Dead Girls - Selva Almada 2020-09-03

In this brutal, gripping novel, Selva Almada narrates the case of three small-town teenage girls murdered in the 1980's in the interior of Argentina. Three deaths without culprits: 19-year old Andrea Danne, stabbed in her own bed; 15-year old María Luisa Quevedo, raped, strangled, and dumped in wasteland; and 20-year old Sarita Mundín, whose disfigured body was found on a river bank. Almada takes these and other tales of abused women to weave together a dry, straightforward portrait of gender violence that surpasses national borders and speaks to readers' consciousness all over the world. Following the success of The Wind That Lays Waste, internationally acclaimed Argentinian author Selva Almada dives into the heart of this problem with a reported novel, comparable to Truman Capote's In Cold Blood or John Hersey's Hiroshima, in response to the urgent need for attention to the ongoing catastrophe that is femicide. Not a police chronicle, not a thriller, but a contemporary noir novel that lives in the hearts of these women and the men who have abused them. Almada captures the invisible, and with lyrical brutality, blazes a new trail in journalistic fiction.

Struggling Teens / - L. Stewart/Gray 2012-07-08

This is a work of fiction. Names, characters, places and incidents are either the products of the author's imagination or are used fictitiously. Any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead, or to actual incidents or events is purely coincidental. "Struggling Teens Dedicated to my sons and daughter, Bree, Tevin Damon, Chris, Etienne You all gave me the courage and the knowledge to do this With all my love CHAPTER 1 Being and Adolescent is hard, because you're starting to change, physically and emotionally. Then it came to me, every one has that feeling. Then you reach the teenager mark, and even more things start to happen and that is much more to deal with. As teens we wonder what's wrong in their life especially teens. So I decided to write about it instead of just thinking about what's wrong in our lives and wanting to do better. So lets try and start from the beginning. By the way, my name is Jennifer. It may seem boring at first but it will get very interesting just keep reading. I was born and raised in a middle class neighborhood, where every one had decent jobs, my father is a teacher in and (Elementary School), and my mother is the (Counselor) in middle school. My mother and father have known each other since the second grade, they grew up together. As the years went by they began dating in high school. My father was a basketball player and she was a cheerleader, they were the most popular couple in high school. And have been together for twenty-five years. I am the only girl and I have two brothers, whose names were Thomas, and Shun, those two would tease me so much when I was little. But I knew that they loved me dearly. Now I will begin about my thoughts on how babies process their memory from beginning to end. As babies we all have a certain way we think and process our feelings. Not a big deal. Because we have our parents and siblings to help us understand what's wrong and right, so the training begins. As baby girls we get all the attention from our fathers love. As we get older we become daddy's little girls are angels. In their eyes we can do no wrong, no one can touch us, not even our brothers. And then our brothers become the same way with us and want to protect us from boys. As we began to become teenage girls every thing changes, our figures and hormones. No longer are we thought of as the little sisters of our brother. Then we start to get attention from our girlfriend's brothers, and their friends. And we think I never knew it would be this way. So now we start using make up, some dressing in short skirts and really short shorts. Assuming that's how to catch a guy. Bad mistake no one respects you, are takes you seriously. Guys start to think you're easy, and try and take advantage of you. Let's not talk about the other teenage girls you hang out with. You stop hanging out with most of the teenagers you grew up with. Teenagers that were popular made fun of them. Also of the way they dressed. And how small their breast was, the fact that they still had acne and pimples. I want to be popular. You start changing slowly, and lie so you won't be seen with them. You had one best friend, whose name was Kathy. Kathy hated her middle name, no one knew it except for Jessie and I, and it was her father's mother's name. She said it was to old fashion. Kathy's mother and father meet in high school as well, but neither of them was popular in school. Her father works in the car business, which means a car salesman and her mother is a manager at a department store. So she lives in a lower class neighborhood, but her and I were best friends all through elementary.
