In 2014, 33-year-old Mandy Len Catron went on a date with an acquaintance. They decided to try an experiment: inspired by a study designed to create romantic feelings, Mandy and Mark spent the evening asking each other 36 increasingly intimate questions, wondering if it would lead to them falling in love. In How to Fall in Love with Anyone, this experiment is Catron's starting point for investigating what it means to love someone and to be loved, and how we present our love to the world. What makes love last? Can love ever work the way it seems to in films, books and social media? Is there a "right" way to fall in love? In these candid, charming and wise essays, Catron blends memoir with cultural and social commentary on the psychology, biology, history and literature of love. How to Fall in Love with Anyone is a deeply personal, yet universal investigation into the one thing we all want—or think we want—more than anything. Includes "To Fall in Love with Anyone, Do This", one of the most popular essays to appear in the the real thing. And maybe that's one of the best things about love. We've been thinking about it all wrong. Our culture's insistence that women need to learn how to catch and keep a man is actually doing much more harm than good. The more we try to manipulate our relationships, the less we are truly able to experience love's benefits and wonders. Love is a slippery, unruly thing, and trying to control and manage it robs us of its delicious unpredictability. Sure, letting go of the reins a bit might mean a broken heart, but heartbreak, in fact, offers a wealth of possibilities-creativity, wisdom, and growth-that we need in order to make the most of our lives. Liberating for women who are frustrated by the idea that they just need to learn the right "formula," The Case for Falling in Love shows that there isn't a method to mastering the madness of love. But that might be exactly what's so wonderful about it.

Make a Man Fall in Love with You - Josephine Ortiz 2015-11-18

For some people just finding someone they can tolerate is difficult enough while others can't walk to the local post office without falling in love twice on the way. This is the book for both cases and everyone in between going from how to determine what you are really looking for and where to best find that "perfect" fellow and then going on to the casual courtship and culminating in the actual moment of love. Don't expect a rigid set of rules or a boring step by step, how it is done book though. Love does not follow any silly rules nor will it be confined to a step by step process. You have to find the smallest seed of love and then protect it from ill-winds, upsets and nurture it until it blossoms forth. Even those who cast a wary eye on love in all of its glory may find some charm here- and may agree to shake off their negative thoughts and give love or at least love's little sister, "like" a chance once again. This should be a fun book to read because it is about one of the oldest and dearest of the human experiences ever. Even if you have had Come on a journey of love with me. Take my hand. I promise we will have fun and even if the next heart to hit the floor and shatter is one of our own I promise that it will mend, and we shall love once again.

The woman is a writer, and so she attempts to comprehend her grief in the space she knows best: on the page, as an imagined conversation with the child she has lost. He is as sharp and funny and serious in death as he was in life itself, and he will speak back to her, unable to offer explanation or solace, but not yet, not quite, gone. trying to corner him into blending his Leonine line with the Wolves. Elia needs the help of the Anima to become stronger and rule them well. But the vengeful Wolves see only a weak human that brought them shame. As Elia and Reth grow closer, the wolves are determined to destroy her. Will Reth and Elia admit their feelings for each in time to fight for the Kingdom—and their lives—against the villainous wolf-tribe? Or will the wolves kill Elia and steal the throne?

[Mature content - no sexual violence]  He stalked towards her, chin low so the shadow cast by his hard jaw cut across the thick fur collar of his vest. His hair had fallen over his eyes in the scuffle, so he peered at her through it like a lion in the grass. With each step, his graceful, rolling gait reminded her of a predator stalking its prey. Despite the forest floor littered in twigs and leaves, he didn't make a sound. "Wh-who are you?" Elia stammered, backing away, her hands up. He met her step for step until she came up hard against the tree behind her—and didn't stop until he loomed over her, so broad his shoulders and chest made a wall in front of her. She could feel the heat rising off his skin in the cool, night air. "I am the Leonine King." His voice was a dark, husky gravel. Behind him a chorus of wheezes, howls, and chirps of agreement rose from the people watching. "And you are?" "Elia," she breathed. "Elia," he growled, leaning in closer, bringing with him the scent of pine and rain and the musk of something distinctly male. "I am Reth." He said the name with a strange, guttural roll in his throat. "I am King of Beasts. I am Clan Leader, and I am Alpha of WildWood." Several snarls rose from the crowds behind him then, but he ignored them. Elia swallowed as he leaned in until the scruff on his jaw rasped her cheek. "I am the King," he said, "And you will be my mate." The forest behind him erupted. (Cover Art used by permission.
