Born Out of Struggle David Omotoso Stovall 2016-03-31 Demonstrates how critical race theory can be useful in real-world situations. Rooted in the initial struggle of community members who staged a successful hunger strike to secure a high school in their Chicago neighborhood, David Omotoso Stovall's Born Out of Struggle focuses on his first-hand participation in the process to help design the school. Offering important lessons about how to remain accountable to communities while designing a curriculum with a social justice agenda, Stovall explores the use of critical race theory to encourage its practitioners to spend less time with abstract theories and engage more with communities that make a concerted effort to change their conditions. Stovall provides concrete examples of how to navigate the constraints of working with centralized bureaucracies in education and apply them to real-world situations.

The Palgrave Handbook of Queer and Trans Feminisms in Contemporary Performance Tiina Rosenberg 2021-09-21 The purpose of this Handbook is to provide students with an overview of key developments in queer and trans feminist theories and their significance to the field of contemporary performance studies. It presents new insights highlighting the ways in which rigid or punishing notions of gender, sexuality and race continue to flourish in systems of knowledge, faith and power which are relevant to a new generation of queer and trans feminist performers today. The guiding question for the Handbook is: How do queer and trans feminist theories enhance our understanding of developments in feminist performance today, and will this discussion give rise to new ways of theorizing contemporary performance? As such, the volume will survey a new generation of performers and theorists, as well as senior scholars, who engage and redefine the limits of performance. The chapters will demonstrate how intersectional, queer and trans feminist theoretical tools support new analyses of performance with a global focus. The primary audience will be students of theatre/ performance studies as well as queer /gender studies. The volume's contents suggest close links between the formation of queer feminist identities alongside recent key political developments with transnational resonances. Furthermore, the emergence of new queer and trans feminist epistemologies prompts a reorientation regarding performance and identities in a 21st-century context.

Why Smart Men Marry Smart Women Christine B. Whelan 2006-10-17 For years, it's been "common knowledge" that once a woman hits thirty, her chances of finding a husband diminish to the point of despair. That men are intimidated by a woman's career success, preferring docile helpmates to ambitious achievers. That women are biologically driven to seek a strong provider. That the higher a woman's IQ, the less likely she is to marry, let alone have babies...leaving single, successful women to ask themselves: Are men intimidated by smart women? In Why Smart Men Marry Smart Women, Christine B. Whelan shatters the myth that high-achieving women are at a disadvantage in the marriage market. There's good news for the millions of American SWANS (Strong Women Achievers, No Spouse): that today's smart, successful women marry at the same rates as all other women -- and that more income and education may in fact increase a woman's chances of marriage. What's more, as Dr. Whelan shows through newly released U.S. Census data, a large-scale Harris Interactive survey commissioned especially for this book, plus extended interviews conducted in cities nationwide, this profound demographic shift shows every sign of progressing. That means that the "success penalty" that has endured for generations is, as soon as 2010, destined for the history books. Accomplished daughters, sisters, and friends (not to mention their mothers) can finally stop worrying that the twin pinnacles of personal and professional happiness are inherently unattainable. In fact, smart men do marry SWANS. Ninety percent of high-achieving men surveyed want a woman who is as intelligent or more intelligent than they are. And two-thirds of men said they believed smart women make better mothers. Pairing cutting-edge research with sound advice, Dr. Whelan brings to mind what smart women everywhere have long known in their hearts: that the goal is not just to get married, but to have a good marriage, and to lead a fulfilled life.

Envisioning Criminology Michael D. Maltz 2015-06-09 This book covers research design and methodology from a unique and engaging point of view, based on accounts from influential researchers across the field of Criminology and Criminal Justice. Most books and articles about research in criminology and criminal justice focus on how the research was carried out: the data that were used, the methods that were applied, the results that were achieved. While these are all important, they do not present a complete picture. Envisioning Criminology: Researchers on Research as a Process of Discovery aims to fill that gap by providing nuance--the "back story" of why researchers selected particular problems, how they approached those problems, and how their background, training, and experience affected the approaches they took. As the contributions in this book demonstrate, research is not a cut-and-dried process, as all too many methods books imply, but a living, breathing--and in some ways quirky--process that is influenced by non-"scientific" factors. The path taken by a researcher is important, and an appreciation of his or her background, experience, knowledge--and the setbacks and triumphs of performing the research--provides a much more complete picture of how research is done. The twenty-eight chapters in this book describe the back stories of their authors, which serve to enlighten readers about the interplay between the personal and the methodological. While primarily aimed as a textbook, this work will also be of interest to researchers in Criminology and Criminal Justice, and related Social and Behavioral Science fields as an account of how seminal researchers in the field developed their key contributions.

