rather, linguists have shown that metaphor is a pervasive phenomenon in everyday language, a major force in the development of new word meanings, and the source of at least some grammatical function words [3]. Indeed, one of the most influential theories of metaphor involves the suggestion that the commonality of metaphoric language results because cross-domain mappings are a major determinant in the organization of semantic memory, as cognitive and neural resources for dealing with concrete domains are recruited for the conceptualization of more abstract ones [4]. Researchers in cognitive neuroscience have explored whether particular kinds of brain damage are associated with metaphor production and comprehension deficits, and whether similar brain regions are recruited when healthy adults understand the literal and metaphorical meanings of the same words (see [5] for a review) . Whereas early research on this topic focused on the issue of the role of hemispheric asymmetry in the comprehension and production of metaphors [6], in recent years cognitive neuroscientists have argued that metaphor is not a monolithic category, and that metaphor processing varies as a function of numerous factors, including the novelty or conventionality of a particular metaphoric expression, its part of speech, and the extent of contextual support for the metaphoric meaning (see, e.g., [7], [8], [9]). Moreover, recent developments in cognitive neuroscience point to a sensorimotor basis for many concrete concepts, and raise the issue of whether these mechanisms are ever recruited to process more abstract domains [10]. This Frontiers Research Topic brings together contributions from researchers in cognitive neuroscience whose work involves the study of metaphor in language and thought in order to promote the development of the neuroscientific investigation of metaphor. Adopting an interdisciplinary perspective, it synthesizes current findings on the cognitive neuroscience of metaphor, provides a forum for voicing novel perspectives, and promotes avenues for new research on the metaphorical brain. Churchmen and Urban Government in Late Medieval Italy, c.1200-c.1450 - Frances Andrews 2013-11-28

Major new study of secular-religious boundaries and the role of the clergy in the administration of Italy's late medieval city-states.

Pursuing Wellness, Finding Spirituality - Richard J. Gilmartin 1996

The term "good health" involves more than just the absence of disease. This probing and dynamic book demonstrates how we can become "healthy and well" through an examination of the physical, psychological and spiritual nature of humans. Topics include interpersonal relationships, coping with stress, dealing with emotions, overcoming shame, death, freedom, our ultimate aloneness, and the meaning of life.

Novels of Genocide - Olivier Nyirubugara 2017

This book deals with the genocide in Rwanda by analysing 10 Rwandan-authored novels that reveal a lot about memory processes in post-genocide Rwanda. The author argues that the freedom the novelists enjoy to create their own Rwanda enable them to explore the most controversial aspects of the relationships amongst the Hutu and the Tutsi.
