Voice Of The Heart Parisa Shahramiri 2012-09-13 I was born and grown up in Iran. After the war between Iraq and Iran, we got back to our small city, Abadan. I finished my guidance & high school there and continue my studies at university and got MA. Furthermore, I like to continue my studies and get Doctorate degree. I started writing poetry when I was a teenager and studying at university. It was in that time that I became interested in English poems and wanted to write to release my soul and bring whatever was in my heart on the paper. Actually I am satisfied by writing English poems. Then I decided to publish my first book in 2002, after that I published my second poetry book (Dream of love) in 2006. I have translated English story books into Persian and published teaching books and articles. Also, I'm fond of painting and like to do landscape and want to follow it to the professional level. This book reflects my thoughts and feelings on many different things and expresses my feelings as the young girl. Voice of the heart is a collection that includes 54 English poems that are my own work. Actually it was published first in 2002 and included 80 poems but in this collection I excluded some of them. Poetry is the expression of our soul and a reflection of our deepest emotions. My poems are inspired by my thoughts on life. Some of the poems really reflect my inner feelings. Some express realities and the grief of people around me. I dedicate my book to my parents. I hope the readers like this book.

The School Girl Rajesh Aanand 2019-11-16 As soon as my father's car moved away from the door, I ran straight to the phone."Ankur!" My trembling lips took the name of the heartless. Ankur refused to come to my home and then I started crying in tears. It felt like someone has snatched a glass of water from my thirsty lips. Though I find it surprising now, GOD has created all these things. Well crying, is it worth and tears, even worse than that. But at that moment I felt that God would have made a mistake if he hadn't created tears, and I would have been incomplete. When the sound of my cry hit his ears, the abyss melted. Stuck and said "Okay I am coming but at least you can tell the work. By the way, you should know that I have apologized for my mistake that day. I just made the excuse of the book and called you. This was my biggest mistake." "You come, I'll tell you about the work." "Do you want, your mother to scold me? But, Neelam!" I felt a slight fury in his voice "If you do this then you should take care that you go to school too." Although this was his sheer threat, but I don't know why I didn't feel bad at that time. "Mummy is not at home." I made it clear. "So Papa?" "No, that's not he either." "Brother?" "Nobody is here. I am alone." "Alone!" He was shocked as if someone had made him realize my intentions "Are you alone at home?" His voice became heavy as if he forgot to swallow the spit "Where have all the people gone?" "Cinema." "Why haven't you gone?" "I don't like the movie." "You are lying, I know you are very interested in films." "Leave all this, you just come." I was getting a rash. In an instant, all the flashback was repeated in my imagination, how Ragini and Shekhar entered the room together in front of me and after spending some time came out with that naughty smile on Ragini's lips. I wish I could completely take the equal feeling of those moments. I could not understand what was going on in my body, which was probably the first time in my life. In a hurry, I changed the receiver of the phone from one ear to another. I don't know why at that time I was not sure that it would be able to hear everything that was going to be said by Ankur. "I will not come, not at all." He slammed the phone. Oops! I got mad after hearing his next sentence. From childhood, until today I had easily got what I wanted. And for what I could not get, I unified and snatched it under any circumstances. This is the case that every time my father's shoulder or his uncultivated wealth would be the basis of my stubbornness. But today I couldn't do anything. By the way, which type of need was it today? I could not think anything neither was able to laugh nor cry, except to call myself evil. How crazy I was that day? If I had gone to Shekhar's room with Ragini, then today I would not have to do all this for a rubbish feeling. Oh! Ragini you are great. You also eat ice-cream and take a gift as well. I was worried about how to explain it to him? How to tell him that nothing is going to spoil him. I thought if I tell that I am alone at home, he will come running here, but I got silly who could not understand such a thing. I called again. I tried to convince him and wept too, then he melted away. I sent home guards out on the pretext of bringing biscuits. How does money make a human being a pet dog? I was his daughter's age but respected me as if I was his mother.

Guerrilla Girl: A Girl's echoing voice in the Zimbabwe Chimurenga Helen Gamanya 2023-03-05 Southern Rhodesia was a colony of the British Empire. In 1980, it gained independence as modern-day Zimbabwe, after a long liberation struggle, and a bitter guerrilla war. Guerrilla Girl tells the story of Shupai, and her journey to liberation. Follow her from impoverished childhood in a convent school in rural Rhodesia; to her experiences of discrimination and injustice as a young woman in the capital Salisbury; her radical awakening amongst youth political groups; to her transformation into a highly trained freedom fighter. The women of Zimbabwe had to fight for liberation on two fronts: from the domination of the common colonialist enemy, and from the male chauvinism of their countrymen. Most African men in Zimbabwe found it hard to accept women as fighters, let alone as armed guerrillas. Women had a hard time asserting themselves as capable and trusted liberators, always in danger of being put down by their male counterparts. Whilst the names of the characters are fictitious, the majority of events and places are true.

