Guidelines for the management of symptomatic sexually transmitted infections - World Health Organization 2021-07-15

The WHO global health sector strategy on sexually transmitted infections, 2016–2021, endorsed by the World Health Assembly in 2016, aims to eliminate STIs as a public health threat by 2030. In 2019, WHO published estimates of new cases of chlamydia, gonorrhoea, syphilis and trichomoniasis. Recent changes in the epidemiology of STIs and progress in prevention, diagnosis and treatment of STIs and HIV have necessitated changes in approaches to STI prevention and management. To address these STIs, the most widely used approach in clinical settings is the syndromic management of STIs.

In most resource-limited settings, the syndromic management flow charts are still the standard of care where laboratory diagnosis is not available or is hard to access. The objectives of these guidelines are to provide updated, evidence-informed clinical and practical recommendations on the case management of people with symptoms of STIs; and to support countries in updating their national guidelines for the case management of people with symptoms of STIs. These guidelines include the management of symptomatic infections related to urethral discharge syndrome, including persistent urethral discharge syndrome; vaginal discharge syndrome, including persistent vaginal discharge; anorectal infection; genital ulcer disease syndrome; and lower abdominal pain syndrome. These guidelines are intended for programme managers for STI prevention and control at the national level and the health-care providers at the frontline – primary, secondary and tertiary health care.

partner/spouse/girlfriend/boyfriend think? - Am I a bad person? I thought only prostitutes and people who had sex with lots of partners got herpes and other STDs. If for whatever reason you or someone you love has been diagnosed with herpes, you should immediately understand there are some serious health issues which could arise from complications of this infection. This is definitely not a health problem to be ignored. It certainly won't go away on its own, as the herpes simplex virus is a lifetime partnership with its host. However, managed properly, which means a combination of particular lifestyle practices, dietary habits and traditional medicine, herpes need be nothing more than a medical condition which is easily treated and managed. If you believe that sexually-transmitted diseases and infections only happen to prostitutes, drug abusers and other "at risk" individuals existing on the fringes of society, think again. If you think you are "bulletproof" against herpes and other sexually transmitted diseases, consider the following statistics. - Nearly 4 billion people 50 years of age or younger currently have a herpes simplex virus type I (HSV-1) infection. - In the United States, 1 in every 6 people between the ages of 14 and 49 has genital herpes. - It is believed that as much as 50% of all people with herpes type 1 or type 2 do not know they have the infection. - Neonatal herpes passes the virus from a pregnant woman to her newborn child, and kills 6 in every 10 infected newborns. - Herpes complications include ulcers, scabs, pain while urinating and having sex, newborn infection, bladder problems, meningitis, encephalitis, inflammation of the rectum and brain-based health disorders when the condition infects the nervous system. Aside from the physical health problems the herpes simplex virus can create, low self-esteem, embarrassment, shame and a withdrawal from society are frequent emotion-based symptoms. When you understand how to treat and manage your condition holistically and naturally, you get

An Easy Way to Understand Herpes - Brian B. Jacques 2017-05-18

Herpes is a virus that affects most people. Herpes Simplex virus is usually the cause of cold sores around the mouth. Genital herpes is a virus that is found in the genital area of both men and women. Herpes zoster virus is probably better known as shingles which affects the elderly. Chickenpox which is usually associated with a childhood infection is the virus that is implicated in shingles. Amazingly, it remains dormant for years until a person is older, then it decides for reasons best known to itself to become active again. There is no cure for a herpes viral infection. Once you have got it, you have got it for life. The best way to stop a re-occurrence of the infection is to make sure that your immune system is always operating at peak efficiency. Other things you can do are make sure you do not suffer from stress, go out in the sun without adequate sun protection-especially around your lips. Eat as natural a diet as possible by incorporating all the various food groups. You can do this by buying organic meat, poultry, fruit and vegetables. Also include whole grains, cereals, nuts and seeds. Make sure you get adequate fiber in your diet, as well as dairy products and a small amount of fats. And finally be aware of who you have physical contact with. Do not touch anyone who has an outbreak of cold sores, or you may become infected yourself. Similarly, be mindful of observing good safe sex practices with your partner to help prevent an infection. I have covered the available medications in this book and I have also included some medicinal herbals in addition to sections