Rewind and Search Mary Jane Miller 1996-04-15 The first half of Rewind and Search looks at the makers -- the producers, directors, writers, story editors, and actors -- while the second half deals with the decision-makers, issues, policy, and ethos that affect the making of CBC television, including drama. Miller pays particular attention to the ways in which programs were influenced by evolving audience expectations, technological advances, and changes in policy, personnel, and the corporate structure of the CBC. With more cutbacks and a change of mandate looming on the horizon, the CBC is at a crossroads. Rewind and Search reveals the value of television drama as an important part of our Canadian heritage, a part that should not be ignored.

Voice as Process Lizbeth Bryant 2005 If you're a composition instructor, the longstanding wrangling over which voice to foster in the classroom--the native or the academic--doesn't help you teach 100 entering freshman, each with wildly different voices. In fact, the argument over voice invariably focuses on what you should be doing--not on what your student writers ARE doing. Voice as Process looks at how student writers use the voices of home and community to develop an academic voice. Through a thorough textual analysis of student portfolios, copious interviews, and ethnographic research, Lizbeth Bryant identifies the activities that writers perform as they manipulate the voices they bring to class, and those they encounter there, into a web of constructed voices that can be adjusted to meet the needs of any writing situation. Only then, after research and reflection on student choices, does Bryant return to address the instructor's role in the process. She argues for a new view of voice as a process of construction and, drawing on composition and pedagogical theory, explores the implications of this view. It's time to start focusing the debate over student voice onto student needs. "Writing teachers cannot abandon discussions of voice exclusively to the domain of theorists," writes Bryant. And while "composition scholarship has offered either/or solutions," to the voice conundrum, students need help building new voices not only for use in academic papers, but also for standardized testing, business writing, journalistic writing, scientific writing, and many other real-world applications. Read Voice as Process and be ready to support your students as they develop voices to negotiate the challenges they face in the academy and beyond.

Welcome to the Dreamhouse Lynn Spigel 2001-05-11 In Welcome to the Dreamhouse feminist media studies pioneer Lynn Spigel takes on Barbie collectors, African American media coverage of the early NASA space launches, and television's changing role in the family home and its links to the broader visual culture of modern art. Exploring postwar U.S. media in the context of the period's reigning ideals about home and family life, Spigel looks at a range of commercial objects and phenomena, from television and toys to comic books and magazines. The volume considers not only how the media portrayed suburban family life, but also how both middle-class ideals and a perceived division between private and public worlds helped to shape the visual forms, storytelling practices, and reception of postwar media and consumer culture. Spigel also explores those aspects of suburban culture that media typically render invisible. She looks at the often unspoken assumptions about class, nation, ethnicity, race, and sexual orientation that underscored both media images (like those of 1960s space missions) and social policies of the mass-produced suburb. Issues of memory and nostalgia are central in the final section as Spigel considers how contemporary girls use television reruns as a source for women's history and then analyzes the current nostalgia for baby boom era family ideals that runs through contemporary images of new household media technologies. Containing some of Spigel's well-known essays on television's cultural history as well as new essays on a range of topics dealing with popular visual culture, Welcome to the Dreamhouse is important reading for students and scholars of media and communications studies, popular culture, American studies, women's studies, and sociology.