Her spirited determination to find joy and hope in even the most difficult circumstances imaginable will "break your heart and then put it back together again" (Jenna Bush Hager on The Today Show) even as Adunni shows us how one courageous young girl can inspire us all to reach for our dreams...and maybe even change the world.

A Nest of Linnets (Illustrations) Frank Frankfort Moore 2014-11-02 Example in this ebook CHAPTER I "This will never do, Betsy," said Mr. Linley, shaking his head. "Sir Joshua calls you Saint Cecilia, but 'twere a misnomer if you do not sing the phrase better than you have just sung it. 'She drew an angel down': let that be in your mind, my dear. There is no celestial being that would move a pinion to help a maiden who implored its aid in so half-hearted a way. Let us try again. One, two, three—" " "Angels, ever bright and fair," sang Miss Linley. Her father sprang from the harpsichord. "Gracious powers, madam! the angels are not in the next room—they are not even in Pierrepont Street, take my word for it; they are in heaven, and heaven, let me tell you, is a very long way from Bath!” he cried. “Give forth the ‘Angels’ as if you meant to storm the ears of heaven with your cry. Think of it, girl—think that you are lost, eternally lost, unless you can obtain help that is not of earth. Stun their ears, madam, with the suddenness of your imploration, and let the voice come from your heart. Betsy, that smile is not in the music. If Maestro Handel had meant a smile to illuminate the part, take my word for it he would have signified it by a bar of demi-semi-quavers, followed by semi-quavers and quavers. Good heavens, madam! do you hope to improve upon Handel?” “Ah, father, do not ask too much of me to-night; I am tired—-anxious. Why, only last week a highwayman—-” Miss Linley glanced, eagerly listening, toward the window, as if she fully expected to see the mask of a highwayman peering between the blinds. “Betsy, I am ashamed of you!” said her father. “What stuff is this? Is there any highwayman fool enough to collect fiddles? Do you fancy that a boy with a fiddle tucked under his arm is in any peril of a bullet?” “But they may affright the child.” “Child? Child? Who is the child? What! Do you think that because you have not seen your brother since he was fourteen, the four years that have passed can have made no impression on him?” “I suppose he will have grown.” “You may be sure that he will be able to defend himself without drawing either his sword or his fiddle. To your singing, Betsy. Go back to the recitative.” “It would be a terrible thing to find that he had outgrown his affection for us. I have heard that in Italy—-” “Still harping on my daughter’s brother! Come, Miss Linnet, you shall have your chance. You shall fancy that your prayer is uttered on behalf of your brother. ‘Angels, ever bright and fair, Take, oh, take him to your care.’ Now shall the angels hear for certain. Come, child; one, two—-” “‘Angels—-’” sang Miss Linley. “Brava!” cried her father sotto voce, as the sound thrilled through the room and there was a suggestion of an answering vibration from the voice of the harpsichord. “‘Angels, ever bright and fair, Take, oh, take me—-’” The harpsichord jingled alone. The girl’s voice failed. She threw herself into a chair, and, covering her face with her hands, burst into a passion of sobbing. “Oh, if he does not arrive after all—if some accident has happened—if—if—-” The apprehensions which she was too much overcome to name were emphasised in the glance that she cast at her father. Her eyes, the most marvellous wells of deep tenderness that ever woman possessed, at all times suggested a certain pathetic emotion of fear, causing every man who looked into their depths to seek to be her protector from the danger they seemed to foresee; but at this moment they appeared to look straight into the face of disaster. Voices Inside My Head Milton A. Brown 2021-04-12 Whether the relationship is business, personal, social, organizational, or political, man's history has given ample evidence getting along is a challenge of enormous difficulty. Cain killed Abel and smugly asked if he was his brother's keeper. In 2020 President Donald Trump was in an ongoing battle with the news media. Clergy have come under fire for abuse of power and malfeasance from the pulpit in religious circles. Men and women appear to be involved in a gender war, as roles once considered traditional and normal are being challenged, flipped, and redefined. Rodney King once sheepishly asked, "Can we all just get along?" The profundity of his lament resonates today more than ever. People are not getting along, and no greater example exists than romantic relationships. This book will explore relationships with a slightly different twist to the commentary. As you read this book, consider three dimensions: my voice, society's voice, and your voice or the voice inside your head, as we explore my poetic response to the questions "Why This Book?" and "Can we all just get along?" "Boy meets girl" is not so simple in the twenty-first century. Many factors contribute to the complexity of relationships, including the advancement of technology, the fluidity and transformation of values in America as Eastern and Western values blend, and the evolution of gender identities and roles in modern society. This book does not delve into the complexities of the micro issues, but rather, it attempts to use the "boy meets girl" dynamic to explain relationships of any kind that must address the same core concerns: how to meet, what's done when you meet, how to progress to the next level, commit, and make the relationship everlasting. Love is part of the equation, but this is not exclusively a book about love. It may take you there, but you may not stay. This book is as much about your journey as it is mine. Many years ago, I thought I would be the boy who'd meet the girl, court the girl, marry the girl, and live happily ever after. Happily ever after didn't happen, but this book did. I hope you find perspective in this book as I have found wisdom through the experiences. Most of all, I hope you find and listen to the voice inside your head as I have discovered the voice inside mine.

