Muslim Textualities - Jean M. Kane 2022-03-14

In the first decade of the twenty-first century, Muslim women writers located in Europe and America entered the cultural mainstream. Literary and visual productions negotiated static visual emblems of Islam, most prominently "the veil." They did so not by rejecting veiling practices, but by adapting Muslim resources, concepts and visual tradition to empowerment narratives in popular media. Mainstream reception of their works has often overlooked or misread these negotiations. Muslim Textualities argues for more flexible and capacious interpretation, with particular attention to visibility as a metaphor for political agency and to knowledge of cultural contexts. This provocative volume aims to articulate Muslim female agency through clear and accessible analysis of the theory and concepts driving the interpretation of these works. Scholars interested in the working representations of Muslim women, feminist subjectivities, and the complexities of gender roles, patriarchy, and feminism will find this volume of particular interest.

Gender, Race, and Class in Media - Bill Yousman 2020-07-24

Gender, Race, and Class in Media provides students a comprehensive and critical introduction to media studies by encouraging them to analyze their own media experiences and interests. The book explores some of the most important forms of today's popular culture—including the Internet, social media, television, films, music, and advertising—in three distinct but related areas of investigation: the political economy of production, textual analysis, and audience response. Multidisciplinary issues of power related to gender, race, and class are integrated into a wide range of articles examining the economic and cultural implications of mass media as institutions. Reflecting the rapid evolution of the field, the Sixth Edition includes 18 new readings that enhance the richness, sophistication, and diversity that characterizes contemporary media scholarship. Included with this title: The password-protected Instructor Resource Site (formally known as SAGE Edge) offers access to all text-specific resources, including a test bank and editable, chapter-specific PowerPoint® slides.

How Pop Culture Shapes the Stages of a Woman's Life - Melissa Ames 2016-03-15

Contemporary popular culture has created a slew of stereotypical roles for girls and women to (willingly or not) play throughout their lives: The Princess, the Nymphette, the Diva, the Single Girl, the Bridezilla, the Tiger Mother, the M.I.L.F, the Cougar, and more. In this book Ames and Burcon investigate the role of cultural texts in gender socialization at specific pre-scripted stages of a woman's life (from girls to the "golden girls") and how that instruction compounds over time. By studying various texts (toys, magazines, blogs, tweets, television shows, Hollywood films, novels, and self-help books) they argue that popular culture exists as a type of funhouse mirror constantly distorting the real world conditions that exist for women, magnifying the gendered expectations they face. Despite the many problematic, conflicting messages women receive throughout their lives, this book also showcases the ways such messages are resisted, allowing women to move past the blurry reality they broadcast and toward, hopefully, gender equality.

The Muslim World in Post-9/11 American Cinema - Kerem Bayraktaroğlu
2018-08-10

Focusing on the decade following 9/11, this critical analysis examines the various portrayals of Muslims in American cinema. Comparison of pre- and post-9/11 films indicates a stereotype shift, influenced by factors other than just politics. The evolving definitions of male, female and child characters and of setting and landscape are described. The rise of the formidable American female character who dominates the weak Muslim male emerges as a common theme.

Girlfriends and Postfeminist Sisterhood - A. Winch 2013-11-06

From Mean Girl to BFF, Girlfriends and Postfeminist Sisterhood explores female sociality in postfeminist popular culture. Focusing on a range of media forms, Alison Winch reveals how women are increasingly encouraged to strategically bond by controlling each other's body image through 'the girlfriend gaze'.

