The A-Z Adventure Series of maps combines the best of OS and A-Z, creating the perfect companion for walkers, off-road cyclists, horse riders and anyone wishing to explore the great outdoors. This official* Camber to Folkestone Adventure Map covers a 29 mile (47 km) section of the England Coast Path, a new National Trail around England's coast. More than just a path, it represents a new right of way that gives everyone the legal right to explore the coast for the very first time. Opening in sections, the England Coast Path is scheduled to complete in 2020. Beginning in East Sussex, the majority of the path, an easy going route across flat terrain, follows the southern Kent coastline. Coastal villages and towns provide the opportunity for refreshment. This water resistant sheet map is double sided with Ordnance Survey 1:25,000 mapping showing the new coastal access verge. The path is clearly highlighted in yellow with mileage markers to gauge distances when planning sections of the walk to enjoy. The map folds down to a handy DL size. A useful gradient profile for the section of path is included along with a selection of QR codes linked to useful websites, including temporary route updates from the National Trails, travel information and weather reports. Other National Trails available within the A-Z Adventure series include: Cotswold Way, Hadrian's Wall Path, North Downs Way, Norfolk Coast Path and Peddars Way, Offa's Dyke Path, Pembrokeshire Coast Path, Pennine Way, South Downs Way, SW Coast Path, Thames Path and The

A Handbook for Travellers in Kent and Sussex - John Murray 2017-10-13

Excerpt from A Handbook for Travellers in Kent and Sussex: With Map Notwithstanding, however, the great beauty of its scenery, it may be said of Kent, as Of Italy, that it is a country in which the memory and the imagination see far more than the eye. It has been the scene of some of the most important events in English history; and if it be true that to have seen the place where a great event happened - to have seen the picture, the statue, the tomb of an illustrious man, is the next thing to being present at the event in person - to seeing the scene with our own eyes (stanley) - there is no part of Eng land which will more richly I'epay the attention of the historian or the tourist. The position of Kent, at the narrowest part of the Channel, brought its inhabitants, from the earliest times, into closer connection with those on the opposite mainland, and made it the scene of three important landings, each of them a landmark in the history of Eng land: that of Caesar which united the remote Britain with the great world of Rome and prepared it for the changes which were to fol low; that of the first Saxons (generally dated a.d. Which introduced the Teutonic element, and laid the foundations of this happy breed of men, this earth, this England and that of Augustine (a.d. Who brought with him Christianity, and from the results of whose mission has, by degrees, arisen the whole constitution of Church and State in England which now binds together the whole British empire. The land ing of Caesar has usually been fixed at Deal (rte. And notwithstanding the interesting paper of Professor Airey (archwologia, xxxvi), who has endeavoured to support the claims of Pevensey in Sussex, it is probable that the Kentish coast between vvalmer and Thanet will still be re garded as the actual scene of the invasion. The historical character of the second landing - that of Hengist and Horsa, which, according to the Saxon Chronicle, took place in the year 449 at pine's fleet (no doubt Ebbsfleet, in Thanet) - is considered as more than doubtful by Lappenberg (anglo-sax. Hist), by Kemble (saxons in England), and by Mr. Wright (celt, Roman, and Saxon), but has found a champion of no ordinary ability in Dr. Guest, whose essay on the Early English Settlements in South Britain, published in the Proceedings of the Archaeological Institute (salisbury volume), is entitled to the fullest consideration. It is at least certain that some of the earliest settlements of the Saxons in Britain were made in the Isle of Thanet and on the adjacent mainland, although the exact period at which they occurred, and the manner in which they were effected, must possibly be allowed to remain undecided. They Draw and Travel - Nate Padavick 2016-11-11

This compendium of 96 illustrated maps celebrates the big cities and small villages of the United Kingdom (and Iceland too!) These maps are not only creative expressions of the artist's love for a particular place in the UK and Iceland, but they also often contain insightful tips and recommendations for things to do and places to visit. For example, do you know where to go for a really great bike ride in Sussex? Do you know how to find the lovely Kew Garden outside London? Or, how about all the fun things to do in Reykjavík? A fantastic hike from coast to coast in England? What to eat in Ireland? In 2011, the brother-and-sister design duo Nate Padavick and Salli Swindell founded the website They Draw & Travel. Today it is the largest collection of online illustrated maps created by artists, illustrators and doodlers from around the world. This book is a selection of 96 illustrated maps of places in the UK and Iceland envisioned by the artists who contribute to the vast and diverse creative community on They Draw & Travel. Experienced on the road or in the chair, this compendium of 96 illustrated maps is an exciting way to get to know the UK and Iceland through the eyes of artists.
