New Women - Sandra Campbell 1997-10-18

New Women is an anthology of short fiction written by Canadian women between 1900 and 1920. The carefully selected stories by writers such as L.M. Montgomery, Nellie McClung, and Marjorie Pickthall provide dramatic and imaginative glimpses of Canadian society and of the women who lived during those momentous years.

Marcel Moyse - Ann McCutchan 1994-01-01

Drawing on well over 100 interviews with European and American students, colleagues, and family members, McCutchan traces his career, with particular attention to the cultural and political conditions that helped mold him. She distills a truthful and full portrait of this charismatic, complex and sometimes puzzling man.

Vignettes of Life - Catharine Elizabeth Warren 1986

Mamma Mia! - Maria Coletta McLean 2004

Growing up a second-generation Italian woman in Canada is not as easy as it looks. In fact, it requires the keeping of secrets, the telling of lies, the casting of curses, and the patience of a saint. Here 20 Italian-Canadian women share their stories -- some comic, some tragic, some nostalgic, all true -- about living a double life with a private/public split personality. Intimate, inspiring, brave, and confessional, these tales reveal women old enough to reminisce yet young enough to revolutionize. Balancing between the Old Country and the new, a respect for tradition and the need to break with it, this collection is a rare and surprising blend of humour and candor that promises the perfect conversation-starter. Mamma mia, what will they dare say next?

The Canadian Magazine - J. Gordon Mowat 1896

Tamara - Amicus 2015-01-14

A walk in the mall leads to an unforgettable romantic encounter. Two people meet in the strangest way, learn about each other, know each other, the good and bad things leading to a May-December relationship with emotional highs and lows. The onset of adulthood inevitably brings the dawning awareness of sexuality and the struggle to put it into proper perspective with internalized values. For Tamara, the final passage into womanhood brings joy, not guilt; pleasure, not shame. EXCERPT: I stopped breathing and tried to pull my hands away from her. She held on tighter and refused to let loose. I knew exactly what I was thinking but tried not to think and tried to forget as soon as she sat down. "No, I don't think I can do that. I mean I could lie to you and just say anything, but your sharp little eyes might pick that up too and I don't want to lie to you but I also don't want to tell you honestly what went through my mind. I will say that I was not proud of my thoughts and that I tried to erase them when you came back. Is that good enough?" The look on her face was absolutely devilish as she pulled my hands closer to her and leaned over table, looked around and then whispered: "Even if you wanted to pull me down to the floor right here in the mall and tear my clothes off and do it, I want to know what you were thinking!" I know my face colored deeply, I felt the heat. I didn't look away; I didn't try to move my hands. My voice even almost failed me and I had to swallow and slow my breathing before I dared speak. "It wasn't quite that bad, but almost. Are you really sure you want me to say it? Not to hold anything back?" "Yes, but lean forward and speak softly; people listen to people in the mall, it's really freaky sometimes." She leaned forward and I saw her breathing speed up and her eyes brighten. I couldn't believe I was becoming aroused just thinking about what I was going to say, I hoped she didn't sense that on my face but I am almost sure she would. "When you were walking away from me I could almost feel how it would be to run my hands all the way up the back of your legs, under your skirt up to that oh, so sweet little bottom and see if it felt as good as it looked as you walked, swinging lovely-wise back and forth." She gripped my hands tighter and I returned it and saw the color rising in her face and a little quiver in her lips. "I closed my eyes and took a deep breath and then opened my eyes again, I wanted to see her reaction. "When you were walking back and your wonderful breasts were bobbing ever so nicely up and down, I wanted my face between them. I wanted to pull your clothing down and taste them each of them every inch and ounce of them and tease your nipples until you shivered and take them in my mouth and pull hard enough to make you push my head away. I wanted my hand between your legs, into the curls, touching, exploring probing and then I wanted my mouth there and..." She pulled her hands away and put them over her breasts, crossed her legs under the table and gasped open mouthed at me, breathing hard and fast, wide eyed and in full blush. "I'm sorry." "Oh, no," she gasped, "not that. I am so hot and turned on I might drag you down to the floor myself if you say even another word! Good God! Just talking never ever made me feel that way before! Wow!" I was pretty turned on myself and tried to let my breathing slow and the heat mellow out and fade away. "I never felt quite like that just talking either. I even tried cyber-sex with a girl in Moscow and that I could get excited just by typing on a keyboard surprised me. That was the first and last time I did it. I felt kind of dirty afterwards, funny feeling, I didn't like it." She leaned forward and gestured for me to take her hands again, I did. "Tell me your name?"