Marketing-relevant cultural impacts on the consumer behaviour within the communication policy determined using the United Arab Emirates - Marc Termath 2011-10-13

Inhaltsangabe: Introduction: The development of the world more and more leads to a global village. Commodities, which earlier were only accessible to the people in the immediate vicinity nowadays, are sold on the whole globe. The increasing dynamism within the foreign trade is perceptible, as every country including their companies is incumbent upon the same problem. The home market is already satiated by the products and there is no more growth expected. The only way to handle this conflict is based on the going international concept. The basis of the global trade was created by the changes in the international politics and the creation of international economic areas. Nevertheless, the acceptance that products and goods at foreign markets can be set down in the way, as it has nationwide turned out already, is to be handled with care. By tendency an increasing homogenization of the markets and even to the products is registered. This enables the internationally operating companies to use scale effects as well as synergistic effects by a centrally steered marketing. Nevertheless, the assumption, that even the country specific consumption patterns will match piece by piece, is not expected. Differences in the cultural specification of every individual export market and the connected consumer behaviour falsify this assumption. The condition that global player have to face is as much standardization as possible, so much differentiation as necessary. Caused by the international and intercultural marketing, mistakes can mainly be avoided in the creation of the marketing measures. Target of Investigation: Currently no other region in the world can prove such an industry's impetus like the Arabian countries. The numerous raw material occurrences, which belong to the demand-strongest commodities of the world, contribute their share to this unbelievable development. The United Arab Emirates (UAE) are according to the OPEC (d.u.) in 7th place of the world's biggest oil and gas occurrences. However, the UAE already adjusts the future of their economy to alternative branches of economic sectors. For the time after the oil, areas like tourism or research and development of high technology are massively promoted by the government. Additionally the high population growths, particularly influenced by an immigration policy supporting the influx of foreign skilled workers, as well as one of the worldwide highest per head income and a huge purchase power [...]

Overbooked - Elizabeth Becker 2016-02-23

"Travel is no longer a past-time but a colossal industry, arguably one of the biggest in the world and second only to oil in importance for many poor countries. One out of 12 people in the world are employed by the tourism industry which contributes $6.5 trillion to the world's economy. To investigate the size and effect of this new industry, Elizabeth Becker traveled the globe. She speaks to the Minister of Tourism of Zambia who thinks licensing foreigners to kill wild animals is a good way to make money and then to a Zambian travel guide who takes her to see the rare endangered sable antelope. She travels to Venice where community groups are fighting to stop the tourism industry from pushing them out of their homes, to France where officials have made tourism their number one industry to save their cultural heritage; and on cruises speaking to waiters who earn $60 a month--then on to Miami to interview their CEO. Becker's sharp depiction reveals travel as a product; nations as stewards. Seeing the tourism industry from the inside out, the world offers a dizzying range of travel options but very few quiet getaways"--

Women's Cinema, World Cinema - Patricia White 2015-01-26

In Women's Cinema, World Cinema, Patricia White explores the dynamic intersection of feminism and film in the twenty-first century by highlighting the work of a new generation of women directors from around the world: Samira and Hana Makhmalbaf, Nadine Labaki, Zero Chou, Jasmila Zbanic, and Claudia Llosa, among others. The emergence of a globalized network of film festivals has enabled these young directors to make and circulate films that are changing the aesthetics and politics of art house cinema and challenging feminist genealogies.

Extending formal analysis to the production and reception contexts of a variety of feature films, White explores how women filmmakers are both implicated in and critique gendered concepts of authorship, taste, genre, national identity, and human rights. Women's Cinema, World Cinema revitalizes feminist film studies as it argues for an alternative vision of global media culture.

Influencer - Ole Nymoen 2021-03-07

Menschen über dreißig kennen oft nicht einmal ihre Namen, für jüngere Jahrgänge sind sie Topstars: Influencer. Junge Erwachsene und sogar Kinder filmen sich beim Schminken, auf Reisen oder beim Sport und teilen ihre Tipps über soziale Medien mit ihren Fans. Dabei platzieren sie geschickt Produkthinweise und verdienen so ihren Lebensunterhalt - oder gar ein Vermögen. Für Ole Nymoen und Wolfgang M. Schmitt sind die Influencer symptomatische Sozialfiguren unserer Zeit. In der Abstiegsgesellschaft scheinen noch einmal Aufstiegsträume wahr zu werden, der Spätkapitalismus hübscht sein Gesicht mit Filtern und Photoshop auf, mit einer revolutionären Form der Werbung komplettieren Instagrammer und Youtuber das Geschäftsmodell des kommerziellen Internets. Bei aller ausgestellten Modernität, so Nymoen und Schmitt, beeinflussen die Influencer jedoch noch in einer weiteren Hinsicht den Zeitgeist: Indem sie rückwärtsgewandte Rollenbilder, Konsumismus und rigide Körpnormen propagieren, leisten sie einem konservativen Backlash Vorschub.

