Modern Homesteading - Living the Country Life 2017-07-25

Once upon a time, people had a real connection with the land. Instead of being mere consumers, they were producers and makers. Traditional skills were learned to eliminate a reliance on others, enabling the self-sufficiency that's at the heart of the Do-It-Yourself movement. And this artisanal wisdom was passed on to family and friends.

Male Daughters, Female Husbands - Professor Ifi Amadiume 2015-03-12

In 1987, more than a decade before the dawn of queer theory, Ifi Amadiume wrote Male Daughters, Female Husbands, to critical acclaim. This compelling and highly original book frees the subject position of 'husband' from its affiliation with men, and goes on to do the same for other masculine attributes, dislocating sex, gender and sexual orientation. Boldly arguing that the notion of gender, as constructed in Western feminist discourse, did not exist in Africa before the colonial imposition of a dichotomous understanding of sexual difference, Male Daughters, Female Husbands examines the structures in African society that enabled people to achieve power, showing that roles were not rigidly masculinized nor feminized. At a time when gender and queer theory are viewed by some as being stuck in an identity-politics rut, this outstanding study not only warns against the danger of projecting a very specific, Western notion of difference onto other cultures, but calls us to question the very concept of gender itself.

Extraordinary Goats - 2014-08-15

Neuroendocrinology of Reproduction - Norman T. Adler 2012-12-06

The subject of this book is neuroendocrinology, that branch of biological science devoted to the interactions between the two major integrative organ systems of animals—the endocrine and nervous systems. Although this science today reflects a fusion of endocrinology and neurobiology, this synthetic approach is relatively recent. At the beginning of the 20th century, when the British physiologists, Bayliss and Starling, first proposed endocrinology to be an independent field of inquiry, they went to great lengths to establish the autonomy of chemical secretions in general and their independence from nervous control in particular (Bayliss, W. M. , and Starling, E. H. , 1902, The mechanism of pancreatic secretion, J. Physiol. 28:325). They argued with Pavlov, who said that there was a strong influence of the nervous system on the gastrointestinal phenomena the endocrinologists were studying. For several decades, the English physiologists prevailed, at least in the West; and Pavlov's critique was not taken to heart by the practitioners of the newly emerging discipline of endocrinology. Through the work of Harris, the Scharrers, Sawyer, Everett, and others, there has been something of a scientific detente in the latter half of this century; the hybrid field of neuroendocrinology is now regarded as one of the corner stones of modern neural science and is of fundamental importance in basic and clinical endocrinology.

Sustainable Goat Production in Adverse Environments: Volume I - João Simões 2018-01-11

This book explores the current trends and challenges of sustainable goat meat and milk production in different global contexts, providing valuable insights into this industry in adverse environments like mountain, semiarid and arid regions. It also includes contributions from international experts discussing goat reproduction, genetic diversity and improvement, as well topics such as animal health, welfare, socioeconomic aspects, and many other issues regarding the environmentally friendly and economically viable exploitation of goats. This is a highly informative book providing scientific insight for readers with an interest in sustainable agriculture and socio-economic aspects, as well as goat breed conservation, genetic diversity, and veterinary care. These subjects are complemented in a second volume providing a detailed description of more than 40 indigenous goat breeds and several ecotypes found in Asia, Africa, Europe, and America.

Goat Notes - Edition 2 - Emily LeVan

Chemical Signals in Vertebrates 9 - Anna Marchlewska-Koj
2012-12-06

It is generally accepted that the recent progress in molecular and cellular biology would not have been possible without an understanding of the mechanisms and signaling pathways of communication inside the cell and between various cells of the animal organism. In fact a similar progress occurred in the field of chemical communication between individual organisms of vertebrate species, and this volume is aimed at presenting the current state of the art on this subject. The reader can find here both original results obtained in the laboratory or field studies and comprehensive reviews summarizing many years of research. The presentations of over 60 scientists have been grouped according to their approach into nine parts covering such fields as ecological and evolutionary aspects of chemical communication, structure and neuronal mechanisms of chemosensory systems, chemical structure of pheromones and binding proteins, kin, individual and sexual recognition, predator-prey relationships, purpose and consequences of marking behavior, scent signals and reproductive processes. Expanding on former volumes of this series, entirely new chapters have been added on prenatal chemical communication describing specific effects of the intrauterine environment. In many cases a truly multidisciplinary approach was required, such as with the population analysis of polymorphic variants of the mouse's major urinary proteins that function in carrying pheromones.

Utopia - Kevin Igiehon 2016-01-08

These and many are some questions that must be asked in any endeavor one ventures into. But how do you think someone who sees himself or herself as nobody be able to give his totality for something they don't know? So the big question is why do you do what you do? What do I stand to gain? There's a lot more in thinking positively than being just negative. Are you surprised? Well you shouldn't. Be moved with compassion for yourself and passion for the future; aspire greatness. Great minds don't fade and great hearts don't fail. Joshua 1:8 says: This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shall meditate on it day and night, so that thou may be careful to do all that is written therein. Then thou shall make thy way prosperous and thou shall have good success. Meditation is the key to greatness. And understanding the law of attraction; that is the law that pulls everything you ever aspired for like a magnetic force to you is also important. But how do you meditate? What is meditation? To meditate means to study deeply, mutter, utter, growl, roar, to speak under your voice from your heart. When you meditate on the word of God or anything that's praise worthy according to Phil.4:4-8, it causes you to be propelled, motivated and inspired for greatness as you give attention to meditation get your mind seasoned on the right thoughts; it will produce its kind for you. You remember when Jacob wanted to part ways with his uncle Laban. Laban said I have learned by experience that the lord has blessed me because of you. Gen. 30:27; another rendering says I have learned by divination that the Lord has blessed me because of you. I am not trying to stress the word experience or divination, what am driving at is the step they took towards agreeing that both of them should go or have to himself his possession. Jacob agreed to keep tending Laban's flock and watch over them. He said let me go through all your flocks and remove from them every speckled or spotted sheep, every dark coloured lamb and every spotted or speckled goat. That will be my wages. He added my honesty will testify for me in the future. Laban agreed. The bible says that, that same day he removed all the male goats that were streaked or spotted, and all speckled or spotted female goat (all that had white on them) and all the dark coloured lambs, and he Jacob placed them in the care of his sons. Laban put a three day journey between himself and Jacob; Jacob continued to tend the rest of Laban's flocks. Jacob, however, took fresh-cut branches from poplar, almond and plane trees and made white stripes on them by peeling the bark and exposing the white Inner wood of the branches. Then he placed the peeled branches in all the watering troughs, so that they would be directly in front of the flocks when they came to drink water. Scripture says that when the flocks were in heat and came to drink, they mated in front of the branches. And they bore young ones that were streaked or speckled or spotted. Jacob set apart the young flocks by themselves, but made the rest face the streaked and dark-colored animals that belonged to Laban. The reason is because Jacob understood what he had meditated upon. He had ideas; he had thoughts, through meditation the results he got as a result of what he did, the resources he had, became slave to his ideas. Money is slave to your ideas. Keep doing what you are doing so long as it has the backing of God on it. Keep it up! Don't back off; square up your shoulders chin-up, for you are going up!

IGBO IDIOMS - MARK UZOMBA ONYEKWERE 2011-10-12

Igbo Idioms are the ornaments and the jewelry that beautify the Igbo language and make the listeners pay great attention to any talker that uses them. Such a person is held to a high esteem.
