and relationships. Written by a man and written from a male perspective. I have continued that theme in 'Keep It Fun'. My central characters Wes and Roz have been going out for a few months and have now moved on to the next phase of their relationship: living together, meeting parents, farting in front of each other, being a couple and, as the title suggests, keeping it fun. The follow-up novel explores the other people in their lives, and introduces us to new characters that interact with those people. I wanted to show that not all men are the same and 'Keep It Fun' contains a wide variety of men behaving in expected and unexpected ways! In essence, this is a love story. If you're a jaded romantic that wonders if love has eluded you, this story will hopefully show you that Mr. Right (or Miss Right) comes in all shapes and sizes!
