Mend a City Tabia Mawusi 2017-12-04 "This is what happens when an undignified culture gets introduced to the barrel of a 12 gauge situation." Mend-A-City The Movement with its use of "rhythm and prose" boldly catapults its audience into an eclectic world of conscious spoken word and revolutionary thought This "performance art piece" was penned to actively awaken the masses and eradicate the mendacity that plagues our nation: White Supremacy and its doctrine of Racism. Scene 1: My Soul Cries Out To God This is one Woman's cry out to God and a telling of the calling on her life which transitions into an ensemble and the telling of "who the Creator " is. The Creator of All. Scene 2: Wearer of the Ankh-Glorious A melodic spoken word piece reminiscent of a rich Ancient African experience before the Maafa. The scene transitions through sounds of violence, fear and captivity, into a flashback to "Sister Translator" an excerpt from "Black Holocaust" by S.E. Anderson illustrating a gut wrenching account of African Women in the cargo hold of a slave ship during the middle passage. The sullenness which lingers cries out in an old negro spiritual "How Long Brethren? How Long?" The scene ends with a love song duet titled "From a Black WOMAN to a Black Man" by Maya Angelou recited by her at the Million Man March in 1995. Scene 3: "O.J Simpson Is Not A Black Man" An article in "The Daily," the University of Washington's campus newspaper, written immediately following his acquittal is performed by "White Girl." A response was written and printed and is performed by "BLACKGIRL. " Scene 4: Today I Believe Today I believe is a creed to live by which transitions thru chants and spirituality to the idea of starting one's own religion. Scene 5: Deepest Need The deepest need in a human being Is love. Speaking directly to the heart of its audience this scene pierces any shield or tough exterior used to harden the heart. Speaking on the issue of the State of Our Nation's Children it forces one to realize the need for all to be accountable. INTERMISSION Act Two Scene One: Troubled World Live portraits of slaves working in the field mirroring and evolving into present day prisons and corporate offices this song by Trice B. Phantom opens the second act. It's several transitions flow from a Black WOMAN telling the Black Man that if he were a Better man, he'd be the man for her; to her crying out to God. Later a monologue about the message the young black boy receives from his country, to his declaration "I would Mend A City promoting Black Love," and him Dealing with the Hand He's Been Dealt to his revelation "I AM the Soul of the Black Man." Scene 2: Virgin Version of Myself Fierce and deliberate this monologue challenges, questions, and speaks truth to power. Transitioning into a young WOMAN's declaration "I would Mend A City by Reflecting God." Scene Three: X2WS This is the Proclamation for African Americans for the 21st century. X2WS is an acronym for Death to White

Supremacy. Confronting the illegal arrest murder and incarceration of Black men inspiring The Movement. And the Mend A City Movers are protesting outside the TCPD headquarters where reporters are there on the scene and transitioning into the "JAIL House Cypher" where four men rhythmically tell the story of their arrest from behind bars. Scene Four: None Are More Selfish This poem is a continuation of Virgin Version of Myself and continues to speak truth to power transitioning to a meeting at the Mend A City Movement Headquarters immediately following the protest The fruit of which produces solution focused bullet points that will aid in mending the ethnicity we often referred to as Black. A Call to Action speaks directly to the hearts of men and cause them to stir, to rise and to awaken and make a change. Marriage on the Mend Clint Bragg 2015-03-27 Approximately fifty percent of the couples who sign a marriage license will also sign on the dotted line of a divorce document. In order to turn the tide of this stark statistic, couples who have considered or experienced separation or divorce must be given real tools to reconcile, restore, and rebuild their relationships. Marriage on the Mend provides these tools for couples in crisis. Clint and Penny Bragg know what it means to be that couple. After being divorced for eleven years and living 3,000 miles from each other, they were remarried—but the difficult work of restoration continued long after that second ceremony. The Braggs know that couples who reconcile face a unique set of challenges, including unresolved arguments, poor communication habits, unforgiveness, and betrayed trust. Biblically based materials are required to walk through this treacherous territory toward full healing and restoration. This practical, realistic book identifies roadblocks that may stall relationship progress, recommends ideas to deepen intimacy, offers solutions to effectively handle past hurts and conflicts, and applies Scripture to every aspect of the process in order to proactively stabilize and safeguard the marriage. At the end of each chapter, the Braggs include a prayer for couples to share to help facilitate healing. The one thing all broken relationships have in common is that true healing takes time. Using the framework

Make Do and Mend 2014-03-24 The rationing period during World War II was a difficult time, and yet it is remembered nostalgically as a time of unity and great sacrifice. Make Do and Mend focuses on clothes rationing, which was introduced in June 1940. With the nation's industrial output concentrated on the war effort, basic clothes were in short supply and high fashion was an unknown commodity. Adults were issued as little as 36 coupons a year to spend on clothes. But a man's suit could cost 22 coupons, a coat 16 and a lady's dress 11, so the need to recycle clothing and be inventive with other materials became a necessity. The government issued the leaflets included in Make Do and Mend to advise on how best to avoid wasting valuable resources by recycling curtains into dresses and old sheets into underwear; in short how to 'make do and mend' rather than buying new clothes. Produced from original material held in archives the leaflets are also a nostalgic showcase of forties style.

The Love in Mending Mary Catherine Rishcoff 2020-10-02 The storybook, The Love In Mending addresses love and healing (mending). Both on the surface and at deeper levels, it is apparent that we can heal and help each other whether pet or person. In the book, a very special Sewing Box gets used to mend torn toys. The pet and owner bond together by means of the Sewing Box. They do well together by "mending" one another. Suitably, the author likens "mending" as sewing. The healing of a sick pet presents further trials in the relationship. Furthermore, the frequently used words "very special" emphasize the importance of whatever is referenced. References include pet, family, toys, Sewing Box, and relationship. "Very special" implies the deserving of the best as well as the getting of the best. Like the very special dog, the very special relationship endures. There exists very special love in mending within a very special relationship!