Depicting the Veil - Robin L. Riley 2013-09-12

This powerful book exposes how gendered Orientalism is wielded to justify Western imperialism. Over the last ten years, Western governments and mainstream media have utilized concepts of white masculine supremacy and feminine helplessness, juxtaposed with Orientalist images depicting women of color as mysterious, sinister, and dangerous, to support war. Oscillating between Mrs Anthrax, female suicide bomber and tragic, helpless victim, representations of 'brown women' have spawned both rescue narratives and terrorist alerts. Examining media and pop culture from Sex and the City 2 to Vanity Fair and Time magazine, Robin Riley uses transnational feminist analysis to reveal how this kind of transnational sexism towards Muslim women in general and Afghan and Iraqi women in particular has led to a new form of gender imperialism.

The New Arab Man - Marcia C. Inhorn 2012-03-25

Middle Eastern Muslim men have been widely vilified as terrorists, religious zealots, and brutal oppressors of women. The New Arab Man challenges these stereotypes with the stories of ordinary Middle Eastern men as they struggle to overcome infertility and childlessness through assisted reproduction. Drawing on two decades of ethnographic research across the Middle East with hundreds of men from a variety of social and religious backgrounds, Marcia Inhorn shows how the new Arab man is self-consciously rethinking the patriarchal masculinity of his forefathers and unseating received wisdoms. This is especially true in childless Middle Eastern marriages where, contrary to popular belief, infertility is more common among men than women. Inhorn captures the marital, moral, and material commitments of couples undergoing assisted reproduction, revealing how new technologies are transforming their lives and religious sensibilities. And she looks at the changing manhood of husbands who undertake transnational "egg quests"--set against the backdrop of war and economic uncertainty--out of devotion to the infertile wives they love. Trenchant and emotionally gripping, The New Arab Man traces the emergence of new masculinities in the Middle East in the era of biotechnology.

Islam and Postcolonial Discourse - Esra Mirze Santesso 2017-01-27

Largely, though not exclusively, as a legacy of the 2001 attack on the World Trade Center, Islamic faith has become synonymous in many corners of the media and academia with violence, which many believe to be its primary mode of expression. The absence of a sophisticated recognition of the wide range of Islamic subjectivities within contemporary culture has created a void in which misinterpretations and hostilities thrive. Responding to the growing importance of religion, specifically Islam, as a cultural signifier in the formation of a postcolonial self, this multidisciplinary collection is organized around contested terms such as secularism, Islamopolitics, female identity, and Islamophobia. The overarching goal of the contributors is to facilitate a deeper understanding of the full range of experiences within Islam as well as the figure of the Muslim, thus enabling a new set of questions about religion's role in shaping postcolonial identity.

"Highly recommended for romantics of all stripes."—Library Journal, starred review Why isn't real-life romance more like fiction? Patience Bloom asked herself this question, many times over. As a teen she fell in love with Harlequin novels and imagined her life would turn out just like their heroines: That shy guy she had a crush on would sweep her off her feet and turn out to be a rock star. Not exactly her reality, but Patience kept hoping. Years later she found her dream job, editing romances for Harlequin itself. Every day, her fantasies came true—on the page. Her dating life, however, remained uninspired. She nearly gave up hope. Then one day Patience got a real-life chance at romance, but Sam lived thousands of miles away. Was it worth the risk? Could love conquer all?
