The Australian Woman's Magazine and Domestic Journal 1882 Includes book reviews.

Through Her Eyes Frederique JM Schmitt 2018-09-24 The nearness of the messianic Kingdom of Christ calls for an urgent moral reformation of the human family. The God incarnate, Jesus, altogether Bread of Life and Word of Life, learned by experience, just like us, how to deal with everything of moral significance. He was God openly fraternizing with the common people. After having conquered it all, he left us with the imperative to gather all mankind under his sole leadership, clearing our minds of other self-made creeds. To our satisfaction, he is a peaceful ruler. He wants to unify the world via the use of one language: the universal language of love. Using the clever device of a counselor meeting with clients, you offer much wisdom on a variety of important moral issues. —John the editor

We were just kids when I met her for the first time, I was drawn to her like we were meant to be in each other life somehow. I believe that when I fell in love with her. All we did was play as kids do. I chased her around the street, it's not my fault that we were not alone. It's not my fault that he took her with him. It is not my fault I couldn't stop him. It's not my fault that he stole her innocence, Right? I just was a kid. Yet, as I look into her eyes right now I can't help but be ridden with guilt. I did this to her. I hurt her. I am determined to protect her, I am not a child this time. I want to make things right. I can't make the same mistake twice

The Banjo on Record Uli Heier 1993 The appeal of the banjo has been shown to be timeless and universal--adaptable to almost any form of popular music. It was one of just a few instruments that could be faithfully reproduced in the early days of sound recording, and its recording history dates back to 1889. Heier documents that history on cylinders and 78-rpm disks in the pre-LP era ending in the mid-1950s. The book offers a comprehensive compilation of all such recordings on which the banjo plays a solo role or dominant part. Organized by performer or performing group, the recordings are listed chronologically with location, date, matrix number, and take-digit as available, as well as manufacturer and catalog number. Biographical information on the banjoist is provided wherever possible, and all performers anywhere in the world known to have recorded any type of music on banjo are included even if no data on the actual disks is available. Introduced in a foreword by British discographer Brian Rust, the discography also includes a narrative account of the banjo in phonograph recording history by Lowell Schreyer and an essay on the history of the banjo itself by Robert Lloyd Webb. In addition to the discography proper, the editors have provided a preface, A numerous topics that are based on true stories that most women can relate to or know of someone who have experienced similar situations in their lives. In the chapters I talk about women in denial, having low self esteem, enduring mental and verbal abuse, domestic violence, and sex. In addition, signs of men who live on the down low. I also discuss the topic of religion and the stress that comes with being a ministers daughter and learning not to allow your religion to be used as an excuse to stay in an abusive relationship. Finally, in my book I encourage women that have been abused to release and let go of past emotions in order to move on with their lives.

When Josie is called to the morgue to hear the results of Sharon's autopsy, the case takes a sinister turn. She is horrified to see that a mark has been burned on to Sharon's left hip with a cattle brand: a horseshoe shot through with an arrow. Shaken and terrified, the usually cool and collected Medical Examiner Anya Feist lifts her own top to show Josie an identical mark. Ten years ago, Anya fled her hometown after her marriage to her high school sweetheart ended in terror. But Josie can find nothing to connect Anya's ex-husband Vance Hadlee to the murder. Her search of his family farm leads to more questions than answers. Then another body is found. A young woman in a red

How to Fall in Love with Anyone Mandy Len Catron 2018-02-01 In 2014, 33-year-old Mandy Len Catron went on a date with an acquaintance. They decided to try an experiment: inspired by a study designed to create romantic feelings, Mandy and Mark spent the evening asking each other 36 increasingly intimate questions, wondering if it would lead to them falling in love. In How to Fall in Love with Anyone, this experiment is Catron's starting point for investigating what it means to love someone and to be loved, and how we present our love to the world. What makes love last? Can love ever work the way it seems to in films, books and social media? Is there a "right" way to fall in love? In these candid, charming and wise essays, Catron blends memoir with cultural and social commentary on the psychology, biology, history and literature of love. How to Fall in Love with Anyone is a deeply personal, yet universal investigation into the one thing we all want—or think we want—more than anything. Includes "To Fall in Love with Anyone, Do This", one of the most popular essays to appear in the New York Times' "Modern Love" column "In our age of total romantic confusion, Mandy Len Catron is a voice of good sense, warm humor, and consoling wisdom. Through the lens of her own relationships, she teaches us—with a deft, convincing intelligence—some of the vital moves in the art of love." —Alain de Botton, internationally bestselling author of How Proust Can Change Your Life and The Course of Love MANDY LEN CATRON lives in Vancouver, British Columbia. Her writing has appeared in the New York Times and the Washington Post. She writes about love and love stories at The Love Story Project, and teaches English and creative writing at the University of British Columbia.

Behind Her Eyes Afreen Rahat 2021-12-17 There are times when love and war are at their peak when death and life unite when everyone praises the moon but never reflects that the ultimate cause of its light is merely the sun. This book is for those who believe, who are just like me. They look out the window with blank eyes. They've been in love, they've bitter secrets. They are lost or just missing somebody. Transgressions and feelings of love and pain are penned with an elixir darker than blood. 'Behind Her Eyes' is a collection of poems for those who are betrayed by feelings, for those who are heartbroken, and for those who are in search of true love. Feelings are versified in a way that will allow you to breathe again and heal your scars. Afreen has described Behind Her Eyes as, "Writing was an escape from reality, panic, and melancholia. The writing was a sanative for me - a labyrinth which saved me from monsters," In explanation, the author revealed that she writes about what broke her and how she fought mental health challenges, such as anxiety and depression. She tells how she got back on her feet. It was during the lockdown time that the now 18-year-old girl realized the importance of publishing her poems and short stories she had been writing since she was 8. The idea of inspiring people occurred to her when Bestselling Authors encouraged her to get her works published.