January 21, 1995: Dorothy Joudrie is arrested for attempting to murder her estranged husband. Soon after, Audrey Andrews begins to write her book. Audrey and Dorothy had known each other as children, but the identification of Andrews with Joudrie goes beyond merely the accident of a childhood acquaintance. It has to do with being subjected to the same societal constraints placed on girls and women during the years immediately following World War II, the years in which they had prepared for their adult lives. Expectations, placidly accepted then, are now seen as unrealistic and unreasonable. Did these expectations have some part in causing the tragedy in Dorothy Joudrie's life? When Andrews attempted to understand why Dorothy Joudrie had tried to kill her husband, and to write Joudrie's story, she began to examine her own life, her own expectations — those she had of herself and those others had of her. She also realized that telling the story of anyone is an intricate and often ephemeral pursuit. Any story she wrote could only be her version of Joudrie's experience. Nevertheless, it was important to be as honest as she could about her interpretation of that life. She determined to show carefully and accurately the damage that had been done to one woman — damage that is still being done to many others — through prejudice, attitudes, traditions and the institutions that are still the foundation of our society, and of our lives, everyday. The result is a fascinating account of events leading up to the trial, the trial itself and the effect of Joudrie's trial on the life of Audrey Andrews.

Deadly Canadian Women - Patricia MacQuarrie 2008

Canadian women are not immune from violent behaviour. Some have done the unthinkable and murdered their spouses, their lovers, their children or complete strangers. They come from across Canada and across social backgrounds, and many of their cases have changed the Canadian criminal justice system: * Teresa Senner murdered her lover in a fit of jealous rage when he refused to leave his common-law wife or his three other girlfriends * After killing an undercover officer, Mary Taylor and Elaine Cece were jailed together, inciting a controversy over why the couple was allowed to stay together in prison * In 1999, Deanna Emard killed her husband after a history of abusing him * Danielle Blais, who loved her autistic son, drowned him in the bathtub and then tried to take her own life * While awaiting appeal on an extradition to face trial for the murder of an ex-boyfriend, Dr. Shirley Turner leapt to her death holding her baby * Canada's most famous female killer, Karla Homolka, assisted her husband in the rape and murder of her younger sister and two other teenage girls * Known as the "Torso Murderer," Evelyn Dick killed her husband and threw his dismembered body into a ravine * And more

Voices of Women Writers - Elena Anna Spagnuolo 2023-10-10

This book investigates the practice of writing and self-translating phenomenon of self-translation within the context of mobility, through the analysis of a corpus of narratives written by authors who were born in Italy and then moved to English-speaking countries. Emphasizing writing and self-translating as practices, which exists in conjunction with a process of redefinition of identity, the book illustrates how these authors use language to negotiate and voice their identity in (trans)migratory contexts.

Lives Lived, Lives Imagined - Sabrina Reed 2022-11-04

Perceptive, controversial, topical, and achingly funny, Miriam Toews's books have earned her a place at the forefront of Canadian literature. In this first monograph on Toews's work, Sabrina Reed examines the interplay of trauma and resilience in the author's fiction. Reed skillfully demonstrates how Toews situates resilience across key themes, including: the home as both a source of trauma and an inspiration for resilient action; the road trip as a search for resolution and redemption; and the reframing of the Mennonite diaspora as an escape from patriarchal oppression. The deaths by suicide of Toews's father and sister stand out as the most shocking and tragic of the author's biographical details, and Reed explores Toews's use of autofiction as a reparative gesture in the face of this trauma. Written in an accessible style that will appeal to both scholars and devotees of Toews's work, Lives Lived, Lives Imagined is a timely examination of Toews's oeuvre and a celebration of fiction's ability to simultaneously embody compassion and anger, joy and sadness, and to brave the personal and communal oppressions of politics, religion, family, society, and mental illness.
