The Mystic Rose - Alfred Ernest Crawley 1902

Anthropological, historical and sociological study of marriage.

Love's Coming-Of-Age - Edward Carpenter 2014-09-15

This relatively short book of essays by pioneering socialist and esteemed author Edward Carpenter is a look at gender roles at the start of the 20th century, and his well-balanced view on how those roles might evolve. In the past century many of his then-utopian predictions have come to pass, such as reasoned sexual education, greater equality for women, recognition of a spectrum of sexual identities, widespread acceptance of open relationships, and the various enrichments of the stifling nature of what is considered traditional marriage. Some of these predictions, inevitably, such as the use of 'Karezza' (extended coitus without ejaculation) for contraception, and a communist society leading to the liberation of women from the drudgery of housework, though, have fallen flat. THE SEX-PASSION MAN, THE UNGROWN WOMAN, THE SERF WOMAN IN FREEDOM MARRIAGE, A RETROSPECT MARRIAGE, A FORECAST THE INTERMEDIATE SEX THE FREE SOCIETY REMARKS AND NOTES SOME REMARKS ON THE EARLY STAR AND SEX WORSHIPS NOTE ON THE PRIMITIVE GROUP-MARRIAGE ON JEALOUSY ON THE FAMILY ON PREVENTIVE CHECKS TO POPULATION

Revival: The Evolution of Modern Marriage (1930) - Franz Carl Muller-Lyer 2018-05-08

So many books on marriage leave one with a feeling of chaos that it is important to examine any document underlying the discovery of order by searching for underlying tendencies. The author emphasizes the necessity of taking the evolutionary point of view, and sees in militant feminism, which teaches emulation of men, a phase which will pass as women come to make their own peculiar spiritual contribution to civilization as men have done. Perhaps this will come the sooner, he suggests, if women will regard themselves as the equivalents and not as the equals of men.

The Father in Primitive Psychology - Bronislaw Malinowski 2014-04-10

This vintage text contains Bronislaw Malinowski's seminal treatise, "The Father in Primitive Psychology". It is an analysis of the relationship of society and psychology in tribal communities, and explores ideas of sex and procreation, kinship, myth, social organisation, and more. This fascinating text will appeal to those with a keen interest in psychology, and it would make for a great addition to collections of allied literature. The chapters of this book include: "Kinship and Descent in a Matrilineal Society", "The Male and Female Organism and the Sexual Impulse in Native Belief", "Reincarnation and the Way to Life from the Spirit World", "The Ignorance of Physiological Paternity", "Words and Deeds in Testimony", etcetera. Bronislaw Kasper Malinowski (1884 - 1942) was a Polish anthropologist, commonly hailed as one of the most influential of the twentieth-century. This volume is being republished now in an affordable, modern edition, complete with a specially commissioned new biography of the author.

The Sexual Life of Our Time in Its Relations to Modern Civilization - Iwan Bloch 2022-07-21

"The Sexual Life of Our Time in Its Relations to Modern Civilization" is an absolute compilation of knowledge on the science of sex by Iwan Bloch. The aim of the author is for the book to be of great usefulness in the profession of law and medicine because they require knowledge of the science of sex and the various causes for the existence of "abnormals," to guide them in their future investigations into, and practice of attempts to mitigate, the evil that exists, and to bring about more healthy humans.

In-Laws and Outlaws - Sybil Wolfram 2023-07-05

Originally published in 1987, this book presented for the first time a unified treatment of English kinship of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. This system, far from being a patchwork of historical accidents, has a remarkably logical overall structure, permeating both law and custom. To understand it one must study a wide variety of sources ranging from Parliamentary debates through accounts of contemporary events, cases and incidents to fiction of the day. The work is pertinent to current studies in a number of fields: in history it represents a systematic overview, highlighting new sources of material, while for lawyers it gives a historical context and explanation of 'family law', particularly topical for impending English legislation in this area at the time. It collects two centuries of sociological data, and presents social anthropologists with the English system for comparison with systems conventionally studied in the field and with kinship theory. Finally, it provides philosophers with a new arena in which to discuss the nature of explanations of human activities, besides raising fresh questions.

Love's Coming-of-age - Edward Carpenter 1896

This advocate of women's liberation and equality between the sexes elaborates on the oppression of women in marriage.