Girls and Their Comics Jacqueline Danziger-Russell 2013 This book discusses the overall history of the comic book, paying special attention to girls' comics, showing how such works relate to a female point of view. While examining the concept of visual literacy, Jacqueline Danziger-Russell asserts that comics are an excellent space in which the marginalized voices of girls may be expressed. This volume also includes a chapter on manga (Japanese comics), which explores the genesis of girls' comics in Japan and their popularity with girls in the United States. Including interviews with librarians, comic creators, and girls who read comics and manga, Girls and Their Comics is an excellent examination of the growing interest in comic books among young females.

Her Voice Varvara Athanasiou-Ioannou 2021-11-01 This book's introduction is clear about where culturally diverse women stand in the 2020s: 'while we have made some meaningful inroads towards equality, we are nowhere near enough to where we need to be.' Such women face the glass ceiling of their gender, and a cultural ceiling as well. It assembles the voices of over 40 women from many walks of life, many of them high achievers, who detail the difficulties and the triumphs they have met within their lives. Their stories, strength and resilience inspire. Her Voice arose from the Food for Thought network, founded 20 years ago in Melbourne, made up of Greek Australian women originally, but quickly drawing in other migrant women and daughters of migrants through friendship, love and the recognition of how much they had in common. ----- "...a beautiful book! it's such a triumph - the content, the design, the intent." - Maggie Hamilton, Sydney "...A monumental book, a gift not only to Greek women but to multicultural Australia, a historical reference point for future generations ... it should be read by all men and women ... Touching, and inspiring" - Bill Papastergiadis OAM, Melbourne "...Narrated with an authentic voice, this book is a treasure trove of life journeys." - Zografina Kopanidis, Melbourne "Varvara's story and her book is beautiful and inspiring, a true display of intelligence, determination and empowerment ... These small windows into other women's choices reminds me how important relatable role models and mentors are for our girls." - Dora Kordakis, Melbourne "I couldn't put the book down because literally and metaphorically I heard their voices. I cried. I giggled. I rejoiced. I connected with all of them. A brilliant book of historic importance." - Maria Makris, Melbourne "Many thanks to Varvara for introducing me to so many wonderful and inspirational women. In particular, I found the key events that shaped and assisted each woman in her journey, to be very interesting! There is certainly valuable advice for younger women who read "Her Voice: Greek Women and their friends". - Sandra

Keown "...Amazing book ... a valuable resource for anyone who seeks to understand the role of women within our community and beyond and Varvara Ioannou deserves our heartfelt gratitude ... she is a national treasure ... many of the achievements of women are glossed over, effaced or obscured. This volume allows Greek women of all ages and others connected to our community to speak for themselves. What they choose to say about themselves and their worldview is significant." - Dean Kalimniou, Melbourne "It is a wonderful book with a lot to offer and Varvara should be very proud of having brought it all to us women from all backgrounds but especially for women of Greek origin." - Marina Marangos, Brisbane