Marriage Minutes Jerry Shipp 2015-10-22 Based on his thirty years "in the trenches" as a marriage therapist and the knowledge and insight he has gained from thousands of clients, Jerry Shipp has written a book of practical and, sometimes, humorous parables to help us grow deeply satisfying marriages. In our high-tech, chaotic world where relationships are shallow and people are more connected to their devices than to each other, it is difficult to know how to create a "perfect" marriage when there are so few good examples out there. How can we create "love for a lifetime?" Everybody wants it, but so few seem to achieve it. This book will give some answers to these burning questions. In just two minutes a day, men, you will learn: • What Eeyore, Tarzan, the Grinch, Pepe Le Pew, and Captain Picard have to say about intimate relationships, • How "Jaws," "50 First Dates," "Sherlock Holmes," "Godzilla," and "True Lies" can help you to enjoy and improve your marriage, • What "Stupidville" is and how not to go there, • The proper way to "pursue" the woman you love, and • How to overcome being a "doofus." Women, you will learn: • How to prevent "drift," • What "unconditional respect," The Law of Association, and "submission" really mean, • How to "fight" in a way that strengthens your marriage, • What ordinary things like scabs, weeds, frogs, and back doors can teach you about your marriage. Couples, if you apply the mostly simple (but not necessarily easy) suggestions in this book, you will have created a fabulous, enduring relationship

1776 Rewind Hassan Bartley (Sonny B.) 2022-08-18 Do you like where the United States of America is headed? If your answer is "yes," it's because the information war and cancel culture has kept you in the dark about the rampant corruption destroying our country. In this book, the author reveals how identity politics is destroying the foundation of our Constitution. He answers questions such as: • How does the mainstream media trick so many people into believing falsehoods? • What can our forefathers and the Constitution teach us about battling tyranny? • Why have politicians been able to sell out the country to the highest bidders? • What steps must we take to fix the corrupt deep state system? The author once thought elected officials were tending to our nation honestly, but careful observation showed him that they are doing the opposite. Take a stand for freedom, ask the right questions, and consider how to change the trajectory of our nation with the letters, poems, and insights in 1776 Rewind. Look to a Nation By Sonny B. The Civil War was a war between brothers Who bled on both sides For a cause that should've since long died So I say leave the monuments For the world to see As a reminder of what happens when we disagree In hopes to learn not to repeat history Blacks fought in this war It could land them back with the slave master Knew if they lost the war It would be a monumental disaster Police brutality no I don't condone, But reality is I'm more likely to be murdered by my own Police brutality so loud we can't hear the sound! Of Black on Black blood cryin out from the ground Why no outrage when we kill each other? Is it because the media sees it as ok to kill your brother? Naw that just don't fit the bill A black man taken down by a white man Yeah that's more of a thrill So you censor my voice and agree with another While you recklessly divide a nation of all colors All lives do matter, black, white, yellow and red We are all God's children so can we put this issue to bed? We say the justice system is broken And Blacks get more time The fix is simple Just don't do the crime Am I the only Black man that can see this? We getting sold out by Judas' kiss Will somebody define racism PLEASE!!! Media tryin to infect our minds with a sick disease Are you tellin me we're worse off in the future? And our pain compares to Dr. Luther? Wake up my brother before it's too late, Before we destroy the whole human race Can we admit there are issues on all sides? Let's band together so this nation can truly thrive Take a slave out of chains and out of the cotton fields Tell a man he's a victim and watch what it yields Anger, rage now he's back in a cage Imprisoned in his mind only to be enslaved Kaepernick, LeBron James oh yeah and Kyrie too, We pander to these three And dare me to disagree If I disagree I will have to pay Or give an apology on the very next day I used to get away from fake news by watching ESPN Now politics in sports have become the new trend Is that equality? Seems one sided to me And this is what we callin free speech? You kneel to the flag You disrespect the Anthem White lives died, black lives died We all had a loss And before you made your millions It came at a cost If we could remain as a child So innocent, so mild Pure in heart without ever being defiled Go ahead ask a child what do you see? I only see a person that's a friend of me Look again don't you see his color? No I see a person that's like a brother The Good Book tells us There's nothing new under the sun Everything we see today has already been done So love your neighbor as yourself And please don't tell a lie We can't run from the truth It's a word we can't deny It's not a race issue But an issue of the heart But you can't understand this, because we've grown too smart So, what is the answer to undo this MESS? By LOOKING TO A NATION, that says God Bless!!!