Primitive Paternity - Edwin Sidney Hartland 1909

Intermittant references to Australian tribal beliefs, sex life before marriage, polygyny and monogamy, methods of arranging marriages, sexual rights, sweetheart relationships, jealousy of husbands.

Primitive Marriage - Kathy Alexis Psomiades 2023-04-03

Marriage is the novel's traditional subject matter. But what happens to the novel when another genre of writing lays claim to the novel's traditional material? Primitive Marriage: Victorian Anthropology, the Novel, and Sexual Modernity shows how the foundational ideas of the new discipline of anthropology gave late-Victorian novelists and social scientists ways of rethinking heterosexual romance by referring to a new kind of history, one in which marriage systems, sexual behavior, and reproductive practices were temporalized and given historical agency. Temporalizing sexual relations, locating them in evolutionary and historical time, anthropologists and the novelists who wrote after them began to think modernity in sexual terms. This transformation of politics into sexual politics put sexuality and gender at the center of liberal stories of progress. The Victorian theorists responsible for this transformation--from well-known figures like Charles Darwin and Sigmund Freud to lesser-known writers like John McLennan and Henry Maine--and the novelists who engaged them--Anthony Trollope, George Eliot, Henry James, Sarah Grand, H. Rider Haggard, Thomas Hardy--not only helped produce sexually modern subjects, but also the theories about sexuality, time, and politics that we still draw upon to think modernity today.

Theories of Primitive Marriage - Herbert Spencer 2017-07-10

This book deals with the history of primitive marriage as that developed by Ferguson McLennan through his work on primitive marriage. Arguing from the prevalence of the symbolical form of capture in the marriage ceremonies of primitive races, he developed an intelligible picture of the growth of the marriage relation and of systems of kinship according to natural laws. "In his ingenious and interesting work on "Primitive Marriage," the words "exogamy" and "endogamy" are used by Mr. McLennan to distinguish the two practices of taking to wife women belonging to other tribes, and taking to wife women belonging to the same tribe. As explained in his preface, his attention was drawn to these diverse customs by an inquiry into "the meaning and origin of the form of capture in marriage ceremonies;" an inquiry which led him to a general theory of early sexual relations..."

The Mothers - Robert Briffault 1927

The author discusses love, marriage, motherhood, etc. from the aspect of anthropology.

A History of Matrimonial Institutions - George Elliott Howard 1964

Revival: The Mystic Rose (1960) - Ernest Crawley 2018-05-08

All study of the origins of social institutions must be based on what ethnology can tell us of the psychology of the lower races and on the primitive conceptions of human relations which are thus established. It is only in early modes of thought that we can find the explanation of ceremonies and systems which originated in primitive society; and, if ceremony and system are the concrete forms in which human relations are expressed, an examination, ethnological and psychological, of human relations, is indispensable for enquiry into human institutions.

Trial Marriage, Divorce, Polygamy Primitive Sex Relations Not of One Type Only.?What with the doubts cast upon original universal promiscuity and upon universal group communism as a second stage in the progress toward an enduring monogamic marriage bond, are we left no tolerably sure evidence as to primitive marriage conditions? It seems likely that we may approximate nearer the truth by eliminating the qualification universal from the generalizations on this subject. The universal savors too strongly of pure logic, and human institutions are notoriously indifferent to logic, save that experimental pragmatic logic involved in reacting upon life problems. Now life problems vary both in space and time; hence spontaneous variations in these reactions are to be expected; and the only universal is the adapting of some means to some end. That is to say, the only thing we can be absolutely sure of is that mankind, given time enough, will by some hook or crook squirm out of the difficulty. But this is far from saying that the same hooks or crooks will everywhere be used in the face of similar difficulties. Applying this dictum to the evolution of marriage, instead of a universal series of forms or stages through which mankind has passed, we should find that there has been only a general trend, and that the series is not at all uniform, but broken into and disturbed at many points. Hence we are prepared to find a perfect sequence of forms existing alongside of survivals, anticipations, and distorted forms. For example, France in our own day is presumed to have attained the monogamous stage, yet fifty thousand of Paris prostitutes indicate a survival of promiscuity. And such overlapping of sex relations may be observed in most moder...