The Memory Lucy Dawson 2018-12-06 'WOW WOW WOW... what a book, I started this book this morning and I have finished this evening... completely gripped me... be prepared to be give up your day, YOU WILL NOT WANT TO PUT IT DOWN!' Goodreads Reviewer, 5 stars I look down at her, lying fast asleep - always my little girl, and so beautiful. She gives a low moan as her head turns restlessly on the pillow. It reminds me of the soft growl of a cornered animal. Where is my poor child? What is she dreaming? People always notice my daughter, Isobel. How could they not? Incredibly beautiful... until she speaks. An unsettling, little-girl voice, exactly like a child's, but from the mouth of a full-grown woman. Izzie might look grown-up, but inside she's trapped. Caught in the day it happened - the day that broke her from within. I know why my daughter is the way she is. There's nothing I could have done to save her... is there? An unputdownable psychological thriller about families and secrets, perfect for fans of Gone Girl, Shalini Boland and Lisa Jewell. Girl Zines Alison Piepmeier 2009-11-18 Stroll through any public park in Brooklyn on a weekday afternoon and you will see black women with white children at every turn. Many of these women are of Caribbean descent, and they have long been a crucial component of New York's economy, providing childcare for white middle- and upper-middleclass families. Raising Brooklyn offers an in-depth look at the daily lives of these childcare providers, examining the important roles they play in the families whose children they help to raise. Tamara Mose Brown spent three years immersed in these Brooklyn communities: in public parks, public libraries, and living as a fellow resident among their employers, and her intimate tour of the public spaces of gentrified Brooklyn deepens our understanding of how these women use their collective lives to combat the isolation felt during the workday as a domestic worker. Though at first glance these childcare providers appear isolated and exploited—and this is the case for many—Mose Brown shows that their daily interactions in the social spaces they create allow their collective lives and cultural identities to flourish. Raising Brooklyn demonstrates how these daily interactions form a continuous expression of cultural preservation as a weapon against difficult working conditions, examining how this process unfolds through the use of cell phones, food sharing, and informal economic systems. Ultimately, Raising Brooklyn places the organization of domestic workers within the framework of a social justice movement, creating a dialogue between workers who don't believe their exploitative work conditions will change and an organization whose members believe change can come about through public displays of solidarity.

"What's a Man Without a Woman ...?" - Gender Constructions in Carol Ann Duffy's "The World's Wife" Antje Peukert 2010-10 Seminar paper from the year 2003 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies - Literature, grade: 1,0, University of Potsdam, course: Genre and Gender, language: English, abstract: History has always been a space of male deeds, male achievements, male gain or loss. Or so one is made to believe in retrospection. Of course women were not absent from history but they certainly are to a great extent from historical representations. Patriarchy dominated Western culture for more than two thousand years and supplied the framework for what is to be known and how, i.e. in which contexts, it is to be known. Historical material has always been scarce but in regard to women it is almost non-existent. So women rightfully started to ask where their part in history was or why they have been consequently written out of history instead of being included. A necessity arose to deconstruct certain historical "truths" and to make women visible in and show their relevance to our past to build up strength and to obtain a voice or rather voices in order to question the present and the past systems. In this paper I examine Carol Ann Duffy's The World's Wife, whose poetry runs very much in above line. I will concentrate on the gender constructions established within The World's Wife. Even though Duffy questions traditional conceptions of men and women and their relationships with each other, she maintains a binary gender structure. The first chapter therefore deals with a general overview of gender conceptions constructed in and through the poems. The second and third chapter will take a closer look at certain poems. I think the poems weave their own web of femininity. In a circular movement they refer to past and future thus describing a female/feminist tradition. Accordingly the first and the last poem, Little Red Cap and Demeter, form the outline of the circle, not only in regard to their position but also by implicitly referring to each other. My third chapter will extend the Voice and Agency Jeni Klugman 2014-09-29 Despite recent advances in important aspects of the lives of girls and women, pervasive challenges remain. These challenges reflect widespread deprivations and constraints and include epidemic levels of gender-based violence and discriminatory laws and norms that prevent women from owning property, being educated, and making meaningful decisions about their own lives--such as whether and when to marry or have children. These often violate their most basic rights and are magnified and multiplied by poverty and lack of education. This groundbreaking book distills vast data and hundreds of studies to shed new light on deprivations and constraints facing the voice and agency of women and girls worldwide, and on the associated costs for individuals, families, communities, and global development. The volume presents major new findings about the patterns of constraints and overlapping deprivations and focuses on several areas key to women's empowerment: freedom from violence, sexual and reproductive health and rights, ownership of land and housing, and voice and collective action. It highlights promising reforms and interventions from around the world and lays out an urgent agenda for governments, civil society, development agencies, and other stakeholders, including a call for greater investment in data and knowledge to benchmark progress.

The Female Voice of Myanmar Nilanjana Sengupta 2015-12-09 The Female Voice of Myanmar seeks to offer a female perspective on the history and political evolution of Myanmar. It delves into the lives and works of four of Myanmar's remarkable women who set aside their lives to answer the call of their country: Khin Myo Chit, who spoke about latent sexual politics in pre-Independent Burma; Ludu Daw Amar, who as the editor of the leftist Ludu Daily, was deemed anti-establishment and was witness to the socialist government's abortive efforts at ethnic reconciliation; Ma Thida, whose writing bears testimony to the impact the authoritative military rule had on the individual psyche; and Aung San Suu Kyi, who has re-articulated Burmese nationalism. This book breaks new ground in exploring their writing, both published and hitherto unexamined, some in English and much in Burmese, while the intimate biographical sketches offer a glimpse into the Burmese home and the shifting feminine image.
