I've been banned more than 5 times, nearly always in less than 2 weeks, and for one reason only - I was picking all the women I wanted from many online platforms. Most of these websites were not for dating, and many of the women I met had boyfriends or husbands, but this didn't stop them from contacting me and go out on a date. In this book, I reveal the secret that allowed me to pick-up dozens of beautiful women from many websites, and that allowed acquaintances to do it faster than me from Facebook and other more popular platforms. The secrets here revealed are so effective that quickly draw the attention of everyone, both jealous men and competitive women. In the end, it's a race against time, while the men try to put you out of the competition in every way they can, and women make you so popular that you start receiving invitations to talk privately online and go on dates with those you haven't had to say whatsoever. This is about a female magnet that works every single time, even though it will eventually make you get banned as well. But, who cares about being banned, once your mobile is full of numbers of hot women and most of them expect to become your girlfriend or at least sleep with you? Don't be fooled about how simple these strategies may seem! Every single pick-up artist that teaches you online dating is either using part of them or all at the same time. Game on!

They fall in love over twenty-five-cent roulette, and soon get a bigger score in mind. In the Biggest Little City in the World, a king-size scheme is brewing.

A syllogism, from the Greek syllogismos, is a logical argument in which a proposition is inferred from two others. It's composed of three parts: the major premise, the minor premise and the conclusion inferred from the premises. The syllogism is Aristotle's most famous contribution to logic and because any valid argument must take the form of a syllogism; his work in analyzing syllogisms provides a basis for analyzing arguments and prove rigorously whether they are true or false, valid or invalid. Based on the same study about syllogisms and their practical application to life, you have here an analysis of relationships in modern times. The principles applied come from deductive reasoning as understood in the greek culture. Along this line of reasoning, the book provides answers to the most common questions all women have in what regards men, how to understand them and even how to control them, combining a total of 69 syllogisms related to attraction, behavior, communication, dating and love. The insights provided by the greeks on all these topics will give you an advantage that will make any other woman jealous. It is based on this knowledge, deeply rooted into the greek culture, that greek women have become known as irresistible for their charm and capacity to seduce through words and gestures.

Fighting Women - Victoria Katherine Burbank 2018-07-10

Fighting is common among contemporary Aboriginal women in Mangrove, Australia. Women fight with men and with other women—often with “the other woman.” Victoria Burbank’s depiction of these women offers a powerful new perspective that can be applied to domestic violence in Western settings. Noting that Aboriginal women not only talk without shame about their angry emotions but also express them in acts of aggression and defense, Burbank emphasizes the positive social and cultural implications of women’s refusal to be victims. She explores questions of hierarchy and the expression of emotions, as well as women’s roles in domestic violence. Human aggression can be experienced and expressed in different ways, she says, and is not necessarily always “wrong.” Fighting Women is relevant to discussions of aggression and gender relations in addition to debates on the victimization of women and children everywhere. Zane Grey Collection: Riders of the Purple Sage, The Call of the Canyon, The Man of the Forest, The Desert of Wheat and Much More - Zane Grey 2016-03-18

When envy frames the mother-daughter relationship, it creates a push-pull effect of love and hate, often affecting the daughter's psychological development. The roots of this envy are based in the personal mythology of both mother and daughter as well as in a culture that encourages solitary female mothering, engendering exclusivity and possessiveness. The envied daughter eventually develops an internal jealous-mother archetype and responds to this archetype in a number of ways, depending on her own myth and personality. The archetypal witch may run rampant in the envied daughter's psyche, influencing how she relates to herself and the world around her. Using the lenses of depth psychology, mythology, cultural analysis, feminist theory and systemic perspectives, and Buddhist philosophy, Daughters of Envy: Women and Maternal Betrayal explores definitions of mothering, mother-daughter symbiosis, psychological attachment issues, emotional orphanhood, manifestations of envy, and the heroic journey a woman makes when she confronts the archetypal witch. Research includes literary review and analysis as well as interviews with self-identified envied daughters.

Also included are artistic representations of the heroine's descent into the underworld and her ascent into a new consciousness. This study finds that envy and betrayal between women is a pattern often passed from one generation to the next, especially when women assume the demanding role of primary caregiver to children. It is possible that the betraying, exclusive mother-daughter relationship can be eased by social and individual change. If men and women assume equal parenting responsibility and children are raised by several adults (including family members, friends, and reliable daycare providers), this can provide daughters with a broad and consistent base of support that promotes secure attachment and healthy models of behavior. This contributes to the daughter's self-confidence and her ability to make choices that support her well-being. For the envied adult daughter to transform her inner witch, she must recognize her own capacity for jealousy and betrayal, establish a new, more compassionate relationship with this archetype, and claim the boon of her heroic journey--herself.

Griffith Gaunt - Charles Reade 2015-07-03
Excerpt from Griffith Gaunt: Or Jealousy "Then I say once for all, that priest shall never darken my doors again." "Then I say they are my doors and not yours, and that holy man shall brighten them whenever he will." The gentleman and lady, who faced each other, pale and furious, and interchanged this bitter defiance, were man and wife. And had loved each other well. Miss Catherine Peyton was a young lady of ancient family in Cumberland, and the most striking, but least popular, beauty in the county. She was very tall and straight, and carried herself a little too imperiously; yet she would sometimes relax and all but dissolve that haughty figure, and hang sweetly drooping over her favorites: then the contrast was delicious, and the woman fascinating. Her hair was golden and glossy; her eyes a lovely gray; and she had a way of turning them on slowly and full, so that their victim could not fail to observe two things: 1st, That they were grand and beautiful orbs; 2d, that they were thoughtfully overlooking him instead of looking at him. So contemplated by glorious eyes, a man feels small and bitter. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
