Changing West Bengal Through Census Lens - Bedprakas Syam Roy 2013

Census per se is important as it captures a host of data on number of population, its decadal growth, sex ratio, density, status of literacy and other socio-economic scenario. However, unless the data are organized in a time-series format and analyzed thereafter, the dynamics of inherent meaning remain dormant. The void has been filled in this publication. Dividing under three parts, the book has organized in Part A, historical aspect of the Censuses in India, its incremental size on each of the censuses since 1951, its decadal growth pattern, alarming density overtime, shifting rural and urban character, changing sex ratio, gender gap in literacy and also relative growth scenario of the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and the Muslims. In Part B, it has dwelt on the status of house hold amenities and Worker participation rate. At Part C, with 26 tables each, the changing demographic status of 19 districts of West Bengal has been captured from 1951 to 2011. In Short, Changing West Bengal through Census Lens is a compendium of such demographic events of six decades in West Bengal.

Population Dynamics in Eastern India and Bangladesh - Aparajita Chattopadhyay 2020-05-01

This book highlights historical and current perspectives on population issues in the Bengali-speaking states of India (i.e., West Bengal, Tripura, Assam) and Bangladesh and explores three core population dynamics: fertility, mortality-morbidity and development. Furthermore, it presents a selection of revealing cases from area-specific micro-studies, mainly conducted in West Bengal and Bangladesh. The book covers various demographic and health issues in these two regions, which are similar in terms of several sociocultural aspects, yet dissimilar in terms of their policies and programs. Adopting an integrated approach that combines various disciplines and perspectives, it explores highly topical issues such as social inequality, religious difference and mental health. The book is intended for a broad readership interested in population studies, sociology and development, including academics, researchers, planners and policymakers.

Muslim Female Work Participation in West Bengal, India - Nazmul Hussain 2011

Occupational structure of people is one of the significant determinants of human group disparities in socio-economic development. Various development indicators substantiate that women lag behind men in most of yardsticks that measure gender justice and human development, occupation is one of them. A country or society can't realize its dream of becoming super power by ignoring the better half of the humanity. This study aims to investigate Muslim women work participation in West Bengal based on population census in 2001, as the results have indicated that Muslims constitute 13.4 per cent of the country and 25.25 per cent of West Bengal's population. Indeed, it is the second largest religious minority community in the country. Sex ratio among Muslim population is 933 in West Bengal, which is higher than the national level. Illiteracy rate of Muslim women is higher and they have not been able to take full advantage in society. There also exists a wide gap between males and females work participation rate. Besides, a significant proportion of Muslim women are recorded as unskilled in the state. Keeping these points in view the present study analyses Muslim women work participation in West Bengal in general and by occupational groups in particular.

The Changing Status of Women in West Bengal, 1970-2000 -

Jasodhara Bagchi 2005-01-24

This important and comprehensive volume vividly depicts the current status of women and girls in West Bengal. The analysis has been conducted in the framework of the socio-economic and politico-cultural ambience that has characterized the state in recent decades. The contributors highlight both areas of strength and vulnerability and clearly demonstrate that the status of women cannot be conceived as monolithic or static--it has many facets and is in a state of constant flux. The analysis of macro data is supported by revealing micro studies based on field surveys and an examination of cultural trends.

EDUCATION IN THE 21ST CENTURY: EMERGING ISSUES AND THE WAY FORWARD - Dr. Ranjan Sarkar

The Book Education In The 21st Century: Emerging Issues And The Way Forward represents the diverse issues very much relevant to our Education system. Education is the most powerful tool which can be used to change the world. It helps in the development of critical thinking which is necessary for the development of scientific temperament. Education in the 21st century is going through a paradigm shift. This century has witnessed the journey from the traditional face to face classroom to the modern virtual classroom. The goal of modern education is to focus on ensuring that children would be problem solvers, decision makers, and enablers. Education in present digital world is concerned with giving learners the skills they need to succeed in this new world, and helping them grow the confidence to practice those skills. Students need to leave school with life skills that help them navigate challenges, even if they don't know the solutions to them. In this book total 19 chapters have been presented to depict the major issues related with education.
