Maybe you and your partner have slowly drifted apart and you don't even have sex anymore. Don't worry; you can restore sexual intimacy in your marriage by making a few changes. This book has all you need to make those changes and restore intimacy in your relationship.

The Self-Aware Parent - Fran Walfish 2010-12-07
A healthy relationship based on mutual trust is every parent's wish. The bond between infant and parent is a natural phenomenon, but as children reach their preteens and form their own personalities, fireworks between the child and parent can ensue. Drawing on 20 years of clinical experience and new theories on attachment, family therapist and consultant to Parents magazine Dr. Fran Walfish argues that parents need to distinguish their own personality types in order to make more informed decisions about how they interact and raise their own children. This step-by-step guide shows parents:

- * how to recognize the strength and weaknesses of your parenting style and how it affects your child;
- * the ways your style might clash with your child's nature, and how to negotiate a common ground;
- * the vital importance of establishing trust with a preteen to better prepare for turbulent teen years.

Written with warmth, authority, and wit, Dr. Walfish holds a gentle mirror up to parents and helps them understand themselves in order to create a closer relationship with their child.

Long-Distance Relationship Intimacy Hack -

Claire Robin

Love is something so beautiful everyone wishes to experience it, but it is not without challenges in every relationship. Relationships are always filled with ups and downs and in such times, the strength of both love and understanding is tested. Long-distance relationships unlike relationships where the partners get to see each other frequently, is more demanding. It would take double efforts, understanding, trust, and commitment to maintain them. However, there are many people in a long-distance relationship that managed to keep it going regardless of the hurdles. It just needs the effort of both parties and things will go smoothly. If you're the only one striving to make things work, then chances are your relationship will come to an end eventually. Stay in a relationship where both parties are willing to fight for the blooming and thriving of the relationship. As the saying goes, it takes two to tango. There are times when relationships start as short distanced but due to certain life changes such as work transfers, new job offers, or educational purposes, one partner is made to move away from another and serious adjustments will have to be made. Many relationships may even end due to this reason, but there are many equally that do thrive as a result of joint efforts. If you're looking for ways to revive and keep your long-distance relationship blooming, then this book is for you.

About the Expert Bethany Wilson is a December 2010 graduate from Berea College in Berea, Kentucky. She obtained her Bachelor of Arts degree in Child Development. During her entire time in college she was engaged, her and her fiancé Josh decided to give a long distance relationship a go. From the beginning of her college career throughout the completion and still to this day they are together. With nearly three hundred miles between her and Josh they had to get creative in order to keep the relationship alive. When they first began the relationship after Bethany got to college they would talk on the phone for hours each day about a little bit of nothing but that gradually got tiresome. Bethany and Josh had to find new things to keep their relationship interesting. At first they started using webcam communications but that was short lived because the college cut the bandwidth that was allowed to the students making it almost impossible to webcam one another. They tried almost all of the techniques that are mentioned in this book. There were many different things that was brought up by other people trying to make them break up, but that never worked because Bethany and Josh have a bond stronger than words of others. Now that Bethany is out of college, she and Josh is no longer on a long distance relationship status because they are just a few minutes apart and are looking forward to their future and in the process of planning their wedding. Their long distance relationship helped them both mature and develop the ways that the communicate to the point that they both seem as if they are ten years older than they really are in the case of communication strategies. When things would seem dire within the relationship they would sit down and talk it out either on the internet, phone, or text messaging and get past the situation. HowExpert publishes quick 'how to' guides on all topics from A to Z.

Developing a Multi-group Moderated Model to Predict and Compare Commitment in Geographically Close and Long-distance Relationships - Fredrick Andrew Eichler 2015 Despite many recommendations to assess the role of the social exchange theory and the interdependence theory in long-distance relationships, few researchers have investigated if the roles of satisfaction, alternatives, and investments in a relationship influence commitment differently for individuals in long-distance relationships compared to individuals in geographically close relationships. I hypothesized that trust, desire for frequent sex, satisfaction, alternatives, and investment in the relationship have unique predictive relationships on commitment depending on relationship proximity and gender. In two studies, I first tested prior research investigating the role of negative affect on relationship commitment. I extended this research and found that a preference for frequent sex and trust for one's partner were substantially better predictors of relationship commitment compared to negative affect and components of relational security. In Study 2, I developed a model to predict commitment using satisfaction, quality of alternatives, relationship investments, preference for frequent sex, and trust. This model was tested between men and women in geographically close and long-distance relationships and revealed significantly different predictive relations between the conditions. Specifically, satisfaction and trust predicted commitment differently between the models for women in both geographically close and long-distance relationships and men in geographically close relationships. Men in long-distance relationships required a separate model where the quality of alternatives did not predict relationship commitment and a preference for frequent sex mediated trust and commitment.
