Rational Sex Ethics - W. F. Robie 2015-06-02
Excerpt from Rational Sex Ethics: A Physiological and Psychological Study of the Sex Lives of Normal Men and Women, With Suggestions for a Rational Sex Hygiene With Reference to Actual Case Histories I have received many valuable suggestions for this study, and much really serviceable help has been rendered me by many educated, altruistic men and women. Nay, but for their voluntary contributions of secrets long held inviolate in the soul's innermost recesses, this study and anything of value that may arise from it, would not have been possible. I desire at this time to express my deepest thanks and highest appreciation for what I know was, to all these, not only a sacrifice of valuable time, but of carefully guarded feelings. Because of the large number, and for other obvious reasons, I am not able to name those to whom I am indebted, but I trust that the proper parties, one and all, will feel that I am none the less grateful; and I am sure that they will know that my earnest hope unites with theirs that these personal sacrifices may be of some value to the present and rising generations. to conviction when circumstances warrant. That Old ideas are being slowly dislodged is evident from the character Of several recent books on sex. Where formerly the position against auto-erotism at any time and Of any frequency was unequivocal, there are now many writers, who, while clinging to ancient dogma in a measure (throwing a sop to it, as it were), also state on the other side Of the account, recent findings which go to show that they believe and would have their readers think that the tales of death and destruction from this practice have been tremendously exaggerated. While this shows a healthy change in educated opinion, something more than a balancing Of accounts is necessary for the relief Of those who are suffering from an absorption Of the Old pre-scientific ideas. Flat contradictions Of Old - fogy notions must be made over and over again before they can be eradicated. Robinson says, and truly, The evil results Of

think. I have been busy and in perfect health. My powers of endurance of physical and mental fatigue are, I think, unusual. I frequently go several consecutive days and nights without sleep with little noticeable discomfort. I am, first, last and all the time, an optimist; I ate, for many years, four meals a day; I sleep, ordinarily, three to eight hours a night, and at 4-8 look ten years older because of being very gray. All summer I spend from 10 to 14 hours a day in ordinary farm work and much time in similar employment all the year around.
